CHASTITY EDUCATION AND PERSONAL SAFETY CURRICULUM

REVISED 2011
A Curriculum for Christian Education in Sexuality and the Family
Reverend Kris D. Stubna, S.T.D.

CATECHETICAL LEADERSHIP MANUAL

Copyright © 2011
Roman Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh
August 15, 2011

Reverend and Dear Fathers, Parish Life Collaborator, and Esteemed Catechetical Leaders,

It has been nearly twenty years since the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety program was promulgated for use in our Catholic schools and parish religious education programs. This program is a tremendous help to catechists and parents in presenting the Church’s teaching about love, marriage and human sexuality and enables young people to make intelligent choices and decisions regarding their sexuality.

In the Diocese of Pittsburgh the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety program has been the approved program for safe environment education for children, youth and their parents. It has been mandated for use in every parish program of religious education, Catholic school and youth ministry program. This program is fully integrated into the religious education curriculum of our schools and religious education programs in addition to providing specific lesson plans for students in grades 5 to 8, and a required parent meeting. Recently at the suggestion of the safe environment program auditors from the USCCB, we have made several additions to the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety program, namely, a lesson plan on child safety to each of grades 5 through 8, and several specific lessons on child safety for grades Kindergarten through 4.

Additionally, after evaluating the program and receiving input from our catechetical leaders, we have put together information for conducting CVOL Parent Meetings. As you know, a meeting with parents must be held each year before the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety program can be taught. Our hope is that this document will aid catechetical leaders in bringing parents on board with Catholic Church teaching regarding sexuality, so as to enable them to be more fully engaged in the education of their children, especially in this area. The revised program provides a wealth of resources that can be made available to all parents, including those who might not choose to come to the parent meeting. We need to continue our efforts to assist our parents in their responsibility as the primary educator of their children in the ways of faith.

Finally, we have updated the CVOL catechist section and student lessons for grades 5 through 8 in the area of technology use and language, and recent Church documents. We will be conducting in-services for all catechetical and pastoral leaders in the coming months as well as for our teachers and catechists. We need your diligence and leadership in making every effort possible to in-service your teachers and catechists on these revisions so that we can move forward implementing this program fully.

I want to thank Mrs. Judy Kirk, Mrs. Joyce Gillooly, Dr. Robert Paserba, Mr. Jeffrey Hirst and many other staff members of the Secretariat for Catholic Education for their diligent work in completing the revision and updating of this important program.

Your leadership and support in this important matter is appreciated. Together let us work with God’s grace to ensure that our young people will have a knowledge of God’s Truth and the ability to live a life in keeping with God’s plan for human love and chastity.

With every best wish and prayer, I remain,

Sincerely in Christ,

[Signature]

Reverend Kris D. Stubna, S.T.D.
Secretary for Catholic Education
Dear Friends in Christ:

The Church has good news to proclaim about the family, love and human sexuality. This teaching is firmly rooted in sacred scripture and has been constantly taught by the Church through the centuries. Our Holy Father, Pope John Paul II, has consistently urged the Church to make clear "the biblical foundations, ethical grounds and personalistic reasons" for Christian teachings concerning human love and human sexuality (Familiaris Consortio 31). A clear articulation of the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is essential today in order to strengthen the family, to help love endure, and to enable God's people to live faith-filled, joyous and meaningful lives.

These guidelines for Christian education in sexuality and the family are designed to explain the Church's teaching in a way that shows it to be not only true but also urgently needed in today's world. In her most basic teaching of the faith, both for adults and young people, the Church shares the vision of love and sexuality that she has received as part of God's revelation. Here we learn that human sexuality is valued as a profound good, a great gift from God to human beings as part of the created natural order. At the same time, the guidelines reflect the Church's teaching about love and sexuality as an integral part of the catechetical mission of the Church. This is so because intellectual and spiritual formation in a truly Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is a part of education into Catholic faith and life. As such, it should not be separated from the gospel values that permeate full and authentic Catholic teaching. As the guidelines themselves state, the goal of this education is "to present Christ's vision of love and sexuality, and to encourage all to live according to the Good News of his teaching on love, marriage, the family, sexuality and the freedom of self-possession" (p. 11).

In the face of the many teachings about sexuality that are prevalent in contemporary society and that degrade the dignity of the human person, this effort to provide a truly Catholic teaching takes on added significance. It becomes the voice of wisdom in a cacophony of alternate views that stress ways of life that are less than virtuous by promoting selfish feelings and behavior that separate people from God.

The "Catholic Vision of Love" is a total parish program of faith formation directed at families. By fostering strong partnerships with families, the "Catholic Vision of Love" is designed to assist parents in fulfilling their responsibility as the primary educators of their children. Working together, we can give families a solid formation in the Church's teaching on love and sexuality.
These guidelines were prepared with the cooperation of many experts in this diocesan family. In particular, I want to express gratitude to the staff of the secretariat for education who labored diligently in bringing them to completion. A special word of thanks is given to Dr. Kenneth Garver, chairman of the human sexuality advisory committee; Father Ronald Lawler, OFM Cap., general editor of these guidelines; and Father Kris Stubna, secretary for education.

As the guidelines apply the teaching of Christ and his Church to the pressing needs of our time, let us pray that the Spirit of God will guide, inspire and strengthen us. As these guidelines profess, the Catholic vision of love and sexuality "enables us to escape the despair that causes so many in this materialistic age to abandon the hope of finding a generous and joyful love, such as God intended us to find and to live" (p. 2).

With the hope that God will prosper this effort and with every good wish and prayer, I am

Faithfully in Christ,

Bishop of Pittsburgh

August 15, 1994
Feast of the Assumption
Vatican OKs diocesan chastity program

By MIKE AQUILINA

Two high-ranking Vatican officials have examined and approved all curriculum materials for the Diocese of Pittsburgh's chastity-education program, The Catholic Vision of Love.

Cardinal Jose Sanchez, prefect of the Congregation for the Clergy, and Archbishop Crescenzio Sepe, secretary, co-signed a letter of approval addressed to Bishop Donald Wuerl and dated Jan. 10. A letter co-signed by two Vatican officials signifies a "definitive judgment."

"The study of these materials," the prelates wrote, "has brought the Congregation to the conclusion that they are in conformity with the doctrinal and pedagogical principles as contained in the conciliar and post-conciliar Magisterium of the Catholic Church."

The Catholic Vision of Love is a comprehensive curriculum for teaching Catholic doctrine on human sexuality and family life. It has been developed over the last eight years, in response to requests for such programs by recent popes and by the Second Vatican Council.

Diocesan secretary for education Father Kris Stubna was "very pleased" to receive the letter.

"We've worked to develop materials that would serve the needs of parents and of the teaching Church," he told the Pittsburgh Catholic.

"Good parents are bound to be concerned about what their children are taught regarding sexuality," Fr. Stubna added. "This letter should put them at ease."

The congregation reviewed all four completed documents of The Catholic Vision of Love — "Guidelines for Christian Education in Sexuality and the Family"; 12 units of lessons for students in grades 5-8; a compilation of teachers' notes; and Talking to Youth about Sexuality, the parents' guide to the program.

Fr. Stubna explained that Bishop Wuerl had routinely submitted the documents to the Vatican congregation.

"He submits all our major diocesan documents," the priest said. "It's an important way of sharing the good news in the Church."

The Catholic Vision of Love is considered the most comprehensive program of its kind developed by an American diocese. It is based on authoritative documents of the Church.
Nihil Obstat: Reverend Joseph Kleppner, S.T.L., Ph.D.
Imprimatur: Most Reverend John B. McDowell, V.G., Ph.D.
  Auxiliary Bishop and Vicar General, Diocese of Pittsburgh
  July 16, 1996.

The Nihil Obstat and the Imprimatur are declarations that this work is considered to be free from doctrinal or moral error. It is not implied that those who have granted the same agree with the contents, opinions, or statements expressed.

The Ad Hoc Committee to Oversee the Use of the Catechism, United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, has found this catechetical text (student text), revised edition copyright © 1996, 2002, 2011 to be in conformity with the Catechism of the Catholic Church. The Ad Hoc Committee to Oversee the Use of the Catechism, United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, has found the doctrinal content of this teacher manual, revised edition copyright © 1996, 2002, 2011, to be in conformity with the Catechism of the Catholic Church.

Unless otherwise indicated, Scripture selections in this work are taken from the Revised Standard Version Bible, Catholic Edition, © 1965 and 1966 by the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America, and used by permission of the copyright owner. Some prayers are taken from the Handbook of Prayers, © 1992, 1995 by Scepter Publishers, Inc., and Midwest Theological Forum. Images provided by © 1994 Photodisc, Inc. Every reasonable effort has been made to determine copyright holders and to secure permissions as needed. If any copyrighted materials have been inadvertently used in this work without proper credit being given in one manner or another, please notify Our Sunday Visitor in writing so that future printings of this work may be corrected accordingly.

Revised Edition copyright © 2011 by Roman Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh

Cover design by Debbie Skatell-Wehner
Interior design by Sherri L. Hoffman

Printed in the United States of America
Table of Contents

I. Guidelines

II. Implementation
   - Content Focus
   - Diocesan Safe Environment Policy
   - Safe Environment Curriculum

III. Meeting with Parish & School Catechetical Leadership
   - Explanation of Catechetical Leadership Training Webinar
   - Webinar Outline

IV. Catechist Preparation
   - Integrated into Basic Certification-Morality Component
   - One-Day Workshop, Outline
   - Guidelines for Catechists

V. Parent Meeting
   - Goals of Parent Meeting
   - Motivating Parents to Attend
   - Letter to Parents
   - Sample Bulletin Announcement
   - History
   - Foundational Principles
   - Guidelines for Parents
   - Parent Resources
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foundation</td>
<td>II</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goals</td>
<td>III</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Theology</td>
<td>IV</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Education</td>
<td>V</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Family</td>
<td>VI</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Integration</td>
<td>VII</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adult Education</td>
<td>VIII</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Child Education</td>
<td>IX</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Teen Education</td>
<td>X</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Needs</td>
<td>XI</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For Teachers</td>
<td>XII</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appendices</td>
<td>XIII</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A. The preparation of these guidelines

B. Using media with The Catholic Vision of Love
These Guidelines seek to apply the teachings of Christ and of His Church to pressing needs of the time.

God Himself created us male and female. He called us to find in love and marriage the fulfillment of deep desires, which He Himself planted in our hearts. In marriage as well as in chastity, accepted for the sake of the Kingdom, God has provided ways in which generous love is made to last, homes made strong, children protected, and the most basic of human goods guarded.

The Church has good news to proclaim about the family, and about human love and sexuality. The Church is called to make clear “the biblical foundations, the ethical grounds, and the personalistic reasons” (Pope John Paul II, The Christian Family in the Modern World [Familiaris Consortio], n. 31) for the Christian teaching that she hands on concerning human love and sexuality.

In her most basic teaching of the faith, both to adults and to young people, the Church must teach in appropriate ways the vision of love and sexuality that she has received from her Lord as a gift to all the faithful. These Guidelines then present the Church’s teaching about love, marriage, and the home as what it truly is: an integral part of the catechetical task of the Church. They give guidance to all who assist in handling on the message of faith.

Pastoral guidance from the Church

Christian teaching about sexuality is true and it is liberating. It heartens people to live their lives with generous love in furthering the basic good things for the sake of which God has made us sexual beings. It enables us to escape the despair that causes so many in the materialistic age to abandon the hope of finding a generous and joyful love such as God intended us to find and to live.

Catholic teaching on sexuality

In our own day the Church has spoken forcefully and clearly of the very meaning of sexuality. This comes in the face of many bitter and inhuman teachings about sexuality that are focused widely today. She has taught also the moral principles that should guide our consciences and our lives if sexuality is to be the blessing that God intended it to be.

The doctrine taught in these Guidelines is that of the Church herself. It is rooted in Scripture; it has been constantly taught in the family of faith; and it has been found in the experience of faith over the centuries to be essential for strengthening the family, for making love endure, and for the defense of lives lived in faith and in love.

Among the more important Church documents that should be familiar to all who teach about sexuality in the Church’s name are:
The Church has good news to proclaim about the family....

Catholic teaching on education in chastity

Catholic teaching on the nature, goals, and proper principles for education on the meaning of sexuality, chastity, and the family can be found in the following sources:

II. FOUNDATION

These Guidelines are centered around eight foundational principles.

1. Education in the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is education in an integral part of Catholic faith and life. It is formation in ways of living that are inseparable from the Gospel. Education in human sexuality is inseparable from our overall faith education and formation.

   This education is not only instructional. It addresses also the emotions and the whole person. The purpose of this education is to move a person to exercise a personal freedom to choose ways of living that are faithful to the Gospel call. Thus, its concern is to prepare students to have the ability to make intelligent choices regarding their sexuality; to help them integrate their attitudes toward sexuality with their faith and their whole vision of life; and to enable them to acquire self-possession and to exercise authentic freedom.

2. There are certain doctrinal and moral teachings of faith that underlie the program. These basic tenets illumine ways of living our personal lives and of shaping our love and affection in Christian ways. That is, the program emphasizes a positive vision of what human love and sexuality mean — a vision that flows from the Word of God and the teachings of the Church. These basic tenets would include:

   - The human person is made in the image of God. In our masculinity and femininity God has given us ways to imitate the personal goodness that is at the heart of the very life of God.
   - Sexuality is God’s work. It is something very good. Much of the joy and energy of human life flow from a recognition of the goodness of all dimensions of the being the Father has given us, including our sexuality.
   - Sexuality is to be understood in the context of human fulfillment. By our very nature, we long for the good things that we need to have happy and fully human lives. By our nature, we seek to escape the loneliness of the human condition and find “enduring love” — a love that gives all of itself to another.
   - Sexuality is a natural sacrament, or a visible sign of what enduring love means and needs to be among human persons. All our longing is indeed toward a richness we know that we cannot quite express. Thus, it is God we must first learn to love with all our heart. In learning to love Him, we learn to love one another.
   - Those sexual acts which faith has always taught to be sinful (such as masturbation, adultery, homosexual activity, contraception, and all extramarital sexual activity) are truly immoral. They are not simply forbidden; they are in truth bad kinds of acts. They use sexuality in ways that fail to respect the very meaning and purposes of sexuality. They keep people from obtaining the good things for the sake of which God created sexuality. They undermine the dignity and happiness of human life.
3. There are certain major practical problems that must be faced today. An education in human sexuality must treat these problems effectively. These problems include AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, the rise in teenage pregnancies, abortion, and a variety of promiscuous attitudes. Our young people's understanding of love and sexuality is dramatically affected by a culture caught up in materialism, hedonism, unbelief, and even despair. However, while the program will face these contemporary issues, its primary focus is not one of avoiding certain grave moral evils but one of positively guiding people toward living excellent lives in all that touches love, affectivity, and personal relationships.

4. Sexual education is primarily the responsibility of the parents. Thus, an education in love and sexuality will be effective only to the extent that parents cooperate and take an active role. The aim of the teachers is to assist parents to help them to communicate with their children in these matters. The principle of subsidiarity reminds us that such tasks are only effectively accomplished if the essential smaller units, in this case families, are doing their tasks. The program is meant to cooperate with parents and not substitute for them. On the other hand, teaching is so critical in this area, it simply cannot be taken for granted that parents are capable of doing it on their own with no assistance from the Church.

5. Human sexuality education is to be integrated with education in Catholic faith and life generally. The education will be designed to be integrated into the religion curriculum itself. This will be a total parish program involving both Catholic school and Religious Education programs.

6. Only those who can and do agree with Catholic teaching in these matters can be permitted to teach The Catholic Vision of Love. There is a need for adequate catechist formation and training prior to beginning the actual teaching of this material.

7. Education and materials need to be provided for parents and other adults. Assistance should be given to the clergy who will be instrumental in the implementation of this past orally important education. The media, the internet and contemporary pressures tend to press all people toward attitudes and practices which contradict Christian principles. The whole community needs to get a firmer grasp on basic Catholic moral principles if it is to communicate these principles effectively to its young members.

8. Education in the proper use of media is an indispensable part of any effort at human sexuality education.
III. GOALS

Christ is the Teacher of life. He came that we might “have life, and have it abundantly” (John 10:10).

This program aims at assisting all to lead richer and happier lives by following Christ’s guidance in walking in the ways of love. He is the best teacher about such basic realities. We learn from Him about the kind of love that can endure in this world, about the home and family, about the preciousness of life and of chaste and human love.

The principal goal of The Catholic Vision of Love is:

To present Christ’s vision of love and sexuality, and to encourage all to live according to the Good News of His teaching on love, marriage, the family, sexuality, and the freedom of self possession.

All the other goals and objectives follow from this principal goal. These more specific goals are:

- To show that God is our Father, the Creator of all our being: that our sexuality is God’s rich gift, which affects all that we are and serves precious human goods, when it is understood in the light of Christ’s gracious teaching.
- To stress the sublime importance of every person and the essential equality of all persons; and to show that each one is called to greatness of heart and to friendship with the Lord.
- To teach the profound Christian motives for reverence for every person, and for a healthy self-esteem; to make clear how precious every person is to God, and how by God’s grace each is capable of living the excellent ways Christ makes known.
- To guide all toward a fuller understanding of what Christ teaches in His Church about sexual morality and self possession, and to assist them in seeing how good Christ’s teaching is, and how important it is to shape our consciences to live in His ways.
- To lead all toward understanding and acceptance of all the dimensions of our human lives: spiritual, moral, psychological, physical, emotional, sexual, intellectual, and social.
- To seek to guard all from exploitation by providing a clear understanding of everything one needs to know about sexuality to be secure and fortified to live in this contemporary world.
- To support all persons in their efforts to acquire the skills, insights, and virtues they need to have confidence and peace in leading chaste lives.
- To motivate and assist all to follow Christ’s vision of love, guarding all the good things God intended sexuality to serve, in lives enriched by heeding the commandments and beatitudes, and by doing the works of mercy.
IV. THEOLOGY

The Catholic Vision of Love is rooted in the Scriptures. It has been taught in the Church through the centuries and faithfully presented for our time in the documents of the Second Vatican Council and in other recent Church documents. Christ continues to teach in the family of faith, and His teaching is true and liberating. Through this teaching He defends indispensable human goods that serve both human happiness and the dignity of the person.

Scriptural roots

The teachings of the Church about marriage and sexuality can be traced through their development in both the Old and New Testaments.

Old Testament

There is a religious context to the Old Testament teaching on sexuality and sexual morality.

The Old Testament understanding of sexuality is deeply related to its understanding of God. The God of revelation is very different from pagan gods such as Baal. This difference is reflected in the distinctive nature of sexual morality in revealed teaching. In the myth of Baal, the gods themselves are sexual beings, capable, as fallen beings are, of selfish and unrestrained lust. Pagan fertility cults presented sex, even its selfish and cruel manifestations, as participation in the divine. But the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob is not like Baal: He is not sinful and selfish as we can be; He is different, and altogether good. We are flawed, and inclined toward behaving badly. But God calls us to be His friends, and so to lead good lives, after the pattern He teaches us.

Though not every kind of sexuality activity is good, the Old Testament sees sexuality itself as good. Sexuality has intelligent purposes and deserves to be treated with reverent care. It is the gift of an all-good and transcendent Creator. This is the thrust of each of the narratives in Genesis of the creation of man and woman.

Human beings are not created to be isolated individuals. “It is not good that the man should be alone” (Genesis 2:18). The two accounts of the origins of male and female, and indeed also of marriage, in the book of Genesis, Chapters 1 and 2, each stress different goods that sexuality furthers. The account in Genesis, Chapter 2, speaks of the great good of interpersonal love, of the need of each bodily person for another with whom to share life. It calls for spousal love to be a kind of love like the Lord’s that is full of generosity and self-giving. The account of Genesis, Chapter 1, stresses the procreative good, which later inspired writings will celebrate so richly: the joy that children are to parents.
Thus for the Old Testament, sex is a blessing from God. Celebrated with great joy in the Song of Solomon, sexuality is yet a reality to be responsibly controlled. Human beings are to integrate their sexuality by understanding its meaning and purposes. Throughout the Old Testament marriage is presented as something holy. The sexual relationship in marriage should mirror the relationship between God and His people. This is a reciprocal relationship: What we learn, by experience or revelation, teaches us about God's covenantal love; and what God teaches us of that love reveals what spousal love should be like.

The Old Testament’s moral precepts about sexuality, as contained in the Decalogue, are right and good; but they reflect the imperfection of a not fully developed state of moral revelation and teaching. But clearly the Old Testament recognizes the great dignity of wife and mother. Wisdom literature repeatedly counsels husbands and wives to love one another truly and and to be faithful to one another. It urges young men to live chastely, avoiding harlots and wayward women, as paganism did not. Faithful, lifelong marriage is the normative context for sexual love.

The Old Testament clearly condemns many of the kinds of sexual acts that do not further faithful love and the procreative good, and threaten marriage. It condemns adultery, and homosexual and bestial acts; it rejects all activity that surrenders to impulse rather than governs sexuality by love of authentic goods; implicitly it rejects fornication (sexual intercourse between unmarried persons) and it forbids the internal act of “coveting thy neighbor’s wife.” The moral teaching of the Old Testament is clearly no mere expression of Semitic culture and social conditions. Other Semitic people accepted the myths of Baal and the sexual morality of other nations. It was their covenant with the Lord that led the Jews to so sublime an understanding of sexuality.

New Testament

The Good News that Christ taught puts all things, even sexuality, in a new light. This new perspective is seen very clearly in the new evaluation of celibacy and virginity accepted willingly for the sake of the Kingdom (see Matthew 19:12).
Of course, the New Testament takes for granted the teachings of the Old Testament on the goodness of sexuality and on the beauty of faithful marriage.
But the Gospel advances these teachings to a more profound level of understanding.

Generally speaking, the Old Testament clearly disapproves of divorce (see Malachi 2:16) and in the Gospel Christ clearly condemns divorce and remarriage.
Human acts of divorcing cannot break the indissoluble bond of valid marriage. It would be adultery to live as married to a partner who is not a real spouse (see Luke 16:18). Christ points out that the man who divorces his wife and marries commits adultery against her. His teaching seeks to guard the rights of women, their personal dignity, and equality with men.

For Jesus, sexual morality if not merely a matter of external behavior, but one of a person’s internal disposition and will as well. “Everyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart” (Matthew 5:28). Evil acts coming from the heart, are what corrupt a person. These evil acts are said to include adultery (moicheia), fornication (porneia), and sensuality (aselgeia) (Matthew 15:19; Mark 7:21-22). There are difficulties in analyzing the precise sense of each word. But it is clear that lustful acts include more than adultery. Porneia is used in the New Testament to include acts properly designated by the English term fornication.

