

Journal Questions

- What words or images from the story stand out to you, move you, or challenge you?
- The author experienced moment after moment of call—do you love me? Yes. Then visit me, care for me, help me. She called these moments “post-consecration callings” and they often came from unexpected, scary, and broken places. Who or what has called the love out of you, asking for ‘your heart and hands in service’? Draw or write about three moments in your life when you have experienced a sense of “calling.” How did you feel? Did you recognize these moments/people as God at the time?
- Guadalupe appeared to our author dressed as hobos, prisoners, unwed mothers, patients in hospitals, etc. Each time they asked her, “Do you love me?”
- In your life right now, who is God dressing up as? Who is the messenger revealing God’s question to you, “Do you love me?” How do you feel when you are with this person/people? How might God be calling you to show them love through service?
- As you finish your reflection, write your desires and prayer to God/Jesus.