The writings attributed to Saint Paul also illumine faith’s vision of sexuality. Writing to Gentiles living in a pagan world, affected both by licentiousness and by an antisequal Gnosticism, Paul stresses the goodness of marriage and of sexual union within marriage. Everything is to be experienced “in the Lord,” including their sexuality and their married lives. The holiness of marriage, and its sacramental ties with the love of Christ for His Church, are stressed in Ephesians 5:22-23.

All is transformed by Christ. Our bodies need reverence: They are members of Christ and temples of the Spirit. But since sexual immorality affects the Christian person in so intimate and bodily a way, it is a sacrilegious desecration of the body of Christ and the temple of the Holy Spirit. “Shun immorality. Every other sin which a man commits is outside the body; but the immoral man sins against his own body” (1 Corinthians 6:18).

Because authentic human love and marriage are such indispensable goods for ordinary Christian living, sexual sins have a tragic seriousness. Like the Gospels, Paul too gives a list of sexual sins and notes how fearful are their consequences. “Neither the immoral, not idolaters, nor adulterers, nor homosexuals…will inherit the kingdom of God” (1 Corinthians 6:9-10). Hence chaste hearts and self-possession are necessary for the Christian. The form of life that guards spousal love, homes, and the family, and nourishes enduring love, is the form of life that is needed both for human happiness on earth and for finding relationships with God that make one worthy of life forever in Him.

Bibliographical notes: Some studies helpful for grasping the vision of sexuality found in Scripture include:

Catholic teaching through the centuries

Catholics are heirs to a long theological tradition. From apostolic times to the present, that tradition has taught, and continues to teach, that the union of man and woman in marriage is good and indeed holy. It teaches that the virtue of chastity is necessary for all persons, male and female, married and unmarried, so that they may fully have self-possession and not be controlled by lustful forms of sexual desire. It teaches that some specific forms of sexuality activity — namely, adultery, fornication, and sodomy, for example — are incompatible with the form of living appropriate to a person who has become one body with Christ through Baptism. It teaches what the Church learned from Scripture and has always taught: All acts of marital love should be open to life, and so respect the very meaning and purposes that God has given to sexuality. Hence those forms of family planning that are contraceptive are wrong. They deliberately seek to destroy the life-giving power of acts of marital love.

The Fathers drew their sexual teaching from the Scriptures, and applied it to the pastoral problems of their times. Against Gnosticism, they taught the holiness of marriage, and because of its anti-life spirit the Fathers stressed the procreative purpose of marriage. In a pagan world they extolled the greatness of a virginity generously lived for the Kingdom, but it had to be always rooted in the context of reverence for marriage and the family. The misery experienced in the pagan world as a result of a lust that destroyed homes and the hope for enduring love led the Fathers to develop more fully scriptural teaching on the fallen state of the human person: Sexual appetite, while itself good, had been notably wounded by sin.

The important work of the medieval, modern, and contemporary scholars in developing the Gospel vision of sexuality can be studied in some of the works cited in the bibliography section at the end of this chapter.

Magisterial teaching

Catholics believe that Christ Himself continues to teach in His Church. He *commanded those He sent to proclaim the Gospel and His saving precepts to all nations. He promised that He would remain with them always in their teaching. The Church believes that the pope and bishops, successors to Saint Peter and the other apostles, teach moral matters authoritatively, and sometimes infallibly, since Christ teaches through them. Moral teaching is infallible not only when it is solemnly defined (very few moral matters are so defined), but also through the ordinary teaching of the Magisterium, when all the bishops and the pope teach in one accord something in morals that is to be held definitively (Second Vatican Council, Dogmatic Constitution on the Church (Lumen Gentium), n. 25).

What the Church teaches infallibly, we are to accept with firm faith; what she teaches authoritatively, we are to accept with internal religious assent, and to follow that teaching in our lives (ibid.).

Early councils taught firmly the goodness of marriage. The Second and Fourth Lateran Councils defended the goodness of the marital union against the challenge of medieval neo-Gnostics. The Council of Florence affirmed that marriage is a sacrament, and proclaimed Augustine’s teaching on the three basic goods of marriage: 1) the begetting of children, and educating them to love God; 2) the faithful love of husband and wife for each other; and 3) the indissoluble union of the spouses, mirroring Christ’s indissoluble love for His Church. Councils did not need to define the constant teaching of the Church on the sinfulness of adultery and other sexual sins that were part of the ordinary teaching of the Church everywhere, and hence decisively part of faith’s teaching.
The moral teachings of the Church touching sexuality were presented by the bishops and their priests, and received by the people, as the teaching of the Lord. When Christendom was divided at the Reformation, the new Christian communities continued to teach the moral teachings, so rooted in Scripture and so familiar to the people of God. Obviously, not all were faithful to these teachings; but their authority was not rejected. But as philosophies alien to Christianity became more influential in the thought and practice of the world, authentic Catholic teaching had to articulate with greater care the message it had received and had a duty to teach. Pope Leo XIII and Pope Pius XI, for example, set forth the Christian vision of marriage and of sexuality in a number of encyclicals.

But in our own time, facing strong attacks on the family, misunderstandings of chaste love, new forms of hedonism and of moral skepticism, the Church has sought to hearten her people with strong defenses of Catholic teaching about marriage, the family, the meaning and purposes of sexuality, and the gifts God gives to make possible living the excellent ways that guard indispensable human goods. The Second Vatican Council spoke forcefully of the whole Christian vision in this matter, and later Church documents have further illumined and defended the Catholic vision of love and sexuality.

Church directives to theologians, pastors, catechists, and pastoral leaders regularly and rightly insist that authoritative teaching is to be faithfully adhered to even if one should have certain difficulties with it at times. The Instruction from the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith entitled The Ecclesial Vocation of Theologians (1990) gives excellent advice for pastoral practice when these kinds of difficulties occur. Two things remain important: to be faithful to the teachings of the faith, and to be gentle and helpful to those who have been scandalized or who have erred. One strives to help them recapture the vision of faith.

Bibliography: Selected Church documents in sexual ethics include:

Congregation for Catholic Education. The Pastoral Care of Homosexual Persons (1986).

SUMMARY

Doctrinal teachings

1. We are created in God’s own image. God made us male and female; our sexuality is good because it is from Him, and it serves basic human goods, especially spousal love, and newness of life.

2. God is the author of marriage. It did not flow from merely human choices or cultural conditions. God also wished marriage to have certain essential traits needed to guard spousal love and other human goods: unity, indissolubility, exclusiveness, openness to life, sacramentality.

3. Christ has raised marriage to the dignity of a Christian sacrament. Marital love should reflect the qualities of God’s love for His people and Christ’s love for His Church. As a sacred sign, matrimony is a gift through which God promises assistance to His people, assuring them that despite the many trials married people may face, they will be able to be faithful to God in their marital commitment if they seek His gracious help.

4. The marital act is good and sanctifying when in marriage it is an expression of marital love. But the proper place for sexual intercourse is always within marriage.

5. Christian teaching is good news for the family. Its doctrinal and moral principles serve to strengthen marriages and homes, and through these the happiness of people, who need secure marital commitments and faithful love within the family if their lives are to have the happiness they seek.

6. All valid and sacramental marriages have an indissolubility; it is not within any human person’s power to dissolve them. Faith teaches, however, that God grants the Church authority in certain cases to dissolve marriages that are not sacramental (e.g., the Pauline privilege) or that are not consummated. Sacramental marriages that been consummated are entirely indissoluble. God does not grant even to His Church the power to dissolve such marriages for any reason. Declarations of nullity are not divorces or dissolutions of a marriage. They are judgment that an apparent valid marriage was, in fact, because of serious cause (e.g., the inability of one of the partners to consent to the marriage), never a truly sacramental marriage.
7. In the sacrament of matrimony, and in the other sacraments, and in the gifts flowing from prayer, God offers to His people the power to lead lives of faithful love in marriage. God makes it possible for people to lead excellent lives in marriage, so that their hopes for lasting love, and for divine assistance in caring for their children, and for living peaceful lives in divine grace may be realized.

8. Sexuality is a gift of deep importance to human life. It is not a trivial reality, and needs to be treated with reverent care. Christian teaching on sexuality guards indispensable human goods: the hope of enduring love, the protection of children and the procreative good generally, the defense of the basic social unit, the home, the care for the sacramental dimensions of human love.

Moral teachings

Objective norms

- The excellence of sexual love in its proper context. Conjugal love “is uniquely expressed and perfected through the marital act. The actions within marriage by which the couple are united intimately and chastely are noble and worthy ones” (Second Vatican Council, Gaudium et Spes, n. 49). While spouses are indebted to each other in this matter, they should engage in such acts freely and willingly, in ways that show mutual respect, and further the ends of marital love.

- Sins against marital values. Those acts which involve choices directly against the basic values toward which sexuality is ordered are always objectively sinful. Thus, acts of adultery, fornication, homosexual actions, masturbation, and the like are gravely sinful if they are engaged in with sufficient knowledge and freedom (Persona Humana, n. 10). Similarly, acts intended precisely to stir up sexual arousal (e.g., lustful forms of kissing or fondling) in circumstances unrelated to marital love are gravely disordered.

- Contraception and sterilization. The Church is certainly aware of the many complex problems which couples in many countries face today in their task of transmitting life in a responsible way. However, consideration in depth of these problems offers a new and stronger confirmation of the importance of the authentic teaching on birth regulation reproposed in the Second Vatican Council (Gaudium et Spes, n. 51) and in the encyclical Humanae Vitae, n. 14. See also Pope John Paul II, Familiaris Consortio, n. 31. Hence there must be excluded as intrinsically immoral “every action which, either in anticipation of the conjugal act, or in its accomplishment, or in the development of its natural consequences, proposes, whether as an end or a means, to render procreation impossible” (Humanae Vitae, n. 14). (See also what is said below under “Pastoral considerations,” nn.1-3.)

---

The Catholic Vision of Love .............................................................................................................................. SECTION ONE • Guidelines
Natural family planning. This does not mean that all family planning is excluded, however. Providentially, effective forms of natural family planning have been developed, which in their moral structure are radically different from contraception (Familiaris Consortio, n. 32). These may be used without fault in proper circumstances (ibid.) The Catholic community has a duty to make accessible to its people the assistance that natural family planning can provide for living a chaste life.

Artificial generation of children. Although the Church commends those who seek to help the apparently infertile to have the children they desire, it points out the inhumanity and wrongness of some forms of generating children, notably, artificial insemination and in vitro fertilization. Human life should come to be as a fruit of an act of interpersonal and fully human love, as the fruit of an act of marital love. It should never be reduced to a technological “making of a child, even if this producing of a child has good motivation. (See Instruction on Respect for Human Life in its Origin [1987].)

Pastoral considerations

Importance of moral truth. Many circumstances in the contemporary world make it difficult for the faithful to recognize the truth of the certain teachings of faith in this area. Hence, it is important that those who teach Catholic sexual morality seek to present “the biblical foundations, the ethical grounds, and the personalistic reasons behind this doctrine” (Familiaris Consortio, n. 31). Since the Church teaches a revealed morality, and the faithful are powerfully moved by their confidence in the teaching of Christ, the certainty that this is the teaching of Christ in His Church is to be made as clear as possible. But other kinds of reasons are also needed. It is important to show that the teachings of faith are not merely laws imposed by the Lord or by the Church; they are moral teachings that point out excellent ways of living, and guard human goods of indispensable importance for human happiness. It is necessary also to show that the Lord indeed makes it possible for His faithful to live in this excellent way. Moral teachings, moreover, are never imposed by force. They are addressed to the freedom of persons, and they enhance the personal dignity of those who willingly live by them.

Subjective considerations. Sins of lust, such as fornication and masturbation, are objectively gravely sinful. This does not mean that those who perform such acts always sin mortally. It is quite possible in this field that those who perform such acts may be excused from grave sin because of failures to realize the gravity of the matter or because they substantially lack freedom in the actions performed. Pastoral wisdom is needed in giving guidance especially to the young in these matters. One should be realistic in estimating moral responsibility.

Modern psychology has much that is valid and useful to offer on the subject of masturbation. It is helpful for gauging responsibility more accurately and for directing pastoral action along the right lines. It can enable one to understand how adolescent immaturity, which sometimes outlasts adolescence, the lack of psychological balance, and ingrained habit can influence a person’s behavior, diminishing one’s responsibility for one’s actions, with the result that a person is not always guilty of subjectively grave fault. But the absence of grave responsibility must not always be presumed. To suppose that would involve a failure to recognize the human person’s ability to behave morally (Persona Humana, n. 9). The principles noted here are, of course, applicable to other sexual sins as well.

Objective truth. Pastoral care is concerned with more than subjective guilt or innocence in this matter. Catholic moral teaching speaks the truth about how we are to live and please God, and guides us correctly toward the excellent forms of life which are needed for human happiness and which will lead to holiness of life. Lustful actions are really harmful for human beings, even if they are not known to be bad and even when they are not morally imputable to the one performing the action. God has taught us how we are to live, and has instructed the Church to teach the faithful in His ways, because they are good. And because it is good to walk in the light of the Lord, “To diminish in no way the saving teaching of Christ constitutes an eminent form of charity for souls” (Humanae Vitae, n. 7).

Providing gracious assistance. Pastoral teaching does not merely instruct the faithful in their duties, but also offers them the practical helps that enable them to experience that the excellent ways of living are not excessively burdensome (cf. Matthew 11:28-30). The experience of confessors has long been that those who come to a personal desire to do God’s will faithfully in these matters find that God does not fail them. In fact, they become able to keep His precepts without overwhelming difficulty. They need to realize that God’s grace is very strong, and that prayer and the sacraments are powerful supports to a chaste and self-possessed life. Practical assistance is greatly needed: Spouses need to have excellent instruction in natural family planning that is readily accessible.
Young people often need specific help in understanding ways to conquer temptation; they need assistance in psychologically sound ways to overcome problems that underlie their moral difficulties.

Social dimensions. Difficulties with chastity often have social dimensions.
Pastoral care must teach the faithful, especially the young, ways to overcome the pressures of peers and of the media. It is important that the faithful realize the naturalness and goodness of a life of self-possession. We must help them realize how many people do live chaste lives in tranquility and joy.

Self-esteem. Education in chastity requires that we assist people to have a right self-esteem (which is entirely compatible with humility). Indeed, it is awareness of the goodness that God has planted in their hearts, and the greatness that they have because of the love of Christ, that heartens people to pursue excellent forms of life that serve the most indispensable of human goods. Although we teach the grave sinfulness of certain disordered sexual acts, we do not teach people that they are worthless because they have sinned. Rather, we must constantly hearten people to trust in the powerful grace of the Lord, and to have confidence that He will give them power to live as the sons and daughters of God that they are called to be.

Conscience. Catholic sexual ethics must be taught in a context that respects the general moral teachings of the faith. Thus, it must be supported by sound teaching on conscience, and on the duty to form conscience properly. It is necessary to teach it in a context that recognizes the ability of people to live, with the assistance of God’s grace, by His saving precepts, even when they appear difficult. Catholic teaching on mortal sin must be respected. Mortal sin is a tragic evil. By it persons whom Christ died to save can separate themselves from the love of God and the secure hope of eternal life. A mortal sin is a gravely wrong kind of act (an act like adultery, fornication, or perjury) which is done with sufficient reflection and with full consent of the will. Venial sins are acts that are not so gravely wrong, or are performed without sufficient knowledge or freedom. To enable the faithful to grasp clearly and to appreciate moral teachings of the Church involves notable difficulties in our contemporary age. But the teachings of faith are strong defenses for good human lives and person happiness. They hearten people to acquire the generosity that the Gospel calls for in those who seek eternal life. To teach well such matters is a great work of love.

Bibliography. Studies useful for grasping the Catholic vision of love and sexuality in the light of the spirit of Vatican II and the pastoral considerations stressed in our time:

V. EDUCATION

The Catholic program speaking of education in sexuality should first of all assist us in understanding what faith itself teaches us about our sexuality, about our being men and women. It presents the insistent teaching of faith that sexuality, made by God, is good, and serves excellent purposes, although, like other good realities, it can be abused and treated sinfully.

Our attitudes towards sexuality and right moral conduct are deeply affected by cultural pressures. The media today bring to our homes and to our lives factors that deeply affect our convictions and our conduct. Christians need to learn to handle these media intelligently. In a fallen, sinful world sexual misconduct is not rare and many are inclined to despair of attaining self-possession and the freedom which self-discipline brings with it. A good sexuality education makes clear the many resources that God has given to make really possible for us a life of fulfillment and happiness, a life of chaste self-possession and freedom.

Sexuality education speaks also of various kinds of harm to be avoided by intelligent self-discipline and good living. Thus, it treats the bitter problems of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, teenage pregnancies, abortion, broken homes and families, and other physical harms that often follow from using sexuality unwisely. But its focus is on the richness of life that God intended human persons to have in the right use of sexuality, and on heartening people to lead their lives in ways that direct them toward genuine fulfillment.

Different sense of “sexuality”

Sexuality itself has different senses. At times “sexuality” has a very broad meaning. We are sexual beings. Our being male or female is deeply rooted in us, and concerns far more than our inclination to distinctively sexual activities and matters closely related to them. All the dimensions of our life are affected by our being male or female. The dynamism associated with being sexual in this broader sense extends to all areas of life. In this broader sense, sexuality speaks of all the emotional and affective ties that tend to bind human beings together in many kinds of friendships and affectionate concerns.

In its narrower sense, sexuality refers either to the biological aspects of being male or female (i.e., as a synonym for one’s gender) or activities, emotions, feelings, or indeed anything clearly related to genital sexual activity or sexual pleasure. Some documents prefer to reserve the word “sexuality” for the broader sense noted above, and to use the word “sex” for this latter sense of the word (cf. USCC, Human Sexuality: A Catholic Perspective [1990], p. 9).
Diverse aspects of sexuality education

Sexuality education is concerned with sexuality in both the broader and narrower sense. It speaks of the morality of sexual activity: its moral goodness in the committed love of marriage; its moral badness when it is separated from the committed faithful love, and the openness to new life that is should express. It speaks of the reasons why a chaste life can be an excellent and full life, and it addresses both the general and the distinctively Christian motives for leading a chaste life.

Even in its narrower sense, sexuality education speaks of the great goods for the sake of which God gave human persons sexuality: the good of enduring personal love that heals the loneliness of the human spirit; the procreative good which makes fruitful in the child the love shared by spouses; the rich goodness of the family; and the blessings that flow from keeping the family strong. It is in terms of the good things to which sexuality is ordered that the truth of Christian moral teachings about sexual activity can be properly understood.
VI. FAMILY

These Guidelines wholeheartedly support the traditional Catholic teaching that parents are by right the primary educators of their children, in teaching about love and sexuality as well as other areas. The Christian community owes parents assistance in their task of providing a good education to their children.

Pope John Paul II emphasized the principle that parents are called to be the primary educators of their children:

The right and duty of parents to give education is essential, since it is connected with the transmission of human life; it is original and primary with regard to the educational role of others on account of the uniqueness of the loving relationship between parents and children; and it is irreplaceable and inalienable and therefore incapable of being entirely delegated to others or usurped by others. In addition to those characteristics, it cannot be forgotten that the most basic element, so basic that it qualifies the educational role of parents, is parental love, which finds fulfillment in the task of education as it completes and perfects its service of life. As well as being a source, the parents’ love is also the animating principle and therefore the norm inspiring and guiding all concrete educational activity, enriching it with the values of kindness, constancy, goodness, service, disinterestedness, and self-sacrifice that the most precious fruit of love (Familiaris Consortio, n. 36.)

The Pontifical Council for the Family has emphasized this point in its document The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality: “This right also implies an educational duty. If in fact parents do not give adequate formation in chastity, they are failing in their precise duty” (n. 44; see as well nos. 37-49).

Parents especially are called to hand on the faith and the Christian pattern of life to the next generation. To do this well, parents must be adequately formed in the faith. The more securely parents themselves possess the Catholic vision of love, the more effectively they can pass it on to their children. The National Directory for Catechesis stresses the importance of the home in all areas of education and catechesis.

The vital influence of parents on the social and religious development of their children must be more widely recognized. Family life needs to be strengthened so that children and youth will derive their values from the home, rather than from potentially undesirable sources outside the home. The Church, especially through the parish, should provide an intensified support system for family life (89809 Sharing the Light of Faith, n. 25).
Parents must make every effort to educate children in the essential values of human life. The “positive and prudent sexual education” that the Second Vatican Council called for (Declaration on Christian Education [Gravissimum Educationis], n.1) requires the loving communication of the concept that sexuality is a gift that affects all the dimensions of our life. Since human sexuality education “is realized in full in the context of faith” and should be provided in the context of human and family relationships and experiences, it must be penetrated with concern for Christian love, self-esteem, and reverence for self and others (Congregation for Christian Education, Educational Guidance in Human Love, n. 43).

Good parents wish their children to have such an education. However, the circumstances of the times, the pervasiveness of the media, the contradictions of the surrounding culture, the awkwardness of communication with young people often dominated by their peers, and the innate sensitivity of the task all serve to make this responsibility of speaking about sexuality with their children very difficult at times. Parents have a right to expect from the Church community assistance in this task; not an assistance that replaces their role, but one that fortifies them and enables them to do this important parental task well.

As “a community of persons bound together by love” (Familiaris Consortio, n. 18), the family seeks to form both the mind and heart of its young members. This education of the heart, this guidance given to feelings and affections as well as to the mind, is also stressed in these Guidelines. Full personal development requires growth in understanding of our own feelings and affections and in learning how to shape and direct our affections in ways that are faithful to those we love and to all that is good and helpful in directing our lives wisely.

It is in the home that his affective education is best provided. Each person is unique, and the attentive (but not dominating) care of those who love the young is needed to help them integrate their deeply felt feelings with intelligent and faithful love for the goods that faith and intelligence grasp. No one can become more helpful than parents in assisting children to realize in concrete circumstances what the Lord expects of them in these matters.

The United States bishops continually stress the centrality of the family in shaping the whole person and in instilling values. The bishops note the value of the good family’s witness as a sign of fidelity and hope:

For the believer the family is the place where God’s image is reproduced in his creation. The family is the community within which the person is realized, the place where all our hopes for the future person are nourished. The family is a learning experience in which fidelity is fostered, hope imparted and life honored; it thus increases the moral resources of our culture and, more importantly, of the person. The family is a sign to all mankind of fidelity to life and of hope in the future which becomes possible when persons are in communion with one another; it is a sign to believers of the depth of this fidelity and this hope when these center on God; it is a sign to Christians of the fidelity and hope which Christ communicates as the elder brother of the family of the Church for which he died (Human Life In Our Day, 1257, pp. 356-357, USCC Publications Office [1968]).
“Like every other reality, the family, too, is called upon to develop and grow” (Familiaris Consortio, n. 65). It is called to shape well the intimate depths of its members, and to urge them to faithfulness in their broad social responsibilities as well. The Guidelines acknowledge the importance of the ongoing education of the family, which is challenged to form persons in love and also to practice love in all relationships, so that it does not live closed in on itself, but remains open to the community, moved by a sense of justice and concern for others, as well as by a consciousness of its responsibility toward the whole of society (The Sixth Synod of Bishops, Message to Christian Families in the Modern World, October 24, 1980, n. 12).
These guidelines provide a broad general plan for an authentically Catholic education in love and sexuality. Many people share the task of carrying out this educational program. Parents are to be the primary teachers of their children; pastors are the be witnesses of faith teaching to the whole community; at various levels, teachers in marriage preparation programs, in adult Religious Education programs, in schools and Religious Education programs, and in other contexts, are to assist in this important task.

Parental tasks and tasks of religious educators

The education of children in sexuality is primarily the task of their parents. But parents deserve and often need the assistance of others in carrying out their responsibility.

When parents speak to their children about sexuality, they speak in personal tones, supported by their more intimate understanding and love that they have for those to whom they are close. They speak out of their faith and out of their personal experience and wisdom. Hence more intimate and personal direction is ordinarily better given by parents themselves or by those the parents choose to assist them in this necessary task.

But parents deserve and often need the assistance of others in carrying out this task. Religious educators also speak to their students out of faith and love, but theirs is the voice of the family of faith, a broader witness helping students to realize together that what they have learned from their parents is not something singular. The voice of the parents is a familiar one, concrete and sensitive to all the individual sensitivities of the child. The sensitivity of religious educators has a different focus. It is seeking to cast the light of faith on a dimension of life that is not only deep personal, but also an important part of social life. Consequently the believer needs the communal witness of facilitators and teachers of faith. The religious educator helps young people to get another kind of grasp on the teaching first received from parents, and helps to deepen young peoples’ grasp on what the Gospel invites them to realize.

What the religious educator teaches about love and sexuality

Many things concerning love and sexuality are part of the essential teaching of faith. Catechesis must present a Christian anthropology — a sound vision of what it means for us to be men and women. It must teach the transcendent dignity of each individual, the truth that God is the author of sexuality, which is good and ordered to the flourishing of enduring love and of the family and of other indispensable human goods. In the face of alien philosophies that penetrate the media and challenge the Gospel, Christian catechesis must provide a solid and true account of the meaning of the sexuality God has given us.
Part of any complete catechesis must be moral instruction. We must teach courageously that many forms of sexual behavior often defended in our society are morally wrong, inhuman, and harmful. We must teach both the young and the mature how to acquire that strong freedom which flows from chastity. Moral teaching must be presented in ways that realistically help the young both to avoid harms which often follow immoral sexual conduct and to achieve the kind of good life that God wishes them to have.

Characteristics of an education in the Catholic vision of love

The program being implemented in the Diocese of Pittsburgh integrates essential teachings about sexuality into the catechetical program as a whole. There are certain real advantages in this. It stresses the universal importance of this education: It is providing material that a rounded teaching of faith must provide. Clearly, for Christians, sexuality education must be an education in Christian values and in the Christian vision of what human persons are. But the time in fact available for courses in Christian values is plainly finite. If parishes would wish to have both regular Religious Education and special programs in human sexuality education, it is very likely that many of the students would not take both programs. In planning what is important for all students to have, it seems best to integrate the education in a Catholic vision of love into the catechetical program as a whole. This approach ties this education in with the basic truths and central values out of which such study should grow, and helps young people to feel that the proper matrix for understanding so central a reality is in the study of the whole faith and life to which Christ invites us.

Catholic documents on sexuality education tend to stress certain factors: the dominant role of parents, and the need to assist rather than replace them as teachers; the importance of giving good and needed knowledge, but the importance also of not excessively stimulating curiosity or of making intimate matters of sexuality seem to appear appropriate objects for casual talk. Care should be exercised by parents in being “attentive to ways in which an immoral education can be passed on to their children through various methods promoted by groups with positions and interests contrary to Christian morality” (The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality, n. 135; see also nos. 135-42).

The emphasis in such a program is very different from that of secular programs in sexuality. The aim is not to teach “all you ever wanted to know” about sexuality, or to assist people in coming to think and to feel about sexuality as something commonplace, to be discussed in all its intimate details without any concern for an appropriate modesty or without appreciation for the emotional resonances associated with sexuality.

The focus of a catechetical program is not on biological aspects of sexuality, yet it certainly does not fear these realities. Faith indeed provides a right perspective for... studying the biological dimensions of sexuality. It surely wishes to stress the goodness of all the body, and the importance of sensitive care in speaking of intimate sexual matters. As children grow, they need to know more things about sexuality; and often they need the warm help of one very near them, especially in ways that counter fears and timidity, and help them grasp information with maximal emotional tranquility, and in ways that gently help them to understand what they learn with a concrete feeling for the values that are relevant. That is, they need to obtain the knowledge they should have in a context that makes it easier for them to grasp what they learn within the total vision of a living faith.

At times parents find it almost impossible to speak in satisfactory ways to their children, but if they can be helped to do so, much good can result. In cases where parents cannot or will not provide the elements of sexuality education that best come from parents, those who have pastoral care for children and adolescents may need to cooperate with parents in other ways: Perhaps, with parental consent, finding surrogate parents (perhaps grandparents or other good people the parents can rightly and fully trust) to speak with children in the personal and sensitive ways that young people generally need at certain stages of maturity.
Adults especially need to be well educated in the Catholic vision of love and sexuality. Their lives are more complex than the lives of young people; they have had more experiences. They are capable of a fuller and freer adherence to the teaching of faith. They need an excellent education in the Catholic vision of love also because faithfulness to right ideals is often difficult. They deserve help in countering pressures from our culture to adopt positions hostile to the vision of faith.

Moveover, adult understanding of and adherence to the Catholic vision of love have exceptional importance because of the many responsibilities that adults have. Adults, as parents and teachers and persons of significant influence in many ways, deeply affect the lives of younger people, and, indeed, of the whole community. Those who are shaping and guiding others need to be well informed themselves.

The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops has, then, reminded us of the reasons why religious education of adults, not least in understanding the Catholic vision of love, is of central importance:

The continuing education of adults is situated not at the periphery of the Church’s educational mission, but at its center. . . . The adult programs should reflect the three interrelated purposes of Christian education: the teaching of doctrine, the building and experiencing of community, and service to the other. . . . In seeking to instill this understanding of the Christian family’s role, family life education must employ such means as premarital instruction and marriage counseling, study, prayer and action groups for couples, and other adult programs which married persons themselves may plan and conduct in collaboration with the Church leadership (To Teach as Jesus Did, n. 43, 1972).

Parents have the task of handing on to their children the Gospel pattern of love. All adults, single, and celibate people as well as parents, have the responsibility of handing on to young people generally, to a young and growing generation, the saving message of Christ’s love that all need to possess to find fulfillment.

Education for young adults

Young adults deserve special attention from the Church. The years after high school, that for some are years in colleges and universities, while others are early years in various levels of employment, are critical years of Christian formation. In these years young adults can easily drift from Catholic ideals and practices, or learn to take fuller possession of them. Many will soon be entering marriage, with all its responsibilities. They have a need for, and a right to, a Catholic education in love and sexuality that meets their specific circumstances.
College and university contexts

In college and university contexts campus ministry leaders are entrusted with the responsibility of providing excellent education for young adults. An important part of their teaching must be a sound education in the Catholic vision of love. Catholic centers on campuses must provide our young people with intelligent support for chaste living. Whenever possible, courses on the family should be made available to them, so that as they approach the time when they shall marry, they may have a better vision of the Catholic form of living the married vocation to which they are called.

Parish contexts

Parishes too must provide for the needs of their young adults, whether or not they attend a college or university. The future of the parish depends upon young adults so strongly that parishes must keep close contact with them. Their priest must help them realistically to grow in their faith and in a Christian way of living their personal and moral lives, if they are to have the help and strength they will need to enter securely into the full responsibilities of adulthood and parenthood.

Things to be taught to young adults

The Catholic vision of love needs to be taught in a context of intelligent faith. Often remedial work needs to be done. Many young adults seem to possess personally few intelligent reasons for being Catholic Christians, and they need to be assisted in recapturing strong personal faith, if they are to appreciate adequately the Catholic vision of love.

What faith teaches about love and sexuality is of great interest to young people. When it is well taught, it is recognized as the blessing it truly is. Obviously education in love and sexuality is not a matter of proclaiming duties to be blindly accepted, but the answer to the real questions, serious problems, and earnest hopes that our young people have experienced in their own lives.

We should be teaching young adults a vision that enables them to understand more clearly how great is God’s gift of sexuality. We are seeking to share with them an understanding we ourselves have grasped: that the generous patterns of love taught in the Gospel are not burdens to life and love, but sources of freedom, and they support the good things human hearts and homes need so deeply.

Hence education in sexuality is not simply education in rules, but in the ways in which enduring love is made possible, in the importance of the home for human happiness, and in the ways in which personal love and the family can be enriched. A Christian study of sexuality is focused especially on the good things sexuality serves. But it does realistically point out how much life is harmed when sexuality is badly understood and lived, and why those sexual acts that faith rightly calls immoral are also hostile to one’s own fulfillment. Christian moral principles are not taboos. They are insights into the ways one must live if one wishes life to work well.
Important in such education is the witness of other young adults who have willingly led good Catholic lives, and who can speak to their peers with entire honesty of the good fruits that Christian principles have had in their own lives.

Social teaching is a large part of an education in love and sexuality. We must speak plainly of what faith says about divorce, homosexuality, contraception, and related world problems today when the secular culture preaches a vision of life sharply contrary to the Gospel. The Catholic vision of love is a powerful and bracing one, and those who are taught it well are given strong supports to their own lives. During this time of life the realism of Catholic moral principles needs to be taught effectively.

Natural family planning must be understood by our young people, at least in its foundational principles and in the humane nature of its practice, if they are to realize that faith does indeed work in human life, and bears surprisingly good fruits. Often young Catholics become embarrassed by the teachings of their faith, when in various courses they are taught that it fails to face the grave problems of our times. But when they are well instructed in the Catholic vision, young adults are heartened by the realization that both secular concerns and personal and moral interests are served splendidly by the Catholic vision of life.

Textbooks and resources. Those who teach in this field should choose resources wisely. Many excellent textbooks are available; and experts to assist in every aspect of this teaching are near at hand as well. But leaders of programs should be careful that textbooks and persons chosen to teach are able and disposed to serve the authentic Christian ideals defended in these Guidelines.

Marriage preparation programs

Remote, proximate, immediate. There are many stages of preparation for marriage and family life. All of the young years of a person’s life can be seen as a remote preparation for their vocation to married life. But here we speak of the immediate preparation for marriage, that is, of the guidance and instruction given to couples in the time immediately preceding their marriage (see Familiaris Consortio, n. 66, and Preparation for the Sacrament of Marriage).

Those who provide immediate marriage preparation. Such marriage preparation programs can be provided in a variety of ways. Pastors and others who will preside at weddings have a responsibility to see to it that the kind of preparation faith calls for is in fact provided. It can be provided in parish, deanery, or diocesan programs. Programs are at times provided by special groups, by Cana Conferences or Engaged Encounter programs, or by couples specially prepared to assist other couples in this way.

All programs should be carefully coordinated by parochial and diocesan leaders who are charged with seeing to the adequacy of such programs. The good of families and of the whole Church is at stake; the matter is too important to permit programs that do not provide well the Catholic guidance and support such programs must always have.
Realism in these programs. Marriage preparation programs must be excellent to be truly helpful. We are seeking to present the better vision that faith offers, but the unbelieving world presents a vision of sexuality that has its own strong attractiveness on certain levels. The vision that faith offers cannot be effective in our times if it is not presented intelligently and with evident affection and concern for those who are instructed.

Restoring faith. Marriage preparation courses must respect fully the dignity of those they address. It is foolish to speak to those preparing to marry of the precepts that flow from faith if we have not first assisted them, when this is needed, to get a firmer personal grasp on their own faith. Many people today do not have good reasons for believing what the Gospel teaches and what faith presents to us. In some way, we must provide a context that helps those preparing for marriage to realize the good reasons they have for living in a Christian way. The motives one appeals to in encouraging a renewal of faith must be those that speak warmly and authentically to those whom we address.

The time of marriage preparation is, to be sure, a time of many distractions and concerns. But it is also a time of special grace. The people about to marry should be given reasons that make sense to them for taking seriously the vision faith offers. Commonly they do have a serious desire to have the love of their marriage last. They foresee being parents, and want to be good parents to their children, and to have resources to guide them to happy and rich lives. Devoted teachers can appeal to motives that really rest in the young adults’ hearts. These teachers can often help the couple to realize how friendship with God and a life of grace can assist them greatly in becoming the kind of persons they long to become. This can be more effectively accomplished to the degree in which these teachers themselves have tasted and seen how much faith does to enrich their own lives and the lives of others, especially the young adults to whom they are ministering.

Witnesses. In all education of adults the witness of those who have found the ways of Christ good is critically important. It is useful, when possible, to weave into courses the witness of the lives of those who have found their faith a strong support to their own married love and to their homes.

The assistance of witnesses is especially important when one is speaking of those elements of a Catholic vision that are likely to seem unrealistic to contemporary young adults who are deeply affected by the vision of sexuality furthered by secular electronic media. For example, when teaching the Gospel requirements of chaste love in marriage, it is important to show in the experience of real people that what the world declares too difficult is not found too burdensome by those who earnestly seek to fill their married lives with the kind of love Christ has taught us.

Again, in teaching the benefits of natural family planning, two kinds of presentations are needed. The objective advantages must be taught clearly:
the fact that this form of family planning is, when it is well taught, effective for all couples; that is has no bad physical side effects; that it has many kinds of personal advantages, advantages so strong that the divorce rate for couples using natural family planning is far lower than it is for other couples. But beyond this objective teaching, personal witness is needed from those who have found that what is said of natural family planning is very true in practice, that it is not a heavy burden, and that the blessings it brings to a Catholic life are very rich indeed.

Faithful teaching. It is important that Catholic teachers offer young people the whole Catholic vision of love, of sexuality, and of the family. It is easy to understand how some are pressed by the media, and by the power of secular voices in our midst, to turn aside from some of the excellent elements of the Catholic vision, for fear that they may prove too burdensome. Some tend to drift toward ambiguity: to saying dubious things about moral requirements of faith, and about the nature of conscience. But we owe our own people more than this. We are calling them toward that generous love that alone can make their marriages and lives secure. We must give them the strong and vibrant support of the authentic message of faith, and fortify this, as it deserves to be fortified, by the witness of those who have lived in Catholic ways, and found such ways to be very good.

Programs for young parents

Assisting the family. The family has a great dignity. It is to be a school of faith, a school of love, a school in which the deepest and most personal lessons of life are taught and learned (Familiaris Consortio, Part III).

Even in very ordinary matters, young families deserve the assistance of the Church community. Young parents often need assistance in very basic things, sometimes even for food and medical help in times of emergency. They may also need the assistance of others in basic parental teaching roles: in learning effective and good ways of teaching children to pray, of helping them wisely guide children in the use of the media, in defending them in difficult circumstances from the special dangers young people face today.

The Church willingly recognizes her responsibility to assist families, especially young ones, as they face the difficult problems that can arise in the active sharing of family life. The “larger family,” the Church, must assist the “small Church,” the family; for the Church cannot flourish if the family is not strong. Helps given to the family must be provided with reverent attention to the needs of the family. They must be provided by competent people, who are able to integrate the vision of faith with the human skills that are needed to serve the family well (Familiaris Consortio, nn. 69-70).

Sources of this assistance. Assistance is to be given to the family from many sources. Often the best assistance is given by other families, by couples who have experienced and mastered the difficulties that are met frequently... today. Groups like the Confraternity of Christian Mothers and the Christian Family Movement were created to make it possible for parents to assist one another in the important tasks that homes regularly face.

Many kinds of expertise should be placed at the assistance of the family. Pastoral leaders are not expected to have all these skills, but often they are able to recruit the services of skilled professionals to serve the family. Religious leaders themselves should assist those in various professions to integrate the vision of faith into the work that they are doing in the service of the Christian family.

The resources of the Church are limited, but they can be enlarged by the gift of Catholic professionals who are able and willing to put their skills at the service of faith, and of the families that are the future of the Church and of the world. Our professional leaders should be invited to take an interest in meeting the problems of young families in areas in which they are themselves especially skilled.

In a special way pastoral leaders need to assist young parents in overcoming problems that are a threat to their lives of faith. Natural family planning should be made readily accessible to young couples. Many who did not realize the importance of this at the time of marriage come by the experience of married life to realize how precious family planning that is fully in accord with their faith can be to them. Pastoral leaders should seek to become aware of and to make accessible to young couples the many counseling resources that are available. In addition, these leaders should be able to give advice on which resources can be confidently used because of the respect that the practitioners have for the faith and the values of those whom they assist.
IX. CHILD EDUCATION

Children can begin to learn from their youngest years that life and love are precious gifts. They can begin to realize that some forms of behavior do not honestly express what love calls for. Hence, parents do well in educating their children and forming in them ways of living that stress the centrality of love.

In teaching children not to behave immodestly, and not to watch television shows or go to movies that offend Christian ideals, they should know that they are not simply being negative. For in these important matters they are indeed teaching children what love should be like, and what true love must do and what it must avoid. All teaching of commandments is rooted in love. That is why the book of Deuteronomy urges us to be concerned with the commandments:

“Hear, O Israel! The L ORD our God is one L ORD; and you shall love the L ORD your God with all your hearts, and with all your soul, and with all might. And these words which I command you this day shall be upon your heart; and you shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise. And you shall bind them as a sign upon your head, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. And shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates” (Deuteronomy 6:4-9).

Time and patient persistence are needed in teaching love and in shaping lives in the ways of love. Teaching children how they should guide their affections and discipline their pursuit of pleasures takes strong and gentle direction, as Deuteronomy suggests and parents experience. Children need to love and to be loved; but they are also attracted to things and experiences that simply please them. Therefore, they need to learn how to direct their drives in the service of what they gradually realize is required by love. This is foundational in sexuality education. With little children, genital sexuality need not be much discussed, but the principles that will help them direct their love, feelings, and free choices need to be sown.

Before we learn to live as love requires and to direct our drives wisely, we tend to be torn. We wish both to love and be loved, and also to have gratifications and express hostilities that militate against love. Growth is toward integration: toward finding ways in which all our affective responses need to be integrated, in the service of the love in which we seek to grow.

If parents and educators are to lead children toward this kind of personal integration, they themselves need to have learned to direct their own emotions, drives, and feelings, putting them in the service of what authentic love requires.
Theses teachers should have the mastery of their love and their drives, not in repressing them, but in having possession of them and the ability to integrate their love, feelings, and drives in ways that reverence the teachings of faith and the inner requirements of honest love.

Catholic parents wish to help their children lead lives in accord with their faith. To be helpful guides toward a life in accord with faith, parents must themselves have taken possession of their own faith, and have learned to lead their lives in the good ways that faith teaches. Children will hardly believe that they must resist strong pressures toward unchaste ways of living if their parents seem to have judged that such efforts are not required of themselves. Hence, education in chaste living for the young must be rooted in Christian families and in a Christian community that seeks to understand and live in the light of faith.

Parental role in educating children

Parents and other family members play essential roles in helping children realize that they are deeply loved and that their own love for parents and others is precious. Family members help the child gradually realize that emotions that sometimes seem to turbulent can gradually be brought under personal control and put in the service of love.

Thus, it is within the family context that children absorb a sense of their own sexuality; that is, they are of their very nature inclined toward loving and being loved, toward having feelings and emotions that affect the innermost depths of their lives. In the home they learn that love and affection are good and not to be repressed. But love needs wise direction. Parents help children begin to grasp how love needs to be guided and how feelings need to be brought under personal control for life to have the goodness and joyfulness they seek.

Important, too, are the attitudes that young children have toward their own bodies and toward being the boys or girls that they are. The intelligent and balanced attitudes of parents toward the sexuality of their children and toward their own sexuality shape the attitudes of children far more than any verbal instructions could.

All recent Church statements on education in sexuality for children stress the centrality of the parental role in this education. Hence the primary focus of these Guidelines lies with the family as the most appropriate setting for all children’s education in the area of human sexuality.

These Guidelines have been prepared for parents and family members to apprise them of all the normal needs for education in human sexuality at various levels of physical growth and development.

In the diocese and in individual parishes, programs need to be shaped and resources need to be made available to assist parents in their important task of guiding their children well in these areas. The purpose of this education in human sexuality is by no means to replace the parents in the education of their own children, but to help them carry out their own irreplaceable role well.
The Church supports, assists, and encourages parents in their role as the primary educators of their children. The positive influences which parents have planted in the hearts of their children are most important. They are reinforced through the positive teaching of the Church about the meaning of sexuality, the responsibilities of chaste love, and the respect always to be given to human life and love.

Content specific to age level

Pre-Birth

Education in sexuality begins in a sense even before birth. Even unborn children are affected by the care given them. The ways in which the child is touched and formed by affection and tender love even before birth are still being explored, but the reverence and love shown for the child in the womb is certainly important.

Moreover, when parents realize that their “trinity-on-earth” (father, mother, child) reflects the divine Trinity, when they see that creative role as having sacred and creative dimensions, and when they reverence each other in the role they have had in bringing the child into being, they are preparing themselves to guide the attitudes and hearts of their children well. Their positive attitude toward their own sexuality, when they reflect on the greatness of having children, should continue through the years to have a happy effect on the children’s own psychosexual development.

Their own chastity and modesty affect the way they treat their children, and communicate to them, even in infancy, the attitudes and affections which are of great importance of their development.

Birth to Three Years

One of the most important means of shaping a child’s affective life well is enabling the child to realize how deeply he or she is loved. A child who has experienced love and care has received the strong foundation necessary to deal with stressful situations throughout life.

All the loving manifestations of parenthood: attending the needs, showing affection, playing with the child, guarding him or her from dangers both by action and by insisting on some kinds of conduct, serve to provide a balanced emotional growth. From the earliest days, the child’s moral development is enhanced by careful training even in such areas as motor skills and personal safety. The “No!” given to an action that is physically harmful is the precedent to the “No!” to actions that are morally harmful. Children can come to realize that even when they are forbidden to act as strong feelings might incline them, they are being loved, cared for, and protected by those who love them. Self-esteem need not be harmed by firm but loving instructions.

Self-respect grows as the child realizes that the efforts made in toilet-training and other forms of self-discipline pay off. The self-possession acquired and the esteem merited are early evidences of the advantages of guiding life intelligently. The first steps of control over the body taken under the parents’ loving guidance become early patterns for education in virtue.

A child who has experienced love and care has received the strong foundation necessary to deal with stressful situations throughout life.
Three to Seven Years

In these years the child should be helped to learn prayer, to begin to grasp the roots of a moral life, and to grow in a healthy attitude toward love.

Interest in sexuality in these days is on the simple level of early childhood. But children’s questions about their reproductive organs, about the origin of babies, and about other related matters should be answered with the truth and simplicity that is proper for their age. We would not project on their questions the same meaning that the questions older children have. At a very early age children should gently be taught modesty. This is helped by the use of age-appropriate words for speaking of bodily parts and functions. What the parents aim at is helping children come to healthy attitudes toward elemental human things, not at an understanding beyond their age.

Seven to Ten Years

In these often relatively tranquil years before puberty (“the years of innocence” as described by Pope John Paul II in Familiaris Consortio, n. 37), there can be much important growth in the child, much development in attitudes and convictions and traits of character that will serve them well in later times of stress. Parents in these years should seek to help their children grow in faith and in prayer, in self-possession (in learning and experiencing that one can master drives that could create turmoil in life), in awareness of their personal importance to God and to all who love them. Before adolescence, children must be deeply convinced that they are loved by their parents, and that his love is strong. Love often has to require and to help them not to do things that seem attractive but are in fact hurtful for them.

The Christian family atmosphere should protect the child in these years. Catholic homes ought not simply accept the cultural pressures that in various ways stir up unsuitable interest in genital sexuality or permit intrusion into the life of the child by media presentations of sexuality that do not respect human dignity and right values. Parental care should keep a concerned eye on the television habits of children as well as on the movies they see.

Parents should be concerned about the friendships their children have and the kind of language their children begin to use. Parents need to give calm guidance in years of premature tensions. There should be encouragement to achieve the normal strengths of these years: times when hobbies, appropriate friendships, and growth in ordinary interests of young boys and girls are allowed to flourish before the specific interests of adolescence create a new situation.

Without pressing children to be concerned about sexual questions that do not deeply concern them, parents can and should give right and appropriate answers to specific questions. If children are concerned with the physical developments that take place in those a few years older than themselves and are interested in their own future growth, simple and right answers should be given. These answers should not press further than the child’s interest suggests. In our times, children often get very much information about sexuality at early ages from a variety of sources, and not always in helpful ways. Parents should be a source of tranquility for their children, helping them... to manage what they hear and to understand what they have concerns about, without seeking to stir up anxious concerns before the child wishes to be helped. “This period of tranquility and serenity must never be disturbed by unnecessary information about sex ... prudent formation in chaste love during this period should be indirect, in preparation for puberty, when direct information will be necessary” (The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality, n. 78).

Ten to Fourteen Years

These years, too, can be good years of growth for children, especially if earlier years have been blessed by good guidance. During these years gender identity tends to be solidified, and there is great need that each child have the presence and support of both parents during this phase of growth. In an age of broken families, the Church needs to be a supportive larger family that helps single-parent families and other homes that have special burdens to find good and wise ways to give direction in circumstances that are not easy.

As adolescence approaches, difficult emotional problems often arise. As young people seek to establish their own identity, they can have hostility toward parents, excessive dependence on peers, and times of anxious rebellion. But these years also have their important strengths. Wise parents, getting assistance also from those who know well the ways of young people, can appeal to young teenagers’ sense of fairness and idealism and to the faith that has been already implanted in their children’s hearts, to maintain the love and the shared concern to help the adolescent master the problems of new times with a strong heart.

As friendships between members of opposite sexes begin, and young love begins to reveal itself, parents need to draw on the resources of their own mature and balanced sexuality to understand and to be able to help their children meet the complex realities of a new life with realism and unselfish goodness of heart. When relationships between children and parents are good, the concern and vigilance parents have for the important but delicate new dimensions of their children’s lives can be accepted with a certain peace.
Adolescence is a time of intense physical, emotional, intellectual, and spiritual growth. Young people are pressured by many influences in these years. Peers, media, and countless cultural forces exert their impact.

But adolescence is not simply a chaotic and puzzling time. It is also a time when young people can grow well and begin to integrate freely into their lives the values they have been taught even in earlier years. But adolescents need assistance from parents and others who love them, who seek to understand them, and who know how to speak to them wisely of the authentic human values that faith rightly commends.

Normal impulses and feelings experienced by adolescents, amplified by the media and other resources of an erotic age, could lead these young people toward sexual experimentation and expression in ways that are both morally wrong and personally disastrous. Parents and religious educators owe these young people assistance by their words and by the example of their own lives.

Parental teaching. Parents must help adolescents begin to understand personally the sensible and helpful things faith speaks to them about such things as dating, infatuation, physical affection, and sexual orientation. In an age that misunderstands sex so badly, parents should help their adolescent children to grasp well what sex is really all about, and why God has blessed us with our sexuality.

Parents should help their children understand that the moral teachings of the faith concerning sexuality are not irrational impositions, but intelligent defenses of realities that children themselves can see are important: homes, families, children, enduring love. Adolescents indeed need the support and cooperation of their concerned parents and of pastoral leaders. When intelligent efforts are made, parents are able to speak persuasively to their adolescent children of the value of personal modesty, the avoidance of sexually suggestive situations and entertainment, and they can lend their support and knowledge to adolescents as they enter an age of difficult moral choices.

Parental example. But parental teaching also depends, as all teaching in lives of virtue and faith does, on the form of life of the parents. Parents’ love for their children should strengthen parents themselves in leading lives of generous love and of chaste self-possession that will not only enrich their own lives, but also give their children indispensable helps in living with intelligent love in a disordered time.

Parents can serve as models of Christian marriage, and of the attractiveness of generous love. This strong parental example can help their children withstand pressures from some peers and from the contemporary world.

Since a chaste life is not easily lived without the supports of faith and grace, parents should see to it that their teens realize how important the practices of faith are to their parents. When parents themselves attend Mass... regularly, receive the sacraments devoutly, bring thoughtful prayer into the home, and reveal how much strength and satisfaction faith brings to their lives, they give priceless help to their children.

Catechists and youth ministers. Catechists and youth ministers can affirm and support for adolescents the Christian values of their parents. They can do this by instruction, by helping the young to find good role models, by assisting young people to be supports to one another, and by the example of their own faith and lives.

A primary task of the catechist-youth minister is wise instruction in the Catholic vision of sexuality, in the meaning of Gospel morality, and in the authentic nature of conscience and of sound conscience formation.

Christian morality is not merely a set of rules. It is rooted in personal love, in appreciation for the priceless value of each person, and in the human goods needed for personal fulfillment. Christian sexual morality is not a matter of repression and taboos, but of understanding how indispensable are the great human goods that sexuality was made to serve (such realities as enduring and generous personal love, the family, the value of children, the understanding of God, and of the meaning of life that flows from an intelligent grasp of sexuality).

Parents can serve as models of Christian marriage, and of the attractiveness of generous love.

Youth ministers assist the young also by helping them to find good role models and in supporting one another in taking possession of an intelligent view of love and sexuality.

The world is by no means devoid of good models. Young people often need the help of strong role models to realize that they are by no means alone in wanting to have a form of life that is compatible with the vision of the Gospel. Education should not be entirely abstract. It should make known the stories of thoughtful and strong people who live vigorous Christian lives in a wide variety of ways. It should provide help toward discovering the literature and entertainment that assist young people to experience the reality of the excellent kinds of life not often featured by the mass media.

They assist the young people also by their own strong love for them, and by the courage with which they hearten young people to become responsible for shaping their own lives and to support one another in larger peer groups.

Specific areas of guidance and instruction. Catechists and youth ministers have much to say about a Christian vision of sexuality to assist adolescents.

They should teach students in early high school years what is most needed to help them live chaste lives. They should teach them clearly and sensitively what faith teaches us about the meaning and purposes of sexuality, and how sexuality is related to communicated and enduring love, and to the family. They should teach such matters as Catholic teaching on masturbation, premarital and extramarital sex, and contraception. But such education should be accompanied by a realistic explanation of the kinds of supports faith provides, so that what is taught is rightly seen as entirely possible, human, and a real defense of their personal dignity and of fundamental human goods.

They should be helped to acquire a Christian understanding of such contemporary issues as AIDS and homosexuality. They should be taught their right not to be exploited or victimized. They should be helped to see the equality and complementarity of the sexes.
Teachers should help adolescents realize the good sense of the Christian vision of sexuality. Sexuality is clearly not a trivial matter. It enters deeply into our very being, and into the meaning of our lives. Sexual activity is not intended to be a casual and passing pleasure, indulged in thoughtlessly. Rather it is made to go with enduring love, with the promises, the generosity, and the responsibilities of marriage. It is intimately connected to the gifts of God that enable love to be responsible and lasting.

In late high school years they should be given excellent education in the family. They should be taught the meaning of marriage, the importance of the home, and the rewards that chastity brings in enduring love, in guarding children, and in serving generous and deeply rewarding forms of life.

This education on the family and the home must be concrete and persuasive. Catholic teaching on marriage and its precious goals, the tragedy of divorce, and the helps given to life by the sacrament of marriage need to be presented with concreteness and persuasiveness. One can speak of such things in an age of broken homes and single-parent families without any lack of reverence or respect for those whose home lives are not ideal. Charity finds ways of speaking strongly but graciously all that is needed to encourage young people to pursue patterns of life that really work.

Adolescents need to be taught forcefully the truth that every person’s life is meaningful. God has a personal concern for each one, and each has a vocation. The married life is itself a sublime vocation, and in teaching it one can come also to teach realistically the other vocations to the priesthood and religious life or to the single state. These other vocations too are given by God as supports to the lives of ordinary people, to the home, and to the young, and to the support of the whole Christian family in the vision of love that all need to have lives illumined by the Gospel.

A challenging but rewarding task. Adolescents are becoming more capable of serious thinking and challenging argumentation. To teach them is to teach people whose thoughts and interests are far more complex than those of children. Their lives are becoming richer. They want more intense and focused guidance from parents and catechists at a complex time in their lives, but they also want more freedom and greater independence.

Happily, genuine freedom and the intelligent guidance derived from the Gospel go well together. To help young people see that the ideals we draw for them are what their own hearts long for may not be an easy task. But serious parents and teachers know that the young people they keep close to are capable of great things. With the assistance of friends in the faith young people today can take personal possession of the vision that faith makes possible for them.
XI. SPECIAL NEEDS

The Catholic Vision of Love is a catechetical program for all children. This program therefore includes children with disabilities and developmental delays. The preceding chapters were written about The Catholic Vision of Love as it applies to “typical” children. The material presented in those chapters on young children through adolescence is also written for the child with special learning needs. The information contained in those chapters may need to be adapted or modified for special children, but the message is the same for all young Catholics.

As a parent of catechist presents the lessons of The Catholic Vision of Love to children with developmental delays, special emphasis should be placed on self-respect and self-esteem. A strong sense of self-respect and self-esteem will equip the children to deal with the many challenges they must face in today’s world.

A parent or catechist will also emphasize God’s unconditional love for the child. The special child may experience ridicule or rejection by typical peers. It is most important that the parent or catechist remind children of God’s personal and unconditional love for them. Children need to be told that they were created in love by a God who loves them forever and unconditionally.

As the special child becomes more aware of God’s unconditional love, emphasis can also be stressed on friendship with a loving God, and God’s Son, Jesus. This may also be a time to introduce the care, solicitude, and friendship of Mary and the saints.

Since children with disabilities and developmental delays are among the most vulnerable in society, they also need to be taught ways to protect themselves from sexual abuse. A program entitled “Circles: The Right to Say No” will be used in this section of The Catholic Vision of Love. This program, which has been designed for children with developmental delays, gives the children a tool to understand appropriate and non-appropriate touching and improper advances toward them.

Many children with disabilities or developmental delays will not have the experience of a marital relationship, so it will be important to guide them in an understanding of the great value of human friendship and the lasting treasure of friendship with God. All throughout the guidelines, there will be emphasis placed upon friendship with God, the Blessed Mother, and the saints.

Education in human sexuality is as necessary for special children as it is for all children. Grounding the lessons in catechesis will give special children, as it will all children, a true understanding of the beautiful gift of human sexuality in all its various dimensions.
Catholic teaching on love and sexuality is of immense importance for the shaping of good Catholic lives. Those who undertake the task of teaching The Catholic Vision of Love deserve not only gratitude, but also strong assistance in carrying out their responsibilities.

Right to sound Catholic teaching. Those who study the family, chaste love, or what faith teaches about sexuality in any of our Catholic diocesan or parish programs have, of course, a right to receive authentic Catholic teaching. In theses times of spiritual confusion, it cannot always be assumed that persons of good will understand and accept all that the Church teaches about sexual morality.

Careful selection of teachers. For this reason, those who direct schools, Religious Education programs, marriage preparation programs, or any other programs touching on sexuality or family education must see to it that the teachers are chosen carefully, and given sufficient preparation to perform their tasks faithfully and well. In all programs in the diocese in which there is education in the Catholic vision of sexuality, love, and the family, teachers should be selected from among those who are committed to sound Catholic teaching in this area, and who are willing to accept whatever in-service formation is judged necessary to do the task well.

Oversight of programs. Diocesan and parish leaders who oversee any programs giving instruction in matters effecting sexuality, chaste love, and the family have the duty to see to it that what is presented in such courses is indeed faithful to the Catholic vision of love and sexuality. The doctrinal and moral directives presented in these Guidelines apply to all programs in which this Catholic vision of love and sexuality is taught: in school and Religious Education programs, in marriage preparation programs, in youth ministry programs, in campus or young adult programs, and the like.

In-service classes for teachers. Those who teach The Catholic Vision of Love in Catholic schools and Religious Education programs must receive teacher preparation sessions in accord with current diocesan standards. All teachers will be required to participate in a five-hour in-service in Catholic doctrinal and moral teaching on sexuality. Teachers in grades five to eight will be required to take an additional five hours in which they will learn ways of teaching The Catholic Vision of Love to young people. While special emphasis will be placed on methodological and pedagogical concerns, efforts will be made to ensure that these teachers understand the importance of being true witnesses and role models for what the Church proclaims and teaches. They will also receive assistance in handling the diocesan materials for the program. Those who teach in all our educational programs must be taught faithfully the principles and policies that are articulated in these Guidelines. Eventually, components of this education in Catholic moral teaching in the area of human sexuality will be totally integrated into the various certification programs for all catechists.
Teachers are trained to be particularly sensitive to the fact that each child is a unique person. Teachers must be sensitive to each student’s needs and developmental stage, working in close collaboration with parents in regard to the curriculum as outlined in Appendix D. (See The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality, nn. 65-67).
The preparation of these guidelines

The Diocese of Pittsburgh convened an Advisory Committee on Human Sexuality Education on October 19, 1987, and charged its members with a twofold task:

1) To prepare an educational curriculum for all Catholics, particularly for parents seeking to instruct their sons and daughters in the area of human sexuality from a Catholic perspective; and
2) To make recommendations concerning the scope, content, and implementation of an education curriculum in human sexuality for the young people of the Church of Pittsburgh.

The Advisory Committee was comprised of more than forty members with diverse professional and experiential backgrounds: parents, clergy, educators, pastoral and legal counselors, religious men and women, diocesan administrative personnel, and medical professionals. The names of those who served on this committee are listed at the end of Appendix A.

To meet the varied educational and pastoral needs of the members of the Church in Pittsburgh, the Advisory Committee formed five subcommittees, whose tasks were to consider content, scope, and methods for successful implementation of a Catholic human sexuality education program. The five subcommittees treated:

1) Theological and Faith Issues in Human Sexuality
2) Human Sexuality Education for Children
3) Human Sexuality Education for Adults and Family
4) Human Sexuality Education for Adolescents
5) Human Sexuality Education for Persons with Disabilities

From the onset, this education in the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality was understood to be education in Catholic faith and life. It is formation in ways of living that are inseparable from the Gospel. Thus, this education is to be fully and totally integrated into the Religious Education curriculum.

In 1989 the Advisory Committee had completed a draft of the Guidelines to direct education in chastity in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. They were submitted to the Diocesan Theological Commission and other consultative bodies in the diocese for evaluation. It became clear that the program needed a director to guide the implementation of the program; that is, to oversee the selection and production of materials that would be needed by parents and by teachers, and to begin to put the program into effect.

In October, 1990, Reverend Douglas R. Nowicki, then Secretary for Education (now Archabbot at St. Vincent’s Archabbey, Latrobe), asked Reverend Ronald D. Lawler, O.F.M. Cap., to serve as advisor to the project and to assist the Advisory Committee in the completion of the project.

Under the guidance of Dr. Rosemarie Cibik, Secretary for Education in the Diocese, the program expanded. Efforts were made to revise the Guidelines in the light of suggestions received from the Theological Commission and others. Curriculum materials were prepared for students in the fifth to eighth grade, together with extensive teachers’ notes for effective implementation of the lesson plans. A manual was devised for parents to assist them in speaking with their children about the Catholic vision of love. Father Ronald Lawler; Father Kris Stubna; Monsignor Daniel DiNardo; Sister Ursula Kelly, S.S.N.D.; Carole Obropta; Sister John Martin Sullivan, A.S.C.J.; and Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Garver and others assisted in the writing and editing of these materials.

Progress toward actual implementation of pilot programs for the education of elementary age children required the cooperation of many people. Dr. Kenneth Garver, Chairman of the Advisory Committee, and other representative members collaborated closely with Father Lawler and the Secretariat for Education as work progressed. Meetings were held with parents in each of the six parishes which were to have pilot programs beginning in the fall of 1991. Sessions for parents were designed to give them full information on the program, and to make clear how much the success of any such education depends on the parental involvement.

Detailed plans were made for the in-service classes for those who would teach the program. Ten hours of class were provided for all teachers to assure both their secure grasp of Catholic teaching in this area, and to help them find confidence in teaching the class materials for their students.

Meetings were held also in which pastors, parochial vicars, principals, and directors of Religious Education discussed the program with personnel from the Secretariat for Education. Meetings were also held within each parish to coordinate the input of all whose assistance would be needed to make the program work. Everywhere it was made clear that the program had to be entirely faithful to the teachings of the Church at all times. Parents were always to have central role in the program. Education in the Catholic vision of love through this program was always to be an education in chastity, in full accord with the guidance that the Church continues to give us.

Evaluations of the work done in the first year of the pilot program were favorable, but important suggestions for improving the program were made by parents, priests, principals, directors of Religious Education, teachers, and students. These suggestions were then incorporated into the program, as the program entered another expanded year of pilot programs in 1992-93. Father Kris Stubna, Assistant Secretary for Education, took over supervision of the program in the fall of 1993. Further development of the program, with one entire deanery entering the pilot program, went on in 1993-94, with another deanery scheduled for piloting in 1994-95.

All those who guided the pilot programs were encouraged by the warm cooperation shown everywhere by parents, parish leaders, teachers, and all involved. Evaluations continued to be overwhelmingly favorable. Parents, teachers, and administrators alike expressed their satisfaction in the way this material was helping young people to acquire a better understanding of what God teaches us about sexuality and chaste lives.

With the positive evaluations from the pilot programs, the program has continued to expand. Under the leadership of Father Kris Stubna, the current Secretary for Catholic Education, The Catholic Vision of Love Guidelines and program for implementation were finalized, presented to the consultative boards of the diocese, and approved by Bishop Wuerl. By the 1996-97 academic year, all parishes in the Diocese of Pittsburgh became responsible for implementing The Catholic Vision of Love in all facets of parish life.

In light of recent diocesan and national policies on child safety, the Catholic Vision of Love program received acknowledgment from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) as the program in place in the Diocese of Pittsburgh for the safety of children. In the Fall of 2010, at the request of the auditors from the United States Catholic Conference of Bishops, Safe Environment Committee, a lesson on Personal Safety was added to each of the CVOL student lessons (grade 5 – 8). Additionally, lessons on Personal Safety were created for children in Kindergarten through grade 4.

Members of the Human Sexuality Advisory Committee
- Dr. Kenneth L. Garver, General Chairperson
- Reverend Ronald Lawler, O.F.M. Cap., General Editor and Consultant
- Dr. Rosemarie E. Cibik, Secretary for Education
- Archabbot Douglas R. Nowicki, Former Secretary for Education
- Reverend Kris D. Stubna, Assistant Secretary for Education
- Monsignor Daniel DiNardo, Former Assistant Secretary for Education
- Ms. Carole M. Obropta, Consultant
- Sister Ursula Kelly, Consultant
- Sister John Martin Sullivan, A.S.C.J., Consultant
- Dr. Steve Biancaniello, Consultant
- Ms. Maureen E. Wall, Consultant

Members of Subcommittee A: Theological Issues
- Reverend Frank C. Sokol, Chairperson
- Mrs. Susanne M. DiPiero
- Dr. Kenneth L. Garver
- Reverend Joseph J. Kleppner
- Mr. Robert P. Marko
- Sister Marietta Russell, M.H.S.H.
- Monsignor John J. Seli
- Mr. Eugene W. Vaskov
- Mrs. Constance A. Vaskov

Members of Subcommittee B: Human Sexuality Education for Children
- Mr. Eugene Vaskov, Co-Chair
- Mrs. Constance A. Vaskov, Co-Chair
Ms. Marjori W. Becker
Dr. Linda Bigelow
Mrs. Bettylee Garver
Mrs. Clare M. Roberts
Sister John Martin Sullivan, A.S.C.J.

Members of Subcommittee C: Human Sexuality Education for Adults and Family
  Sister Marietta Russell, M.H.S.H., Chairperson
  Dr. Ann C. Albers
  Dr. James L. Bender
  Dr. John A. Boccella
  Mrs. Gerri Boccella
  Reverend Paul J. Bradley
  Mrs. Loretta M. Dillner
  Mrs. Jean M. Fitzgerald
  Mrs. Carol L. Happ
  Mr. Eugene M. Kail
  Ms. Concetta A. Silvaggio
  Dr. William A. Uricchio
  Reverend Louis F. Vallone

Members of Subcommittee D: Human Sexuality Education for Adolescents
  Mr. Robert P. Marko, Chair
  Dr. Steve Biancianello
  Dr. Rosemarie E. Cibik
  Mr. Gregory Dietz
  Dr. Lawrence A. Dunegan
  Reverend Hugh J. Lang
  Sister M. Christopher Moore, C.S.S.F.
  Sister Louise Marie Olsofka, C.S.S.F.
  Mr. Timothy J. O'Sullivan
  Sister Elizabeth Ann Stock, S.C.
  Sister Bertha V. Sutton, C.S.J.

Members of Subcommittee E: Human Sexuality Education for Persons with Disabilities Which Hinder Learning
  Mrs. Susanne M. DiPiero, Chairperson
  Mr. Ralph Belsterling
  Mrs. Nancy Gannon
  Ms. Grace T. Harding
  Ms. Carole M. Obrokta
  Ms. Maureen E. Wall

The Catholic Vision of Love...............................................................................................................SECTION ONE • Guidelines
APPENDIX B

Using media with The Catholic Vision of Love

Today we are all bombarded with media messages that are contrary to Catholic teaching. Media literacy education in conjunction with The Catholic Vision of Love provides an opportunity for the catechist or parent to teach as Jesus did. It is important to recognize teachable moments and to capitalize on the young person’s own knowledge and involvement in the media world that surrounds him or her.

A proven approach to media literacy utilizes a four-step process (The Pastoral Circle) that includes: awareness, analysis, reflection, and action. The Pastoral Circle helps us to confront, challenge, and change the way television and all of mass media controls our lives and those of our young people.

Awareness — Generally, most people don’t realize the impact of the mass media on the formation of values. It is virtually impossible to remove oneself from the influence of mass media. The only solution to the situation is to become media literate. Ask yourself questions regarding the messages that are being conveyed. For example: Are most of the people portrayed as young, thin, and rich? Are the elderly shown as burdens instead of sources of wisdom? Are people valued for their material possessions? Are disabled people even included?

The Awareness step opens the door for growth in understanding and the ability to change.

Analysis — Secondly, we must begin to teach our children at home and in school how commercial interests determine the content and appeal of programming. Sponsors target different segments of the population and gear their programming accordingly. For example, Saturday morning cartoons target children and sell toys, sugar cereals, and candy. Developing skill in this type of analysis allows us to be more cautious in accepting what we see and hear on television.

Reflection — It is at this point that we begin to integrate our faith dimension into the everyday exposure of media. With Scripture and the tradition of the Catholic faith, we have the necessary tools to discover what values we can call upon to make choices. Jesus brought us the truth and taught us how to live. In that light, how we see marriage and family living portrayed on television might be in direct opposition to what we know as right and wrong. Jesus said, “Let the children come to me; do not try to stop them; for to such belong the Kingdom of Heaven” (Mark 10:14). We cannot determine the faith commitment of our young people, but we can structure the media environment in our homes so that the faith that is present will be nurtured and fostered appropriately.

Action — Appropriate action might be as simple as consulting the TV guide to monitor the evening’s entertainment. On the other hand, direct confrontation such as phone calls or letters to the television station when offensive material is broadcast might be a solution to the problem.
(Although the steps described above relate primarily to television, mass media also include movies, music, magazines, billboards, the internet, etc. and this process is adaptable for all forms of media.)

Proper utilization of catechetical media

It is imperative to utilize catechetical media properly in our technological age to compete with all the values communicated by the secular mass media (television, movies, music, print, the internet).

Unfortunately, many catechists look at media utilization within the catechetical learning experience as a waste of time. Actually, research has proven and experience has confirmed the fact that children and adults learn far more readily from a multisensory and imaginative presentation than from the catechist’s voice alone. There is no doubt that the investment of planning time is greater when media are utilized properly, but the benefits always outweigh the work.

The following steps are offered as a guide in planning:

1. Assess the goal of your lesson
   It is important to analyze the core of the lesson. The Catechist’s Notes of The Catholic Vision of Love will help one to determine the key concepts to be communicated to the student.

2. Consider the students
   Be sensitive to the developmental, educational, emotional, and sociological level of the student. Keep in mind the length of the media in respect to the learning experience time. How familiar is the student with the subject matter? A review of materials is certainly different from first-time exposure. How well do the students in the class know each other? Is it the first year of catechesis in a new setting or have they been together since first grade? All these factors are important to take into consideration. One must choose the media involved accordingly.

3. Consult a specialist
   After one has the key concepts in mind, consult a media specialist to help select the best media to fit the specific needs. Be open to suggestions and read catalog descriptions to discover the options.

4. Preview the media
   Everyone has a different style of teaching, and no two groups of people will react the same every time to a particular media piece. A video that seemed to fit the lesson perfectly last year might not evoke the same response this year. Ideally it is better to view the media selections a couple of times to prepare questions and related activities, and to prepare yourself to conduct discussion on the concepts communicated.
5. Make a decision — choose
We all make mistakes; everyone has a story about the audiovisual that flopped. On the other hand, remember the learning experience that made a significant effect on the students and the feeling of accomplishment you felt. Trust your good judgment; planning is ninety percent of the process.

6. Integrate the media
Examples: set a mood — visual prayer — present a life experience — tell a story/parable — relate facts and information — present opinions of others.
Determine a position for the integration of media into the learning experience. Is this video factual and informative regarding respect life issues? Is the film posing a personal situation that will cause a heartfelt reaction? All of these questions and more are needed in the planning of the learning experience.

7. Know how to operate the equipment
Be sure, for example, that the DVD player is in good working order. Do you need an extension cord or adapter? Do you have an extra bulb for your data projector? Murphy’s law always applies — what can go wrong, will. Be prepared! Make sure you block-out the light in the classroom for a better picture quality. If possible, have the equipment set up and ready to operate so that valuable teaching time is not wasted.

8. Follow-up
Provide time after showing the media for reflection on the experience, perhaps aided by appropriate music. A video, for example, may be stopped before the ending to create an open-ended situation for the students to determine a solution. Allow the students to share their reflections and insights with each other in groups or to the class as a whole. Providing discussion questions is always a good idea to assist in promoting feedback.
Implementation

In this section you may review Content Focus for all grades, as well as the Diocesan Safe Environment Policy and Safe Environment Curriculum.

For a more complete look at the Lesson Outlines and Content, please consult the materials available at http://www.diopitt.org/department-religious-education/catholic-vision-love-0 as well as in the Electronic Resource Packet provided by the Diocese of Pittsburgh.
Content focus — Grades K through 4

Our goal is to integrate these themes into the religious education curriculum, itself. Lesson plans will be written for kindergarten through grade four, highlighting some foundational principles for a Catholic understanding of the human person, family, and love will be emphasized and highlighted.

1. Jesus and our homes: why Jesus lived so long in an ordinary home. Homes are places where people can be most happy: Why is this true? Homes are places where we learn how to love. We can help our homes be happier places. How can we do this?

2. Praying at home: finding a quiet place for prayer at certain times. Being willing to pray: at meals, in the morning, at night. Letting parents know we like to pray with them sometimes. How prayer helps us to know how important everyone is, and how much each one should be loved and respected.

3. Television: handling it with care. Sometimes television is very fine. But parents naturally want to control it. Our homes are too special for television to be invading them too much, or at wrong times. Sometimes television can keep us from learning to know and love each other better. It can prevent us from doing good things with each other, spending time with one another. We need to be careful about our television, music, and what we read, so it makes us more like Jesus wants us to be.

4. Talking with our parents: having happy times to talk with our parents. Learning to talk about things that are not always easy to begin talking about. Why parents want to know so much about you! Parents are really special kinds of friends. We need to trust them, share with them lots of things about ourselves and our lives. We need always to turn to our parents first.

5. Modesty: gentleness and goodness of modesty. Why being modest is a way of being kind and respectful. Television — friendly at times, but not always Christian, not always modest. Not wanting to be exactly like everybody else in the world, the specialness of being a Christian, and the specialness of being you. Joy in remembering the nearness of Jesus, and the dignity of our bodies, which are temples of God. This demands that we choose wisely the things we wear, what we say and do, so as to respect our bodies!

6. Saying no when we should: happy and good hugging, but touches and hugs are not always good. Why parents don’t want us to let just anybody give us hugs. Kinds of touches that disturb us, and why we should not put up with them. Why parents do not want us to get into cars with or enter the homes of people they do not know, and do not give us permission to enter.

7. Our families and our friends: the very special importance of our homes, and our parents, and our brothers and sisters, even when we begin to have friends ourselves. Why our parents want us to talk with them about our lives outside the home, about those who are our friends and all that we are doing together. The joy of having life at home and outside the home fit well together.
8. Cruelty of words: words that hurt. Words that are called bad or dirty, or impure words that forget the importance of everyone, and the goodness of our bodies, and the nearness of Jesus to our lives. Why parents care very much about the words we use, and why we should too.

9. Everybody does it! Thank heavens everyone isn’t the same! Why you are special, and not everything everyone does is for you. Why Christians are special, and do not do things that many people do, if they love and honor Christ. “I want to do what my friends do!” The value of being with friends, but the foolishness of wanting too much of this. Letting our friends be what God wants them to be, and becoming ourselves what God wants us to be.

10. Changing and growing: As we grow older, our bodies slowly change and develop, our minds become better and sharper, our whole lives begin to mature. We are becoming the person God plans for us to become. We need to recognize the changes, understand them, and not be embarrassed or afraid to talk about how we are changing or how we feel with those we trust. We need to talk with our parents, grandparents, and teachers. They will help us to understand.
GRADE 5, CLASS 1:
Self-respect: Acknowledging why you are so important

General aim
This lesson seeks to help the students realize how immensely important each one of them is, in truth and before God. It helps them see how important their lives are, and how important are the things that deeply affect their lives. In a special way, it helps them see the importance of their sexuality, and of responding to the gift of sexuality in the light of the Lord’s teaching, and in ways that respect how things really are.

Specific objectives
1. To assist the students in realizing personally — in the light of faith and their experience — how very important each one of them is, and how important it is that they lead their lives wisely and well.
2. To recall the problems that arise for people who are wrongly persuaded that they are not worth much, and are not very much loved.
3. To help students realize that thinking and feeling rightly and wisely about sexuality is very important for them.
4. To help the students realize that sexuality has important purposes. God created sexuality to serve the wonderful and lasting good things He wishes it to bring to our lives.

GRADE 5, CLASS 2:
Understanding the changes we experience

General aim
To help the students to see that the many changes that come with adolescence should not be sources of anxiety, but are meant by God to be steps toward a richer fulfillment in life.

Specific objectives
1. To help students appreciate that it is good that our life advances in stages, that the good things of earlier years are meant to be fulfilled by better things as time advances.
2. To help students realize how many aspects there are to maturing. We are to grow not just physically (which we cannot help doing) but also emotionally, socially, intellectually, and spiritually.
3. To show that in God’s plan everyone is special. Each one is different in a variety of ways, and that is good.
4. To make clear that it is all right to be different! We mature at different rates, and that is fine. Different people have different natural strengths and weaknesses; none of these make us unable to have great and good lives.

5. To show that sexuality is a gift from God, and that the physical growth that reveals our maleness and femaleness is a good thing.

GRADE 5, CLASS 3: Friendship, love and life

General aim
This lesson seeks to help students understand what friendship is, and why it is so precious a gift. Friendship makes life much happier, and enables us to be better persons. The lesson seeks to explore the truest kind of friendship, and see why it lasts longer and is more rewarding than less perfect kinds of friendship. In a special way it treats romantic friendships, and what characterizes true and lasting friendships to serve life well.

Specific objectives
1. To understand the reasons why friendship is both so attractive and so important for our lives.
2. To be able to tell the difference between true friendships and less solid kinds of friendships.
3. To reflect on how Scripture praises true friendship, and why Christ wants to be a friend to each of us.
4. To think about a special kind of friendship, romantic friendships, and to understand why God wanted friendships like these to be.
5. To understand how important it is that we have truthful, generous, and pure hearts in all our friendships.

GRADE 5, CLASS 4: Christ in my home and in my life

General aim
This lesson speaks of the importance of the home. It speaks of the ways in which Christ taught us to love the home, and encouraged us to make our homes the happy places He wants them to be. The Lord meant homes to be schools of faith and love, places where our hearts learn life from people who deeply love us. It recalls how Christ wants us all to have happy lives, by tasting first the joy of being loved by generous parents, and the joy of loving those in our homes, and so learning the goodness of real love.

Specific objectives
1. To assist the students in realizing how important homes are; how glad we should be for the good things God wants us to find in our homes; how true it is that all of us must do all we can to make our homes places of generous love.
2. To recall the things Christ did to call homes to be faithful to what God wants them to be, and how much He wants each of our homes to be happy and good.
3. To show that even homes that are broken, and have many trials, can be healed and helped by closeness to Christ.
4. To show that everything the Lord teaches us about sexuality is aimed at helping us learn that generous kind of love that can make homes and lives happy; impure acts are wrong because they undermine real love, and makes homes suffer.
5. To urge students to thank God for their parents and their homes, and to pray that they themselves will have love generous enough to make their homes happier places.

GRADE 5, CLASS 5: Personal Safety

- Relationship Boundaries: Stranger danger, Respecting ourselves, Respecting our bodies
- Lesson Outline:
  1. Introduction and opening prayer
  2. Teaching on Friendship and Respect, focus on Relationship Boundaries
  3. Activity – Talking about boundaries using scenarios
  4. Wrap-up and connection to Catholic social teaching and the dignity of the human person
  5. Closing prayer
- Lesson Background: Human life is sacred.

  "Human life is sacred because from its beginning it involves the creative action of God and it remains forever in a special relationship with the Creator, who is its sole end. God alone is the Lord of life from its beginning until its end: no one can under any circumstance claim for himself the right directly to destroy an innocent human being" (CCC 56)

GRADE 6, CLASS 1: Vocation

General aim

This lesson seeks to strengthen in students a sense of vocation, a realization that their lives are important, that God has a great role for each of them to play in life. It seeks to show that reflection on what we are meant to be is important for the fulfillment and happiness of our lives.

Specific objectives

1. To understand again the general idea of having a vocation by reflecting on the vocation of Christ to be our Savior.
2. To help students to realize that each one of us, without exception, is important to God, and each is called to an important and special vocation by the Lord.
3. To show how it is that one comes to realize what his or her special vocation is.
4. To reflect on various kinds of vocations, and how God calls each person to a kind of vocation in an entirely distinctive way.
5. To point out how chastity is important for every kind of vocation.
GRADE 6, CLASS 2: Being responsible for our own lives

General aim
To help students understand the great gift of freedom, and to be able to tell the difference between “things happening to them” and “things they do.” It is always important for young people to realize that life is not just something that happens to them (though many things happen beyond our control). Life is most of all something we live, and the free actions that we do. Many people want to be good, but get discouraged, forgetting that Christ is strong even when they are not. Christ will help them to use their freedom well if they really want to take charge of their own lives, and not let the world dominate them.

Specific objectives
1. To help students realize that they are responsible for their own lives, and that it is a good thing for them that they are.
2. To help students see for themselves why the excuses we make for the bad things we do are often silly and irresponsible.
3. To help students realize that even though it is often very sad when bad things happen to us, doing bad things is really much worse.
4. To help students see that in the turmoil of the world, where impure thoughts and attitudes and acts can often seem impossible to escape, their lives are in their own hands. They have the freedom to live good and responsible lives. Christ will protect their freedom if they wish to guard it.
5. To help students realize, in a world that seems not to know what sin is, that doing things that are really bad not only offends God, but also makes us feel miserable and unhappy.

GRADE 6, CLASS 3: Life is worth living

General aim
This lesson had a very basic message. God made us to live! To live great lives! (See John 10:10.) He made us to live happily and well in this life we now have on earth, and so deserve to have an even better and richer life with Him and one another in eternal life. Our life now works best, and feels worth living, when we try earnestly to get things right and do things well. In special things, like sports and games, we see this clearly. Things go well when we put our whole hearts into them. And this is even more true of the big things of life. Life is dear to us when we realize what it is about, and try to live it well. Large things like love and sexuality will be blessings to us, if we understand them for what they really are, and follow the wise teaching of Christ.

Specific objectives
1. To help students see that all the things we do in life — like playing musical instruments, or taking part in sports — are much happier and dearer to us if we can do them well.
2. To help students understand that doing anything well — even cooking, or using a computer — can be important and rewarding. But it is much more important to live life well — to know what it is really about, and to begin to live with style and great hearts.
3. Of course it is true that not all of us can be great athletes, or great mathematicians. But Christ promises that anyone can live a great life, with the help of God’s grace, if they deeply want to, and come to Him for help.

4. To help students understand that some coaches and teachers — in sports and other skills — are better than others. In learning to live well, Christ is the best of all teachers. He is the Lord, and we are His disciples.

5. To help students understand the moral life as new life in the Spirit.

6. To see that love and sexuality are important parts of life. But they can be confusing, and sometimes they are badly taught. We need good teachers for such important things.

7. To understand that many people in today’s world try to teach us what sexuality is all about. But Christ the Lord is the best teacher of these things because He created them. He also knows us best, and cares about what we say and do. The teachers who teach us His ways are very important.

GRADE 6, CLASS 4: Learning how large love is

General aim
This lesson aims at helping the students understand the central message of Christ: that genuine love is the most important of all things. All our duties flow from the most important duty of loving God and of loving one another with generous love. And all our hope flows from love; only when we are willing to learn what true love is can we have happy homes, deep and lasting friendships, fairness to the weak and the poor, and greatness and joy.

Specific objectives
1. To explain why Christ is the best teacher of how great love is (1 Corinthians 13:4-8) and of how we learn to find honest love, in a world which so much wants honest love, but suffers because so many confuse real love with phony love.
2. To show that Jesus teaches us that generous love is necessary to save all the best things of the earth: homes and friendship, and every great and good thing our hearts long for.
3. To make it clear that generous love guards life in all the world. It guards the weak and helpless, the old and weary, and it guards all our hopes to be fair and good people. From people who love with true generosity, like Mother Teresa of Calcutta, we learn why abortion and euthanasia are so cruel.
4. To show how love gives people power to have pure hearts, and to be truthful and generous in their dealings with one another. All the Lord’s teachings about chaste living are teachings about loving rightly.

GRADE 6, CLASS 5: Personal Safety

- Practicing Boundaries – home, school, and online safety guidelines for children.
- Lesson Outline
  1. Introduction and opening prayer
  2. Teaching on human dignity and communicating boundaries
  3. Activity – talking about boundaries using scenarios
4. Wrap-up and connection to Catholic Social Teaching and the Dignity of the human person
5. Closing Prayer

- Lesson Background – Human Life is Sacred

"Human life is sacred because from its beginning it involves the creative action of God and it remains forever in a special relationship with the Creator, who is its sole end. God alone is the Lord of life from its beginning until its end: no one can under any circumstance claim for himself the right directly to destroy an innocent human being" (CCC 56)

GRADE 7, CLASS 1: Vocation — God’s call

General aim
This class is planned to help the students realize the goodness of our vocation: our call to be Christians, and our call by God Himself to an important life. It could be a call to a religious kind of vocation, or it could be a divine vocation to enter marriage with a very special person, and to have children. We are all called to find our way to heaven by doing great things on this earth in ordinary circumstances.

The whole idea of vocation is explored here: God’s deep concern for everything in our life, how we plan our lives, and the ways we learn to put all that we are as boys and girls into becoming men and women.

Specific objectives
1. To recall the first vocation we have: to be personal friends and followers of Christ, and to shape everything in our lives in ways that are faithful to the Lord.
2. To think about our special vocations: how God cares very much about the life each one of us will live. To explore the kind of life God invites us to and the kind of life that each one of us decides to live.
3. To understand how vocations work: God calls us freely to something important, and we freely decide. There is a call, a consecration, and a commitment.
4. To survey kinds of vocations, and to invite the students to think about, and to pray about, what kind of life they wish to have before God.
5. To study the relationship between our sexuality and our vocation, and how every vocation calls on all the gifts that God has given to us.

GRADE 7, CLASS 2:

Modesty — A strong and thoughtful virtue

General aim
To help students grasp the meaning of modesty and appreciate its attractiveness and goodness, and to help them understand why Christ wants us to have modesty in our hearts and in our lives.

Specific objectives
1. To help students see why modesty is an important virtue in our times too, because it is so closely related to self-respect and reverence for other people, and because it helps us to face sexuality more sensibly.

The Catholic Vision of Love .................................................................................................................................. SECTION TWO • Implementation
2. To make clear that the most important dimension of modesty is modesty in our minds and in our heart.
3. To explain why modesty in speech and in dress may important good fruits.
4. To show how modesty affects everyday life.

GRADE 7, CLASS 3:
Reconciliation in our years of growing up

General aim
This lesson seeks to help young people to make good use of the Sacrament of Reconciliation in ways that will help them most in their years of growing up. At this time of their life this sacrament is a necessary support for their life of faith and grace. It offers the help they need especially now, even though this is also a time in which they are especially tempted to neglect this sacrament. Temptations at this time of life are more disturbing, and sins are most embarrassing, and life, in general, gets more confusing. They need now certain special helps from the Lord, so that as they grow up in many ways, they may grow also in the life of faith. Regular use of this sacrament will help them to get a strong hold on their faith and on their will to live in ways Christ calls them, even in times of great confusion and stress.

Specific objectives
1. To show why, in the chaotic years of adolescence, when faith may begin to feel less important to us, and our friendship with Christ seems to fade, this special sacrament is so strong a help in renewing and deepening our friendship with Christ.
2. To show the many specific good things that an intelligent use of confession does for us as we are growing up.
3. To show how a thoughtful use of confession helps young people face problems regarding sexuality much more sensibly.
4. To help young people learn again how to go to confession with tranquility, and without embarrassment.
5. To help young people understand that we receive the grace of conversion only after the Holy Spirit asks us to seek it.

GRADE 7, CLASS 4: Christ and the courage to be pure of heart

General aim
This lesson helps the student know what the beatitude “Blessed are the pure of heart” means, and realize how true it is. It helps them see why it takes courage to have a pure and honest heart, but that life is badly hurt if we become cowards in this. For love is the most important of all things, and a pure heart is one that makes love be true to itself. The pure heart does not confuse selfish and lustful mistreatment of self and others with love, but knows that love really cares for the ones we love, and wants them to have what is truly good.

Specific objectives
1. To show that pure love (love not mixed with selfishness and dishonesty of heart) is the strongest and most burning love, just as pure gold is better than gold mixed with lead.
2. To clarify the differences between real and pure love, which shines in people who really care about us and want us to be happy and have what is surely good; and false love, seen in people who pretend to care about us, but are only pretending, or looking out for themselves.

3. To show why the world that does not know Christ, or the goodness of the generous love He teaches, also is an impure world. Love was made to be pure, to be true love, and so generous and truthful and a blessing to all. But the world mixes the love it longs for with many kinds of selfishness, and so turns its broken love into something false and the cause of much pain.

4. To show how, just as impurity and dishonesty about love hurt everything, so a pure heart helps everything, because it cares honestly about generosity in love, and about lasting love, and homes, and the care of children.

GRADE 7, CLASS 5: Personal Safety

- Communication Boundaries – texting, touching, and talking about ourselves and others.
- Lesson Outline
  1. Introduction and opening prayer
  2. Teaching on respect, focus on the dignity of the human person
  3. Activity – talking about texting, touching and taking responsibility for our words
  4. Wrap-up and connection to Catholic Social Teaching and the Dignity of the Human Person
  5. Closing Prayer and activity
- Lesson Background – Human Life is Sacred
  "Human life is sacred because from its beginning it involves the creative action of God and it remains forever in a special relationship with the Creator, who is its sole end. God alone is the Lord of life from its beginning until its end: no one can under any circumstance claim for himself the right directly to destroy an innocent human being" (CCC 56)

GRADE 8, CLASS 1:
Your vocation: To make the world a better place

General aim
This class seeks to stress for students the importance of accepting our responsibility for making this world a better place, for seeking to overcome abortion and the injustices involved in poverty, and to enable them to realize how necessary chastity is for overcoming abortion and social injustice.

(Note: Despite the second word in the title, this is not a class about “vocations.” Rather it is a class about responsibility to make the world a better place. The idea of “vocation” is in some way relevant, for our vocation as Christians includes the call to make this world more of a presence of the Kingdom of God. But vocations as such and their relation in our sexuality, are treated in other places in this course.)

Specific objectives
1. To help students understand how the Holy Spirit assists us in discerning the Father’s will for our lives.
2. To help students realize their social responsibilities in this world: “We are all really responsible for all!”
3. To show students why they should be firmly on the side of life in the abortion controversy, and to show how un-chastity leads to abortion.
4. To help students see how seriously the Gospel requires us to care about justice for the poor.
5. To help students realize why they will not become just and merciful if they do not also have self-control and chastity.

GRADE 8, CLASS 2: Living in a world that suffers from AIDS

General aim
This lesson seeks to help young people understand some of the bitter evils that have arisen from the misuse of sexuality. It speaks of AIDS, and of other sexually transmitted diseases, and of other serious harms. Sexuality is a gracious gift of God. But we invite tragedy when we use excellent things badly. It is never good and never safe to abuse sexuality. Still, the physical harms that come from abuses of sex are not the worst of its bad effects, and fear of these evils is not the best motive for being chaste. Treating sexuality intelligently is itself good; it makes friendship and all of life richer and happier. Chastity if not terribly difficult; we do not have to advise people to rely on the highly unreliable forms of “safe sex” foolishly taught by some today. There are secure ways of really being safe, and of having really good lives. Something as important as sexuality deserves to be treated intelligently!

Specific objectives
1. To remind people that Christ calls them to good and happy lives: the ways that He teaches securely guard us from the great harms that sinful activity causes.
2. To give a truthful picture of AIDS, how tragic it is, how common it has become, and what are its causes.
3. To show how so-called “safe sex” (deciding to use sexuality casually, while making use of unreliable devices to keep sinful activity from doing us physical harm) simply does not work.
4. To point out how easily one can escape AIDS if one so wills.
5. To remind students of the many other sexually transmitted diseases, how sin can have physically bad results. And these are not even the worst effects of sexual sins!
6. To show how unnecessary it is to commend insecure defenses against such terrible disease and the many harms they cause. A better way is readily possible. Chastity is not too difficult; it alone is really “normal.” Chastity is possible with God’s grace.
7. To recall the practical things we need to do to make an intelligent and chaste life easier and more attractive.
GRADE 8, CLASS 3: Christ and my conscience

General aim

Years of adolescence are often years of confusion. But young people do want to be good. They have high standards for others, and they want to be honest, and live by high standards themselves. Yet the world does much to confuse their ideas of right and wrong, as it does for all people. Often they let themselves be led astray, and feel that it is all right to do things that their peers do, because they don’t feel bad about doing such things. This lesson is intended to help them in something of greatest importance to their lives: in coming to realize what conscience really is, and how they can be radically honest in facing what is truly good or truly bad in the shaping of their own lives.

Specific objectives

1. To help students get a clear and honest understanding of what conscience is, and of the importance of a good conscience.
2. To help them appreciate that what Christ teaches us about conscience is really true, and that my life will be more honest if I allow the Holy Spirit to guide my conscience.
3. To show how a good conscience keeps one from painful confusions, and tragic decisions, touching sexuality.
4. To explain that knowing how to confess embarrassing sins can be a great help for us in keeping our lives honestly in order.
5. To show the distinctive ways in which a Christian conscience helps our lives.
6. To show how the Holy Spirit prompts us to seek repentance and conversion.

GRADE 8, CLASS 4: The Eucharist and love

General aim

This lesson seeks to show how the Eucharist is a gift of God’s most generous love, and shows us how to be generous in love in every part of life, and so wise in living. Jesus gave us the Eucharist the night before He died willingly for us, to remind us how much He would always love us, and to give through this sacrament the real power to love each other generously and strongly. The Eucharist constantly calls us to strong and true love, for Christ, and for each one of our brothers and sisters; and so the Eucharist calls us to live free from sin (which is the enemy of love) because we are so near to Christ, who is perfectly good, and calls us to be good to one another.

Specific objectives

1. To help us see why the Eucharist is a gift of pure love: love that is generous and honest, and give warmth of life.
2. To recall that Jesus gave us this sacrament, so we could love purely too: to have honest love for the Lord and for each other.
3. To remember that must be free from the selfishness of mortal sin to receive Communion well. We must be in the state of grace, seeking honestly to love God and one another, and so to make all the world a richer place.
4. To see why it is true that impure acts, which are such powerful forms of selfishness, and turning from what is really good, especially make the joy of Communion fade.
5. To help the students see why we should trust Christ, and to know that He will make it very possible for us to have generous and truthful hearts, if we come to Him with honest and truthful hearts in Communion.

GRADE 8, CLASS 5: Personal Safety

- Body Boundaries – what we wear and what we do.
- Lesson Outline
  1. Introduction and opening prayer
  2. Teaching on respect, focus on the dignity of the human person
  3. Teaching on modesty and chastity as safe body boundaries
  4. Activity – talking about what we wear and what we do
  5. Wrap-up and connection to Catholic Social Teaching and the Dignity of the Human Person
  6. Closing Prayer and activity

- Lesson Background – The Vocation to Chastity
  "Chastity means the successful integration of sexuality within the person and thus the inner unity of man in his bodily and spiritual being. Sexuality, in which man’s belonging to the bodily and biological world is expressed, becomes personal and truly human when it is integrated into the relationship of one person to another, in the complete and lifelong mutual gift of a man and a woman.” (Catechism of the Catholic Church Article 2337)
DIOCESAN SAFE ENVIRONMENTS POLICY

- The commitment to provide solid Catholic faith formation as well as to keep our children and youth safe is a monumental one. Our diocese has established policies to ensure the safety of our children and youth.

- Every catechist, and all personnel working with children must acquire State criminal record and child abuse clearances, and attend a Protecting God’s Children in-service before they can teach in our parish programs and Catholic schools.

- On April 12, 2004, Bishop Wuerl (then Bishop of Pittsburgh) approved and promulgated, as particular law for the diocese, the Safe Environments Policy which became effective July 1, 2004.

- On March 14, 2008, Bishop David Zubik (Bishop of Pittsburgh) approved a Revised Safe Environments Policy and directed that it be promulgated. The revised policy became law in all parishes and institutions of the diocese effective May 1, 2008.

- Additionally, effective May 28, 2007, the Pennsylvania Child Protective Services Law (CPSL) requires mandated immediate reporting of suspected child abuse (anyone under 18) if the child is under the care or supervision of a Church entity, including, but not limited to:
  - School students
  - CCD students
  - Children enrolled in child-care programs
  - Children being “babysat” during worship services or gatherings
  - Children participating in Church-related youth ministries or sports programs
  - Catholic Charities’ clients and health care patients

Our promise to parents to do everything in our power to protect the children and youth under our care is a solid one. Bishop Zubik is adamant that these policies be followed by every parish and school program across the Diocese.
Lesson 1:
The students will:
- a) Listen to the teacher’s explanation of how we are children of God and special; b) Orally tell how they are special by telling his/her own characteristics.
- Listen to the teacher’s explanation of why/how God made us special.
- Draw pictures of themselves identifying his/her own unique characteristics/specialness
- Identify/demonstrate ways to get along with others by a) playing a game following the rules; b) responding to teacher questions recognizing how rules keep us safe and why rules are fair.

Lesson 2:
The students will:
- Orally recall what they learned about using rules and why rules are fair.
- Listen to the teacher connecting the concept for obeying rules and how rules help us show respect for God’s people and other people’s things.
- Respond to question about how we respect our bodies.
- Respond to questions demonstrating the ability to connect the concept that there are good rules to follow to show we respect our body.
- Do the face activity to demonstrate the ability to recognize different feelings and to respond to teacher questions about recognizing feelings.
- Respond to closing questions by telling what they would do when recognizing different feelings in friends to demonstrate their comprehension of the concepts taught.

Lesson 3:
The students will:
- Review what they learned about rules and how to recognize feelings by responding to teacher questions and doing the Handout K-1B.
- Role play to demonstrate the ability to identify and manage proper playing by the rules and respecting others’ feelings.
- a) Listen to teacher reinforcement of proper management skills and proper reactions to stressful situations; b) Respond to teacher questions to demonstrate understanding of the concepts.
- a) Listen to the teacher expand the concept of responsibility and being in charge on one’s own body; b) Listen to how to report to someone when something doesn’t feel right or when something or someone makes one feel uncomfortable.

Lesson 4:
The students will:
- Demonstrate assertiveness with respectful responses in safe situations with older children and adults (e.g. “I HAVE TO CHECK FIRST”— check with a parent, guardian, or other trusted adult first) by orally responding to the “practicing the rules” activity.
Demonstrate assertiveness in unsafe situations (“SAY NO,” “GET AWAY,” and “GO TELL”) by participating in the “Practicing the Rule” activity and practicing what to say.

Describe and role-play what to do when approached by a stranger/non-stranger or on the telephone by participating in the “Practicing the Rule” activity and using the pretend phones.

Identify who to tell if there is a touching problem by orally responding to a short story and b) responding to teacher’s questions.

GRADES TWO and THREE

Lesson 1:
The students will:

- Identify the goodness of rules that keep us safe by discussing why the family, school and society have rules and laws.
- Describe positive characteristics they like about themselves and others by picking out good qualities from a list on Handout 2-3A.
- Identify that all things have a purpose by naming good things they can do with items like apple, sun, house, person, and body parts like nose, ears, feet, teeth.
- Identify what makes a good friend by naming that a friend always wants what is best for you.

Lesson 2:
The students will:

- Identify non-verbal communication skills by naming feelings acted out by the teacher and other students.
- Name how showing their emotions in a good ways helps us get along with others.
- Discuss how some things and people change by describing changes from a group of pictures.
- Describe and discuss how he/she is a unique and special person by naming choices they have made and ways they have grown from a baby till now.

Lesson 3:
The students will:

- Identify positive (good effects) and negative (bad effects) of peer pressure through the use of balloons, pictures and stories.
- Describe his/her uniqueness as a person who is continually growing and changing.
- Demonstrate appropriate ways to react in a stressful situation by responding to questions about stories.
- Differentiate between healthy and unhealthy ways to express feelings by reacting to situations in pictures and stories.
- Demonstrate that he/she recognizes non-verbal communication skills by answering questions related to situations and/or pictures.
- Demonstrate respect for the rights and feelings of others by answering appropriate questions.
- Identify skills necessary to build enriching friendships by participating in the exercise on “Peer Pressure.”
Lesson 4:
The students will:
- Name rules that keep them safe.
- Explain what makes something public and what makes something privates
- Explain the bathing suit rule.
- Name the fact that no one has a right to touch their body without permission.

Lesson 5
The students will:
- Name people who can help keep them safe.
- Practice detective skills to be able to help in emergency situations (review things & people as observed for homework for last lesson, describe the visitor to the classroom).
- Identify safe responses to situations where they may be separated from an adult family member or when someone unknown approaches them.
- List and role-play appropriate behaviors that assist the individual in maintaining his/her personal safety (e.g. “SAY “NO,” “GET AWAY,” “GO TELL”).

GRADE FOUR

Lesson 1
The students will:
- Demonstrate respect for the rights and feelings of others by listening to/reading the story about St. Therese Liseaux in the Catholic Safety Agent booklet and participating in the exercises.
- Differentiate between healthy and unhealthy ways to express feelings by participating in the exercise about feelings and playing the game to determine someone’s feelings.
- Differentiate between behaviors that contribute to a positive attitude and those that contribute to a negative attitude by acting out what they read on the Feeling Cards exercise, and by naming the feeling and what caused them to feel a certain way.
- Identify self control skills by participating in the lesson on page 4 of the CSA Notebook regarding behaviors and feelings.

Lesson 2
The students will:
- Demonstrate self control skills by acting out situations that the teacher gives them to show self-control.
- Identify behaviors that may cause conflict or stress and ways of dealing with them through discussion about safe situations and situations that cause stress.
- Name appropriate ways to react in stressful situations by participating in the brainstorming session about a “stranger at the door” and discussing appropriate ways to deal with the stressful situation.
- Identify personal strengths and weaknesses and their impact on others by completing the exercises on page 6 and 7 of the CSA booklet – knowing our strengths and weaknesses.
Lesson 3
The students will:
- Name behaviors that show a positive attitude and those that show a negative attitude by listening to/reading the story about St. John Bosco and how he treated others.
- Show healthy ways to have fun by acting out (through the game of Charades) fun things they enjoy doing with a friend.
- Identify peer influence on his/her feelings, behavior, and decisions by participating in the exercise on “Peer Pressure.”
- Identify characteristics of a friend by participating in the exercise on “what is a good friend” and reading about good friends on page 9, “A Friend is Someone Who,” and page 10 of the CSA booklet.
- Name what Peer Pressure is by participating in the exercise and answering the teacher questions on peer pressure, and completing the exercise on Peer Pressure on page 11 of the CAS booklet.

Lesson 4
The students will:
- Name the steps to making appropriate decisions by completing the exercise on page 12 and 13 of the CSA booklet.
- Practice refusal skills by participating in the Safety Agent – Act 1 game.
- Identify behaviors that may cause conflict or stress and ways of dealing with them by looking at situations on the Act 1 cards and naming the proper way to handle each situation.

Lesson 5
The students will:
- Demonstrate the ability to accept responsibility and consequences for their actions by participating in the Act – 2 Situation Cards – "Stressful Situations.”
- List and role-play appropriate alternate behaviors that enhance personal safety: SAY “NO, GET AWAY,” and GO TELL.
- Demonstrate assertiveness with respect in response to a safe situation through the group exercise with the Act – 2 Situation Cards.
- Practice communication skills by acting out ways of communication – by phone, e-mail, hand signals, and body language.

Lesson 6
The students will:
- Describe ways of preventing abuse: emotional, physical and sexual through review of previous lessons and through group discussion about the people we can rely on to keep us safe (parents, older siblings, police, firemen etc.) and family rules and guidelines for safety.
- Demonstrate assertiveness in response to an unsafe situation by practicing with the teacher, "No, Get Away!" after each situation presented.
• Name interpersonal situations that may pose a threat to his/her personal safety (secrets, bribes, tricks) by repeating each clue after the teacher: 1. They want you to keep secrets; 2. They always want to be alone with you. 3. They try to offer you bribes; 4. They always want to hang out with kids and never seem to want to be with people their own age.
• Identify ways to help others as sources of help by participating in the exercise on things that make a place or situation safe.
Catechetical Leadership

Catechetical Leadership and Pastoral Care are imperative elements for a successful integration of the Catholic Vision of Love.

Please review these materials which explain the process for meeting with Parish and School Catechetical Leadership.
MEMORANDUM

TO: Elementary and Secondary School Principals Catechetical Administrators
    Youth Ministers

FROM: Mrs. Judy Kirk
       Mrs. Joyce Gillooly
       Dr. Robert Paserba

Date: August 18, 2011

RE: Revised Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum

We want to thank you for your wonderful service to the Church through the education and catechesis of our children and youth. One of the most important efforts in our catechetical program is the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum. We are pleased to share with you that our efforts to update and revise that program is now complete and ready for implementation.

As you know, the Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum is the approved program in the Diocese of Pittsburgh for the safe environment education of our children and youth, along with their parents. This program is mandated for use in every parish and school in the diocese. The Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum is a program that integrates its teaching into the religious education curriculum of our Catholic schools and parish programs of religious education. In addition, specific lesson plans have been in place since 1995 for students in grades 5 through 8 with a required meeting for parents.

The revised program includes updated lesson plans for grades 5 through 8, new lessons highlighting the dignity of the human person and focusing on understanding healthy boundaries, and lesson plans for students in grades K through 4. In addition, we have added resources and guidelines in facilitating the parent meeting and providing our parents with more information that will help them to meet their own responsibilities in teaching their children.
Revised Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum
Page 2
August 18, 2011

This revised program is mandatory for all our schools and parishes and must be implemented beginning this fall. These materials will be distributed to you within the next few weeks to help facilitate their use by teachers and parents. In order that you as school and parish catechetical leaders fully understand the program and what is being required for implementation, we are asking your participation in an in-service that will be conducted via a webinar. It is our hope that this will make the in-service easier for you to participate in so that you can move forward with the full implementation of the program in our schools and parish programs.

Please allow 90 minutes for the webinar, selecting a time that is conducive to your scheduling needs. The first 60 minutes will be an informational dialogue, providing you with important information regarding Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum. The final 30 minutes will be open for question and answer on implementing Catholic Vision of Love Chastity Education and Personal Safety Curriculum in your parish or school.

Several times have been selected for this webinar:

Thursday, September 15, 10:00 a.m.
Thursday, September 15, 7:00 p.m.
Tuesday, September 20, 1:30 p.m.

REGISTRATION IS LIMITED, PLEASE REGISTER EARLY

Refer to http://www.diopitt.org/department-religious-education/catholic-vision-love-0 to register and for additional information.

You will receive 2 hours of credit toward your ongoing professional and catechetical certification.

You will need:
• Computer with Internet Access
• A Quiet Place to participate in this webinar uninterrupted
• A Notebook to record new ideas and information
• A Password to log on with, which will be provided for you once you have registered.
Considerations for Attending THIS Webinar:

• There will be live chat available throughout the webinar. If you should have a question for clarification during the presentation, you may type your question utilizing the chat module and receive an immediate response from a member of our presentation team. Alternately, you may be invited into dialogue by the presentation team throughout the webinar.

• Please attend to any personal matters before the start of the webinar and plan on spending 90 minutes participating. If you should need to step away from your computer, make sure to notify the presentation team utilizing the chat module, as those spending more than 10 minutes in-active or on another website will not receive credit for attending the session.

• If you are planning on participating in the webinar as a group, using one computer, please make sure to register as such, as well as notify the presentation team utilizing the chat module, in order to receive credit for attending the session.

• Place a sign on your door that says “Participating in Webinar, Please DO NOT DISTURB”.

• Anyone who does not participate in this webinar in-service will be required to attend a meeting that will be scheduled in the near future. All principals and catechetical administrators are required to participate.

This webinar will be presented by Mrs. Judy Kirk, Mrs. Joyce Gillooly, Mr. Jeff Hirst and Miss Holly Joy Penzenstadler. Please contact the Religious Education Office at 412.456.3112 should you have any questions.

We know that your time is of great value and appreciate your commitment to Catholic Education. Please help us to make this endeavor a success by responding in a timely manner. Thank you again for your contributions to Catholic Education and the Mission of Christ in the Church.

Thank you.

c: Reverend Kris D. Stubna, S.T.D.
   Regional Vicars
   Pastors and Parish Life Collaborator
   Parochial Vicars
   Secretariat for Catholic Education Staff
Welcome
With Bishop David A. Zubik, Bishop of Pittsburgh

Introductory Remarks
With Reverend Kris D. Stubna, S.T.D.
Secretary for Catholic Education

“CVOL is considered the most comprehensive program of its kind developed by an American diocese. It is based on the authoritative documents of the Church.”

Why Catholic Vision of Love?
This is the program for the safety of children, as approved by the U.S. Bishop’s Safe Environment Committee.

Introduction
• Important Reminders from your host, Mrs. Judy Kirk, Director for Religious Education, Diocese of Pittsburgh

• Participation Questions: There will be 6 questions throughout the next hour. Your participation is requested and required if you are seeking Catechetical Credits

• Question & Answer: If you should have questions during the webinar, please email us immediately at CVOL@diopitt.org …we will have members of our staff available to clarify and assist you throughout this presentation.

• Interested in MORE? Contact religiouseducation@diopitt.org to set up a consultation at your parish or school.
CERTIFICATION

The Diocesan Morality Course is a 21 hour study, focusing on understanding Life in Christ through the lens of Catholic Moral Teachings, the foundation for CVOL Instruction.

Revisions Committee

Barbara Belski     Tootie Betres
Christopher Chapman  Siobhan DeWitt
Jeff Hirst     Joyce Gillooly
Judy Kirk      Dr. Ed Scheid
Holly Joy Penzenstadler  Maureen Wood
Sharon Hachman  Sr. Michelle Grgurich
Lorie Uhlmann

Specific lessons for students in Kindergarten through Eighth Grade were created at the request of the Auditors.

Lesson Plan - Personal Safety
Kindergarten and First Grade

Lesson Four

Objectives:
The students will:
• Demonstrate awareness of safe situations with older children and adults (e.g., “WHAT DO YOU THINK?”, check with a parent, guardian, or other trusted adult first) by actively responding to the “predicting the rules” activity.
• Demonstrate awareness of unsafe situations (“SAY NO” “GET AWAY” and “Go TELL” by participating in the “Predicting the Risk” activity and predicting what to do in a given situation).
• Describe and role-play what to do when approached by a stranger when stranger offers to use the telephone by participating in the “Predicting the Risk” activity and using the pretend scenarios.
• Identify who is safe if there is a trustworthy person by only responding to a short story and (s) responding to teacher’s questions.

Materials: crowns, 2 pay telephones, decorations for crowns, celebration treat
• Distribute crowns

The Dignity of the Human Person

“God’s love does not distinguish between the infant in the mother’s womb or the child or the youth or the adult or the older person. In each one God sees His image and likeness. Human life is a manifestation of God and His glory.”

- Pope Benedict XVI

- What is the Dignity of the Human Person?
- Where does this Dignity come from?
The Dignity of the Human Person
With Mrs. Helene Paharik, Director, Department for Human Dignity

GOAL
To show that God is the Creator of all our being:
that our sexuality is God’s rich gift, which affects all that we are and serves precious human goods, when it is understood in the light of Christ’s gracious teaching.

GOAL
To stress the sublime importance of every person and the essential equality of all persons; and to show that each one is called to greatness of heart and to friendship with the Lord.

GOAL
To teach the profound Christian motives for reverence for every person, and for a healthy self-esteem; to make clear how precious every person is to God, and how by God’s grace each is capable of living the excellent ways Christ makes known.

“...It is important to understand that this vision of the human person comes from God—Father, Son and Holy Spirit. It is this vision, moral at its core, which directs our actions and behaviors toward all that is right and good.”

Bishop David Zubik
"The Living Church", Article 22

Rooted In Scripture
The Church’s teachings on Sexuality is rooted in Scripture

Scripture guides us in appropriate and honorable usage of our sexuality.
The Teaching of Sexuality within the Context of Catholic Morality

“The purpose of this education is to move a person to exercise personal freedom to choose ways of living that are faithful to the Gospel call.”

Cultural Expectations may Change, but Morality Doesn’t

• What does it mean to be living beneath our dignity?
• Our attitudes about sexuality and morality are deeply affected by cultural pressures.
• What is objective truth?
• What is wrong with relativity?
• How is Christian morality affected by the contemporary idea of relativity?

The principal goal of The Catholic Vision of Love is to present…

“A clear articulation of the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is essential today in order to strengthen the family, to help love endure, and to enable God’s people to live faith-filled, joyous and meaningful lives.”

Donald Cardinal Wuerl while Bishop of Pittsburgh

GOAL

To guide all toward a fuller understanding of what Christ teaches in His Church about sexual morality and self possession, and to assist them in seeing how good Christ’s teaching is, and how important it is to shape our consciences to live in His ways.

GOAL

To lead all toward understanding and acceptance of all the dimensions of our human lives: spiritual, moral, psychological, physical, emotional, sexual, intellectual, and social.
Did You Know?

“Christian teaching about sexuality is true and it is liberating.”
Within the context of marriage, sexuality becomes a natural sacrament. In learning to love God, we learn to love one another. The program begins with drawing the connection of love for God with love for other and love for self. Gradually, students will be able to draw the connection to their individual vocations.

“By our very nature, we seek to escape the loneliness of the human condition and find ‘enduring’ love—a love that gives all of itself to another…”

GOAL

To support all persons in their effort to acquire the skills, insights, and virtues they need to have confidence and peace in leading chaste lives.

Right Conscience

“In our lives, we experience two wonderful moments. The first is that great moment when we realize the forgiveness of God. It is that moment when we understand—truly understand—that God will forgive. It is in that moment of freedom from sin that we know how real are the words of absolution in the Sacrament of Penance. The second wonderful moment is when we can forgive. It is that great moment of letting go, of forgiving those who have harmed us, forgiving the sins of the past so that we can live for the future.”

Bishop Zubik, “Bridging the Gap”, March 13, 2009

Reconciliation and Advocacy

The Protecting God’s Children and Safety programs seek to correct abuses to the Dignity of the Human Person.
Abuse to the Dignity of the Human Person

Our Church is committed to defend the dignity of all people, and our Catholic Vision of Love empowers young people to live freely through these personal safety initiatives.

GOAL

To seek to guard all from exploitation by providing a clear understanding of everything one needs to know about sexuality to be secure and fortified to live in this contemporary world.

Walk Through the Program

Foundational Principles

1. Education in the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is education in an integral part of Catholic faith and life. It is formation in ways of living that are inseparable from the Gospel. Education in human sexuality is inseparable from our overall faith education and formation.

2. There are certain doctrinal and moral teachings of faith that underlie the Catholic Vision of Love program. (Refer to pages 5-20 in Grades 5, 6, 7, or 8 Curriculum)

3. There are indeed certain major practical problems that our program must face and treat effectively. Young people's understanding of love and sexuality is dramatically affected by a culture caught up in materialism, hedonism, unbelief, and even despair. However, while the Catholic Vision of Love program faces these contemporary issues, its primary focus is not only of avoiding certain grave moral evils but one of positively guiding people toward living excellent lives in all that touches love, affectivity, and personal relationships.

4. Sexual education is primarily the responsibility of the parents. The Catholic Vision of Love program is meant to cooperate with parents and not substitute for them. On the other hand, teaching is so critical in this area, it simply cannot be taken for granted that parents are capable of doing it on their own with no assistance from the Church.

5. The Catholic Vision of Love program is to be integrated with education in Catholic faith and life generally. Therefore it is designed to be integrated into the religion curriculum itself. Catholic Vision of Love is a total parish program, thus it will involve both Catholic school and parish programs of religious education.

6. Only those who can and do agree with Catholic teaching in these matters can be permitted to teach The Catholic Vision of Love.

7. Education and materials need to be provided for parents and other adults. This includes education for clergy who will be instrumental in the implementation of the Catholic Vision of Love program.

The media and contemporary pressures tend to press all people toward attitudes and practices which contradict Christian principles. The whole community needs to get a firmer grasp on basic Catholic moral principles if it is to communicate these principles effectively to its young members.

8. Education in the proper use of media is of primary importance.
GOAL
To motivate and assist all to follow Christ’s vision of love, guarding all the good things God intended sexuality to serve, in lives enriched by heeding the commandments and beatitudes, and by doing works of mercy.

Implementing CVOL in your Parish or School
• CVOL is part of the curriculum
• Special Catholic Education
• Strategy ideas
• We are here to assist you in providing the best experience of CVOL for our Church
Implementing CVOL in your Parish or School

The Classroom Model
- Separated by Grade Levels, following the lesson plans provided, or
- Create your own lesson plans based on the Catechetical Materials in the Catechist Notes Section of each grade
- Certified Catechist presenting and facilitating classes
- Come up with creative ways to get the students thinking and talking about the topics
- Send something home for the parents to help educate them on what their child(ren) have learned
- Know about current events and contemporary culture and issues to refer to in lessons
- NEVER hand out materials to students and have them read them aloud or in small groups—PASS ON THE FAITH WITH CONVICTION, ENTHUSIASM, and PASSION!

The Discussion Model
- Separated by Grade Levels, combining 5-6th or 7th & 8th if necessary.
- Adult facilitators who are comfortable interacting with young people, as well as certified in instructing CVOL
- Mini-lessons, handouts, and a plan for initiating discussion on topics, i.e. “What Would You Do?”, “What Do You Think?”, and “What Do You Know?” and always be willing to ask “Why do you think that?”
- Know about current events and contemporary culture and issues to refer to in discussion.
- Clear boundaries of what can be discussed
- Something to take home to share with parents and support discussion at home

The Rally Model
- Multi-grade levels, however, ensuring that ALL lessons are incorporated over 2-4 years of instruction
- Adequate space, sound, and supervision to manage youth
- Activity or ice breaker for the group that relates with the topics
- Dynamic speakers to present the topics with enthusiasm, and cohesively tie together multiple lessons, as well as speak on a level that youth understand.
- Certified Catechist to ensure that the content is appropriate and adheres to the Foundational Principles and Guidelines for CVOL
- MAXIMUM of 90 minutes for the “Rally Model”, and happening frequently enough to cover content in a reasonable amount of time

The Retreat Model
- Separated by Grade Levels
- Incorporating activities, discussion, and prayer services
- Dynamic speakers to present the topics with enthusiasm, especially since it will take a couple of hours to get through all the materials!
- Plenty of adult facilitators who are comfortable interacting with young people
- Clear boundaries of what can be discussed
- Certified Catechist to ensure that the day follows the Foundational Principles and Guidelines for CVOL
- Something to take home as a reminder of the value of living the Catholic Vision of Love in their lives.

For 8th-12th Graders, the Silver Ring Thing, Catholic Edition, drives home the message of Chastity and Abstinence, in the high-energy and developmentally appropriate styles that youth today respond to.

The parent portion of this event provides families with an opportunity to receive the same message and relate it to together.
Catechist Preparation

Catechists must be in-services in the Catholic Vision of Love by one of the following means prior to beginning instruction:

1. The 21-hour Morality Component of the Diocesan Basic Certification Course that integrates the objectives of the Catholic Vision of Love.

2. One-Day Workshops offered periodically throughout the Diocese of Pittsburgh.

Both programs are provided in this section.
MORALITY: LIFE IN CHRIST
(Basic Certification)

COURSE SYLLABUS

Description:
MORALITY (Basic Certification) is a 21 hour survey of the moral teaching of the Catholic Church as expressed in the Catechism of the Catholic Church to fulfill the certification requirements of parish catechists and Catholic school teachers in the Diocese of Pittsburgh, as well as to prepare all for facilitating the Catholic Vision of Love. The essential moral principals and their application will be examined at an adult level to assist catechists and teachers in their educational ministry with a strong focus on the dignity of the human person and sexual morality. This course does not cover all moral issues, however it should move a person to continue to review the moral teachings of the Catholic Church in appropriate and responsible ways. The course will provide participants with an opportunity to reflect on their own conscientious decision-making as they consider their role of fostering the formation of conscience in their students.

Objectives:
1. Identify and discuss the essential moral principals of the Church and their application;
2. Explore the possibilities for enhanced conscientious decision-making as baptized adults;
3. Be prepared to present the Catholic Vision of Love lessons in grades 5-8;
4. Be prepared to create an environment in parish or school that fosters formation of conscience.

Procedures:
Lectures, text research, scripture study, large and small group discussions, Catholic Vision of Love materials, audio-visual presentations.

Requirements:
1. The Diocese requires participants who seek credit for courses to attend sessions; therefore, only one absence is permitted;
2. Reading of the text, research, and scriptures;
3. Participants are invited to join in the large and small group discussions in a manner befitting their personal and professional ability and responsibility.

Text:

Resources:
Additional resources to be provided by the instructors.
Course Outline:

Week 1  Dignity of the Human Person—CCC 1700-1729
Scripture on dignity of the person and sexuality
Anthropological foundations
Life in Christ
  Assigned Readings: National Directory for Catechesis Chapter 6

Week 2  Created Both Free and Responsible—CCC 1730-1802
Scripture on covenant
Freedom and conscience
Sources of the moral act

Week 3  The Problem of Personal Evil: Sin—CCC 1803-1876, 2351-2381
Scripture on sin
Sexuality and theology of the body
Specific Moral Issues, including Contraception, Homosexuality, etc.

Week 4  Salvation: Moral Law, Grace, Justification—CCC 1949-2029
Scripture on justification and grace in St. Paul's Letter to the Romans Natural law and revealed law
Grace and Justification

Week 5  Catholic Social Teaching—CCC 1877-1948; 2426-2449
Scripture on justice
Person and society
Brief history of Catholic Social Teaching
Economic justice; war and peace

Week 6  Guidance in the Love of God and Neighbor—CCC 2030-2557
Scripture on respect for life
Environmental respect
Abortion, critical care, capital punishment
  Assigned Readings: National Directory for Catechesis Chapter 7

Week 7  Living the Catholic Vision of Love—CCC 2337-2350
Chastity Education in the parish and in the school
CVOL Lessons for students and parents
Evaluation and application (all grades)
April 9, 2011
Mrs. Judy Kirk
Miss Holly Joy Penzenstadler

The Catholic Vision of Love

John 1: 1-14

Reader 1: In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.
Reader 2: He was in the beginning with God.
Reader 3: All things came to be through him, and without him nothing came to be. What came to be through him was life, and life was the light of all people. The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it.
Reader 4: A man named John was sent from God. He came for testimony, to testify to the light, so that all might believe through him.
Reader 5: He was not the light, but came to testify to the light.
Reader 6: The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world. He came to his own, and his own people did not accept him.
Reader 7: But to those who did accept him he gave power to become children of God, to those who believe in his name, who were born not by natural generation nor by human choice nor by a man's decision but of God.

All: And the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us, and we saw his glory, the glory as of the Father's only Son, full of grace and truth.

Part 1

Find a Partner...

Why do you think that we teach the Catholic Vision of Love?

“The purpose of this education is to move a person to exercise a personal freedom to choose ways of living that are faithful to the Gospel call”

Therefore, we must KNOW the Gospel call.

Basic kerygmatic message that we should be able to articulate to students is:

God made me, God knows me,
God loves me, God has a plan for me.

We should also be able to allow for our lives to be a response to God’s love and plan, and to the salvific implications of the Word becoming flesh.

“Christian teaching about sexuality is true and it is liberating”

Think about it:

Does your personal experience of this prove this statement to be true?

Our experience influences our ability to teach, evangelize, and lead students and families into a deeper understanding of God's plan for their lives and their sexuality.
What CVOL is, and what it is not

What CVOL is:
- Scripture based curriculum revealing the truth about human sexuality and morality.
- A Chastity education in the Catholic tradition
- A support and help to parents, who are the primary educators of their children.

What CVOL is not:
- A Sex-Ed Program
- A biology class for Catholics
- An Abstinence Only Curriculum
- A substitute for the parental role

---

The Word Became Flesh

- Bodily-ness deeply affects how we worship and pray.
- God takes us seriously as bodily persons by himself becoming bodily.
- We human persons are bodily beings.
- God creates us as bodily beings.
- Because the Word became human, we have a God who understands us “on the inside”
- What are the implications of the knowledge of the “Theology of the Body”?

---

The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality

[A] healthy culture of the body leads to accepting oneself as a gift and as an incarnated spirit, called to be open to God and society. A healthy culture of the body should always accompany formation. (#106)

---

Catholic Morality: The Church Alive

“Often this inconsistent approach to life is rooted in our understanding of what freedom is and how we want to be successful in life. As a result, we can be quick to compromise our faith for something more worldly.

Indeed, the secularization of society tempts us to conclude that the achievement of success is linked with power, prestige, popularity. Moreover, an unfortunate view of life and persons that mistakenly values the importance of each person based solely on their usefulness rather than on their God-given inherent dignity does away with the very value of life itself.”

—Bishop Zubik

---

The Basics of Catholic Morality

Freedom

Truth

Natural law

Law

Conscience
The 6th Commandment:
You shall not commit adultery.

The 9th Commandment:
You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife.

National Directory for Catechesis

“Catechesis on the sixth and ninth commandments includes instruction on the gift of human sexuality, its inherent goodness, and the proper place of that gift within the context of a faithful, fruitful, and lifelong marriage.”

Such Catechesis:

• Explains the difference, complementarity, and essential equality of the sexes.
• Explains the virtue of chastity, its meaning, and its various forms.
• Teaches the follower of Christ to reject the values and practices of a sexually permissive society; explains that immodest thoughts, words, and actions are morally wrong and can lead to morally permissive behavior.
• Teaches the practice of chastity through modest behavior, dress, and speech, resisting lustful desires and temptations, pornography, and indecent entertainment.

Defining the Terms

• “chastity”:
  – Chastity is a state of heart, mind, and action which reflects appropriate expressions of affection for a relationship.
• “modest behavior, dress, and speech”:
  – Modesty is an outward expression of an inward disposition. How do we encourage this?
• “resisting lustful desires and temptations”
  – Teaching about the virtues of temperance and fortitude, and how to use them!
  ...resisting “pornography, and indecent entertainment”
  – Everything that goes in must come out. Consider digestion, respiration, and even imagination. Take a breath...

The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality

Children and young people should be encouraged to have esteem for, and to practice self-control and restraint, to live in an orderly way, to make personal sacrifices in a spirit of love for God, self-respect and generosity towards others, without stifling feelings and tendencies, but channeling them into a virtuous life. (#58)

Such Catechesis:

• Promotes marital fidelity and teaches that sexual intercourse is a moral and human good reserved for married persons.
• Explains that for Christians, premarital sex, extramarital sex, adultery, masturbation, homosexual acts, and other acts of impurity are forbidden.
• Includes instruction on the immorality of adultery, polygamy, incest, common-law marriage, premarital cohabitation, rape, and all forms of sexual abuse.
Why does the Church teach that?

- Sexual intercourse is a moral and human good reserved for married persons
- Premarital & Extramarital Acts
- Masturbation
- Homosexual Acts
- Abuses against the dignity of the human person

Homosexuality

- The Church’s general teaching on homosexuality is summed up in the Catechism of the Catholic Church. An irreversible homosexual orientation is not sinful, since it is not sought by homosexual persons. A tendency, desire or inclination are not choices and are therefore not wrong in themselves.
- There is a real difference between sexual desire and the decision to act on it. The Church makes a critical distinction between orientation, and conduct or behavior. The Church clearly teaches that homosexual acts are immoral. Included under homosexual acts are genital sexual activity and erotic relational behavior with a person of the same sex. Thus, romantic behavior between homosexual persons is morally unacceptable, because it points toward future sexual relationships that are non-mortal. Romantic behaviors is not confined to a set of defined activities. It is a description of one-to-one relational behavior which involves sexual attraction. Romantic behavior is quite different from the behavior of simple friendship.

Pastoral Care of Students with Same-Sex Attraction

- Catholic schools and those teaching the Catholic faith should work to present the Church’s teaching fully. This does not mean that questions should not be explored, but always with the intention of understanding and accepting the teaching.
- Students experiencing same-sex attraction should be treated with sensitivity and compassion. Homosexual students, in particular, often have a difficult period of adjustment in recognizing their sexual orientation and its consequences for their lives.
- Adolescents (and even older students) are not above the best judges of their own sexual orientation. When a student discloses a same-sex attraction, it does not necessarily mean that the student is homosexual. Teachers and others entrusted with the pastoral care of students experiencing same-sex attraction should also keep in mind the different stages in a student’s life and his or her ability to absorb teaching.
- The often negative impact of the media on sexual morality generally should not be underestimated. The student may feel intrinsically and may not understand that premarital sex is morally wrong.
- The Catechism of the Catholic Church states: “The decision of homossexual persons to carry out a sexual act is morally unacceptable, inasmuch as this is contrary to a personal vocation to chastity and is a nullification of the human act, which is a free and creative gift” (Catechism #2358).
- Many of these voices... propose a joy that comes with the superficial and fleeting pleasure of the senses.
- While the Church respects an individual who has done his or her best to come to a correct moral judgment, it is not obligated to accommodate a decision based on an individual’s erroneous conscience. The Church is a student who seeks to understand the truth of God and its implications
- A decision that a student has made is not the same as a decision that a student is made to have. Students are free to their own inclinations, and children should be encouraged to reflect on and be responsible for their actions.
- The Holy Father spoke of the enormous desire of the young to be happy. His message and the message that all of us engaged in Catholic education must never tire of saying before the young people entrusted to us is this:

People are made for happiness. Rightly, then, you thirst for happiness.

Christ has the answer to happiness. The answer is love. Love, the great key to happiness, is a reality, something which cannot be limited by reason and is not a difficult thing. Christ holds the secret of this reality. By walking always with Christ, even when the path is painful, we can achieve joy.

Morality is a call to recognize our dignity...

The Catholic Catechism starts its section on Catholic morality with St. Leo the Great’s beautiful words:

Christian, recognize your dignity and, now that you share in God’s own nature, do not return to your former base condition by sinning. Remember who is your head and whose body you are a member. Never forget that you have been rescued from the power of darkness and brought into the light of the Kingdom of God. (Catechism, #1691)

Morality is a call to recognize our dignity as men and women who have received a free gift of new life in Christ.

Morality is a call to recognize our dignity...
"The Gospel of Life

“The first and fundamental step towards this culture [culture of life] transformation consists in forming consciences with regard to the incomparable and inviolable worth of every human life. It is of the greatest importance to re-establish the essential connection between life and freedom. These are inseparable goods: where one is violated, the other also ends up being violated…"

Such Catechesis:

• Invites consideration of a vocation to the priesthood or religious life, in which Christian chastity is lived and witnessed out of love for Christ and for the sake of the kingdom

"CVOL is considered the most comprehensive program if its kind developed by an American diocese. It is based on the authoritative documents of the Church."

"...There is no true freedom where life is not welcomed and loved; and there is no fullness in life except in freedom. Both realities have something inherent and specific which links them inextricably: the vocation to love. Love, as a sincere gift of self, is what gives the life and freedom of the person their truest meaning.” (Article 96)

Vocation

• What the world needs now is heroic love.
• What is vocation?
• How do we promote vocations in this context?
• Why do we promote vocations in this context?

special considerations

What are the special considerations in teaching the Catholic Vision of Love in the parish or school setting?
Goal 1:

To show that God is the Creator of all our being: that our sexuality is God’s rich gift, which affects all that we are and serves precious human goods, when it is understood in the light of Christ’s gracious teaching.

Goal 2:

To stress the sublime importance of every person and the essential equality of all persons; and to show that each one is called to greatness of heart and to friendship with the Lord.

Goal 3:

To teach the profound Christian motives for reverence for every person, and for a healthy self-esteem; to make clear how precious every person is to God, and how by God’s grace each is capable of living the excellent ways Christ makes known.

Goal 4:

To guide all toward a fuller understanding of what Christ teaches in His Church about sexual morality and self-possession, and to assist them in seeing how good Christ’s teaching is, and how important it is to shape our consciences to live in His ways.

“*The goal of this education is to present Christ’s vision of love and sexuality, and to encourage all to live according to the Good News of his teaching on love, marriage, the family, sexuality and the freedom of self-possession.

- Donald Cardinal Wuerl, while Bishop of Pittsburgh
Goal 5:

To lead all toward understanding and acceptance of all the dimensions of our human lives: spiritual, moral, psychological, physical, emotional, sexual, intellectual, and social.

Goal 6:

To support all persons in their effort to acquire the skills, insights, and virtues they need to have confidence and peace in leading chaste lives.

Goal 7:

To seek to guard all from exploitation by providing a clear understanding of everything one needs to know about sexuality to be secure and fortified to live in this contemporary world.

Goal 8:

To motivate and assist all to follow Christ’s vision of love, guarding all the good things God intended sexuality to serve, in lives enriched by heeding the commandments and beatitudes, and by doing works of mercy.

Part 2

Implementation Strategies

How to move the Catholic Vision of Love from a program to a way of life...

Remember, CVOL is part of the curriculum for Religious Education, set forth by the Diocese of Pittsburgh.
Your School, Your Church, Your Issues

- What has been your experience of CVOL implementation on the local level?
- What worked? What didn’t?
- How could you make it better?
- What are your concerns? Ideas? Suggestions?
- How has the parent meeting been part of the process?

The Parent Meeting

- Step One: Understanding
  - What’s the value?
- Step Two: Promotion and Team
  - Parent attendance
- Step Three: Preparation
  - Presentation Notes
- Step Four: Follow Up
  - Parent Resources
  - Tips for on-going follow up and communication with parents
- Other

The Truth and Meaning of Human Sexuality

In a Christian home, parents have the strength to lead their children to a real Christian maturation of their personalities, according to the measure of Christ, in his Mystical Body, the Church. (#48)

Responding to Parent Concerns

What are some of the reasons that parents may voice concern about the Catholic Vision of Love program, lesson plans, necessity, etc?

What are some of the specific questions that parents may have?

What are some of our responses to these interactions?

Parent Discussions...

- What do you think about that?
- Who else is talking to your child about sexuality?
  - Does your home have a tv? Cable? Internet? Does your child have facebook? Does your child listen to music? What artists?
  - Does your child go to school? Eat lunch? Ride the bus?
  - Chances are, your child is hearing a lot about sexuality, from a lot of people other than you. What would you want them to hear?

Helping Parents...

It is part of our responsibility to help parents...but how do we do this?

» Support » Information » Encouragement
» Follow up
Where Can I Get More Information?

Methods for Implementation

Can this be “boxed”?

NO. It’s important to consider the CVOL Curriculum on the whole, while at the same time identifying the unique GIFTS, TALENTS, RESOURCES, and NEEDS of your community and then using the curriculum in the best way, while preserving the integrity of the contents.

General Directory for Catechesis

• Characteristics of catechesis for young people:
  – The most successful catechesis is that which is given in the context of the wider pastoral care of young people, especially when it addresses problems affecting their lives. Hence, catechesis should be integrated with certain procedures, such as analysis of situations, attention to human sciences and education, the cooperation of the laity and of young people themselves.

Congregation for the Clergy, Page 175

The Classroom Model

• Separated by Grade Levels, following the lesson plans provided.
• Certified Catechist presenting and facilitating classes
• Come up with creative ways to get the students thinking and talking about the topics
• Send something home for the parents to help educate them on what their child(ren) have learned
• Know about current events and contemporary culture and issues to refer to in lessons.
• NEVER hand out materials to students and have them read them aloud or in small groups—PASS ON THE FAITH WITH CONVINCION, ENTHUSIASM, and PASSION!

The Discussion Model

• Separated by Grade Levels, combining 5-6th or 7th & 8th if necessary.
• Adult facilitators who are comfortable interacting with young people, as well as certified in instructing CVOL
• Mini-lessons, handouts, and a plan for initiating discussion on topics, i.e. “What Would You Do?”, “What Do You Think?”, and “What Do You Know?” and always be willing to ask “Why do you think that?”
• Know about current events and contemporary culture and issues to refer to in discussion.
• Clear boundaries of what can be discussed
• Something to take home to share with parents and support discussion at home.
The Rally Model

- Multi-grade levels, however, ensuring that ALL lessons are incorporated over 2-4 years of instruction
- Adequate space, sound, and supervision to manage youth
- Activity or ice breaker for the group that relates with the topics
- Dynamic speakers to present the topics with enthusiasm, and cohesively tie together multiple lessons, as well as speak on a level that youth understand.
- Certified Catechist to ensure that the content is appropriate and adheres to the Foundational Principles and Guidelines for CVOL
- MAXIMUM of 90 minutes for the "Rally Model", and happening frequently enough to cover content in a reasonable amount of time

The Retreat Model

- Separated by Grade Levels
- Incorporating activities, discussion, and prayer services
- Dynamic speakers to present the topics with enthusiasm, especially since it will take a couple of hours to get through all the materials
- Plenty of adult facilitators who are comfortable interacting with young people
- Clear boundaries of what can be discussed
- Certified Catechist to ensure that the day follows the Foundational Principles and Guidelines for CVOL
- Something to take home as a reminder of the value of living the Catholic Vision of Love in their lives.

Sample Lesson Plan

"Friendship, Love, and Life"

“Catechist Note” There’s no activity for this lesson, however there are visual aids available to help with the discussion. Discussion Starting Questions are indicated in BOLD ITALIC.

- Everyone wants to have friends. Friends make the things that we do more fun, and it’s much easier to put up with things that go wrong. What are some things that you like to do with your friends? (Don’t spend too much time with this question, they will try to get off track!)
- Friendship is more than just about having fun right? There are different kinds of friendships, aren't there? There are the friends that live in your neighborhood, or the friends you have on the bus. There are friends that play on your soccer team, or in your dance class. There are friends that you have in this class too. Some people choose friends because of where they live, or because they are fun to be around, or because they have a swimming pool, or their mom makes the best cookies. Maybe they choose a friend because they are good at math, or because they have the newest video games. There are lots of reasons why people choose friends.

- How is that expressed? (ex. Mom doing our laundry, brother sharing) From our families, we learn about friendship love. You all know a lot about friendship love?
- How is that expressed? (ex. Friend sharing peanut butter sandwich when you forget your lunch, someone standing up for you when you’re being teased) It’s okay for a boy and a girl to be friends, too. Sometimes, when a boy and a girl are friends, the friendship love might grow into something really neat. As they get older, their friendship love might grow into “LOVE LOVE LOVE LOVE LOVE LOVE!” The romantic love that people write songs about and send valentines for. You know the kind. Eventually, that love might become married love. Married love is special because God created it to cover all kinds of love. Married love is expressed in a special way between a man and a woman. It’s so special that this love can create a family, and family love starts all over again. Since marriage is a sacrament, we know that God has a special plan for this.

- Good friends also help us to be good people. Tell me about some qualities of a good friend. (It helps to write these things on the board so that the kids can see them.) As you look at this list, ask yourself if YOU have any of these qualities. To have good friends, you have to be a good friend. As you grow up, it's really important to have good friends and to be a good friend. A good friend has a caring heart (and use some other words from the list that they made).
- Where do we learn how to be a good friend? (from our families) In our families, we learn how to love other people. Tell me what you know about love.

- There are different kinds of love, right? (Use the board, or the attached pictures to help explain this.) There’s family love. What do you know about family love?

So what do you think the biggest kind of love is? God-love, or Agape, is the biggest kind of love, and it is part of all the other kinds of love. You see, God MADE love, and because God loved us first, we can love others. Because God loves us so much, He gave us families to show us love and teach us how to love. Because God made us, He knew that we would want to have fun and share life with other people. So He gave us friends and from the example of Jesus, shows us how to be good friends. And some of you will get married someday, and you will experience that special kind of love that is for married people—that love is a forever love. Some of you might not get married. Some of you might be priests or religious. Your married love will be a little different, because you will live love in a different way.

How do we learn to love others? Well, we can learn a lot about loving others from 1 Corinthians 13:4-8. What are some things that can spoil love? (Selfishness, impatience, etc.) Pure hearts help to protect love. Charity is a word that describes having a pure heart and mind. God knows that love is best when it’s patient and unselfish, and He sent the Holy Spirit to help us live that. Charity is a fruit of the Holy Spirit. When we live charitably, we protect the love that God made.
Our Catholic Vision of Love Prayer for Spouses:
My prayer for you is this: That you would wait on the Lord. That you wouldn’t give out premature emotions and you wouldn’t get caught up in the chase that you forget who’s at the finish line. I pray that you would keep yourself pure...in action, mind, and word...that when you stumble you would get back up and make sure to watch out for the block that tripped you up. I pray that your heart would be protected and yet you would live with everything you have...that you would understand the true love that Jesus means for us ALL to have. I pray for wisdom on choices that will affect us both in the future. I pray for strength not to fall for the standard of a fallen world but to set your standard on God’s perfect creation. I pray for discernment to know the difference. I pray that your passion for the Lord increases while your hunger for the world decreases. I pray that you would know love before you try and give it out. I pray that you will wait for me.

Sample Lesson Plan

One Step at a Time

Vocation & Reconciliation

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Activity (5 minutes)</th>
<th>Love is: (vocational activity)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>How would you end this sentence? How many youth take a part in service and what does one thing that ends this sentence?</td>
<td>Catholic Vision: some expected responses are most generous, love, don’t brag, it’s important to serve because it’s the right thing to do.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

VI. A Vocation: The Road Ahead (3 minutes)

VI. Closing Prayer: The Road Ahead (3 minutes)
For a more complete look at the Parent Meeting Resources, please consult the materials available at http://www.diopitt.org/department-religious-education/catholic-vision-love-0 as well as in the Electronic Resource Packet provided by the Diocese of Pittsburgh.
GOALS OF THE PARENT MEETING

The Catholic Church has always taught, and our bishops have emphasized that parents hold the prime responsibility for faith formation of their children. Sometimes when parents hear these words a look of panic surfaces—they might not feel confident in their ability to teach the faith or they might think they themselves don’t know enough about the Catholic faith. And sadly, many parents don’t know what the Church teaches especially regarding love and sexuality. The good news is we are here to help!

Your role as catechetical leader is to ensure parents that they are not alone in this endeavor and the Church is there to help them fulfill their responsibility. Whether they realize it or not they are constantly teaching their children every day the many things the Catholic Church stands for: love, kindness, moral values, respect for ourselves and others.

Parents want what is best for their children. The best way to teach a child anything is to live it yourself. All children learn from example--and parents are the best example. So, when it comes to matters of the faith, especially moral matters, parents must be the best example for their children. Sometimes that means taking a good look at themselves, their values, how they act and react to certain moral issues. And to remember that their children are constantly looking to them for love, direction and answers.

When it comes to the Church and sexuality, some parents will say, it is not the Church’s business to tell us what we should or shouldn’t be doing. Today’s society goes against church teaching in many respects, but most certainly in matters of morality. Our children know this—they see it on television and in movies, hear it in the music they listen to, witness the lack of morality of Hollywood actors, and those in the music and sports industry—many of whom are their idols; they experience it on the internet, in the video games they play, on the school bus, in our schools, and at the mall. It is up to us, (catechetical leaders and parents), people who care enough, to guide and direct them in matters of the faith and morality.

With every action there are consequences—good and bad. Thank God, the Church is there to guide us and help us realize how important these moral issues are, especially where our children are concerned!
One of the goals of Catholic Vision of Love is to work as partners with parents to encourage students to live their lives in line with Gospel teaching. The circumstances of the times, the pervasiveness of the media, contradictions of the surrounding culture and the awkwardness of talking with young people often dominated by their peers, all serve to make the task of speaking about sexuality with one's children very difficult at times. Parents have the right to expect from the Church the kind of help that will make this task possible. This help in no way attempts to replace the role of the parents, but rather is offered to support and enable parents to do this important task well. In view of this, it is extremely important that parents attend the CVOL Parent Meeting.

Parents should be informed about why it is important that they attend the CVOL Parent Meeting. Here are some points you can use to help them understand:

- The Church has good news to share about family, love and human sexuality. This teaching is firmly rooted in sacred scripture and has been constantly taught by the Church through the centuries.

- Clearly communicate that the CVOL program will be supportive in their parental role of helping their children understand that human sexuality is part of Gospel values.

- The goal of CVOL is to present Christ’s vision of love and sexuality, and to encourage all to live according to his teaching on love, marriage, the family, sexuality, and self-control.

- The CVOL program offers their child a faith-filled and morally right context out of which to make sense of all the issues connected with human sexuality, by helping them to understand the spiritual and moral dimensions of human life, to respect the beauty and dignity of sex, and to learn the way of self-discipline and purity.

- The CVOL program teaches their child that living as Christ taught is not just an ideal but can, with God’s grace, be a reality in their lives.

- Parents will receive important materials and information to help them with this delicate task. It is very important that you provide parents with the Parent Handbook, Talking to Youth about Sexuality: A Parents’ Guide. This booklet is part of the CVOL program and is for parents to use at their discretion with their child. It can be purchased through Our Sunday Visitor Publishing Company. (Note: This document is not to be used by the catechist to instruct children).
MOTIVATING PARENTS TO ATTEND

Parent meetings for the Catholic Vision of Love program are mandatory. The program cannot take place each year unless parents are made aware of its importance and understand their role in the faith formation of their children, especially regarding this sensitive topic. Getting parents to attend meetings is sometimes frustrating for catechetical leaders who are responsible for implementing the CVOL program. Catechetical leaders must make every effort to “make it happen” through careful planning. The best time for a CVOL meeting is early September before public schools and fall sports programs begin.

The Meeting Announcement

The announcement of the meeting should be positive, welcoming, informative, and written so that parents understand the purpose of the program and why it is important for them to attend. Add these facts to your letter:

- You have important information for them that will help them in parenting.
- You want parents to know that the information they will receive at the meeting is sure to help them in guiding their child in Catholic attitudes related to human sexuality.
- This is THE program for protection of children as required by the U.S. bishops’ committee on child safety.
- The program is designed for students in grades 5-8; all catechists involved in teaching CVOL must be certified to teach it.
- An overview of the lessons (curriculum outline – found in the Catechetical Leadership Manual) is enclosed and will be explained in detail at the parent meeting.
- This meeting is so important that it is not optional.
- They are expected to attend the meeting if they haven’t attended a previous CVOL meeting before.

It is always helpful if the “letter” comes with the pastor’s signature as well as your signature. This helps parents realize the importance of the meeting.

Be creative! Parent attendance should be promoted just as a person would market a fantastic, worthwhile product. In the world of advertising and marketing, products are marketed to show the benefits that would be gained if they purchased the product. We are told, and in some instances shown, what a difference a product would make in our life if we tried it. This same positive attitude should be conveyed when you announce a parent meeting for CVOL.
The announcement might be in letter or invitation form, a creative e-mail or post-card, and/or a poster displayed at your parish site. You might want to choose a symbol or icon for your invitation/poster that will be part of the CVOL materials so that each time you send information regarding CVOL, parents will recognize the symbol and associate it with the program. (See samples)

Include an agenda of the meeting along with your communication. Parents should have an idea of the order of the meeting—what handouts will be given—what resources they will receive.

The announcement should be timely—and mailed to parents either before registration of the regular program or included with registration information. Parent meetings should always be on the annual religious education calendar so parents can plan ahead. Meet with your pastor early enough to plan these and other important dates.

The content for this communication should come from the material in the Catholic Vision of Love Leadership Manual. Integrate this information with your message to explain what CVOL is and why it is important.

Remember to follow-up your initial announcement/communication with extra reminders. (See samples) Be sure to include the symbol on all correspondence. You might also want to:

- Make good use of the church bulletin to remind parents that the meeting is near—the message should be in the bulletin for at least two consecutive Sundays.
- Ask your pastor to add it to the Sunday Mass announcements.
- Include as much information as possible on the parish web site.
- Ask for space on the church bulletin board and post a large poster.
- Have office volunteers call parents and remind them of the meeting.
- Send a reminder postcard a few days before the meeting. A 2” x 4” shipping label is an ideal size for use on the postcard. Print the icon on the label and include short important information: When...Where...Time...
- Plan to hold a follow-up meeting for parents who absolutely cannot attend. This might take place during the regular hours of your parish religious education or Catholic school program. (See sample letter)
CVOL......GRADES 5 – 6 – 7 – 8

DATE:      PLACE:      TIME:

THE CATHOLIC VISION OF LOVE
CHASTITY EDUCATION
AND CHILD PERSONAL SAFETY PROGRAM

Dear Parents,

Education in the Catholic Vision of Love and human sexuality is education that is an integral part of Catholic faith and love. This is one of the foundational statements of the Diocese of Pittsburgh found in the guidelines and curriculum for teaching the content on the CATHOLIC vision of love, family, and human sexuality.

This program begins in grade five and continues through grade eight. The concepts of CVOL are not taught in isolation, but are correlated with topics from the grade level textbook. This is NOT a program in sex education—biological or anatomical issues are not discussed. CVOL IS a program that puts forth the Church’s teaching on chastity. In compliance with national and diocesan policies, lessons on child personal safety are also included.

Those teaching CVOL are catechists who have been properly certified by taking the special diocesan course in Catholic Christian Morality. No one can teach this program without the certification.

Parents who have a child in grade five are expected to attend this introductory session. Parents who have children in grades 6 through 8 and who have not attended this initial presentation are also required to attend. Parents who are unable to attend this particular session will be expected to attend a make-up session on a date arranged with the Catechetical Administrator and Pastor.

If you have any questions, feel free to call (add phone number) or e-mail (add email address)

Thank you for your cooperation regarding this very important meeting. Please keep all of our students in prayer as they continue to grow in their faith life, especially in these crucial and challenging years of their faith formation as Catholic Christians.

In Christ,

Pastor          Catechetical         Administrator

The Catholic Vision of Love....................................................................................SECTION FIVE • Parent Meeting
The Catholic Vision of Love is a program that teaches the Church’s view on family, love, and human sexuality. The Parent Meeting you will attend will help you teach your child about chastity, modesty, and personal safety giving them a solid foundation and positive attitude toward their own sexuality.

This program will help you understand and explain to your child that human sexuality is a valued good and a gift from God. It will help you give your child the Gospel values that reflect Jesus’ teaching on love and sexuality.
History

In Familiaris Consortio, Pope John Paul II spoke of the Catholic Church’s mandate to reveal “the biblical foundations, the ethical grounds, and the personalistic appropriateness of the good news about human sexuality which God has commanded the Church to proclaim” (N. 31). The Church offers to the world a great body of teachers on the positive value of human love and sexuality. Understanding and appreciating this teaching is absolutely critical for the development of attitudes and values that will guide good Christian behavior.

In 1986, the Pennsylvania Catholic Bishops re-issued their statement on Guidelines for Sex Education in Schools emphasizing the role of parents as primary educators of their children. This document urges parents to exercise their right and to fulfill their responsibility to provide adequately for their and to fulfill their responsibility to provide adequate for their children’s education in the area of human sexuality.

To assist parents in fulfilling this important responsibility, the Diocese of Pittsburgh convened an Advisory Committee on Human Sexuality Education on October 19, 1987. This committee was comprised of more than forty members with diverse professional and experiential backgrounds: parents, clergy, educators, pastoral and legal counselors, religious, diocesan administrative personnel, medical professionals. The members of this committee were charged with a two-fold task:

1. To prepare an educational curriculum for Catholics, particularly for parents seeking to instruct their children in the area of human sexuality from a Catholic perspective.
2. To make recommendations concerning the scope, content and implementation of an educational curriculum, in human sexuality for the young people of Church of Pittsburgh.

A draft of Guidelines for Human Sexuality Education was completed by the Advisory Committee and submitted to the diocese in December 1988. This draft was given to the Theological Commission of the diocese for review. On September 7, 1989, the chairman, Father Robert McCreary, O.F.M returned the guidelines with some recommendations for its improvement. A revision of the draft was completed in September 1989.

On July 24, 1990, a meeting was called by Father Douglas Nowicki to discuss the current status of these guidelines. Those in attendance were: Fr. Nowicki, Dr. Kenneth Garver, Chairman of the Advisory Committee, Fr. Ronald Lawler and Fr. Kris Stubna.

Bishop Donald Wuerl, in a letter dated August 20, 1990, gave general approval to the Guidelines for Human Sexuality Education. In his letter, Bishop Wuerl wrote, “It is been suggested that some further editorial work is still to be done and some supplemental material material to be added before the project is completed. A small working group will complete this task. The final draft, I understand, will then be presented to the full committee for review prior to its recommendation and presentation to me for final approval.”

---

The Catholic Vision of Love ........................................................................................................... SECTION FIVE • Parent Meeting
In September 1990 work began to develop an outline for a total program on human sexuality education in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. Given the immensity of a program of this nature, a decision was made to pilot a program geared specifically for students in grades five through eight. While working on the larger overall total program, immediate attention was given to developing this pilot program. Various personnel were contacted to discuss plans for curricula development and other important elements upon which the success of this program hinges.

In 1990-91, eight parishes were chosen as pilot sites. Evaluations of the work done this first year were favorable, and important suggestions for improving the program were made by parents, priests, principals, directors of religious education, teachers and students. These suggestions were then incorporated into the program, as the program entered another expanded year of pilot programs in 1992-93. Further development of the program with one entire deanery entering the pilot program, went on in 1993-94 and in another deanery in 1995.

From 1990 to 1996, under the leadership of Fr. Kris D. Stubna, Secretary for Education, the program carefully took shape. The Secretariat coordinated the efforts of many at developing curriculum materials for students in grades five through eight, creating a parent handbook and facilitating parent meetings, identifying and in-servicing catechists, and providing means for ongoing evaluation and development.

The Catholic Vision of Love Guidelines and program for implementation were finalized, presented to the consultative boards of the diocese, and approved and promulgated by Bishop Wuerl on August 15, 1994. The program was integrated into the curriculum guidelines for parish religious education programs and in the revised curriculum guidelines for Catholic Schools.

As of 1998, the Catholic Vision of Love program has been implemented in every parish and elementary school in the Diocese of Pittsburgh. In addition to these efforts aimed at students in grades five through eight, work is being done in our secondary education curriculum, pre-marriage programs and natural family planning initiatives to address the larger context of human sexuality education.
1. Education in the Catholic vision of love and human sexuality is education in an integral part of Catholic faith and life. It is formation in ways of living that are inseparable from the Gospel. Education in human sexuality is inseparable from our overall faith education and formation.

This education is not only instructional. It addresses also the emotions and the whole person. The purpose of this education is to move a person to exercise a personal freedom to choose ways of living that are faithful to the Gospel call. Thus, its concern is to prepare students to have the ability to make intelligent choices regarding their sexuality; to help them integrate their attitudes toward sexuality with their faith and their whole vision of life; and to enable them to acquire self-possession and to exercise authentic freedom.

2. There are certain doctrinal and moral teachings of faith that underlie the Catholic Vision of Love program. These basic tenets illumine ways of living our personal lives, and of shaping our love and affection in Christian ways. That is, the program emphasizes a positive vision of what human love and sexuality mean — a vision that flows from the Word of God and the teachings of the Church. These basic principals would include:

   a. Viewing the human person is made in the image of God. It is in our masculinity and femininity God has given us ways to imitate the personal goodness that is at the heart of the very life of God.

   b. Sexuality is God’s work. It is a tremendous God-given gift to be seen as something very good. Much of the joy and energy of human life flow from recognition of the goodness of all dimensions of the being the Father has given us, including our sexuality.

   c. Understanding sexuality in the context of human fulfillment. By our very nature, we long for the good things that we need to have happy and fully human lives. By our very nature, we seek to escape the loneliness of the human condition and find “enduring love” — a love that gives all of itself to another.

   d. This sexuality becomes a natural sacrament, or a visible sign of what enduring love means and needs to be among human persons. All our longing is indeed toward a richness we know that we cannot quite express. Thus, it is God we must first learn to love with all our heart. In learning to love Him, we learn to love one another.

3. There are indeed certain major practical problems that our program must face and treat effectively. These include the AIDS epidemic and other sexually transmitted diseases, the rise in teenage pregnancies, abortion, and a variety of promiscuous attitudes. Young people’s understanding of love and sexuality is dramatically affected by a culture caught up in materialism, hedonism, unbelief, and even despair. However, while the Catholic Vision of Love program faces these contemporary issues, its primary focus is not only of avoiding certain grave moral evils but one of positively guiding people toward living excellent lives in all that touches love, affectivity, and personal relationships.

4. Sexual education is primarily the responsibility of the parents. Thus, an education in love and sexuality will be effective only to the extent that parents cooperate and take an active role. The aim of the teachers is to assist parents: to help them to communicate with their children in these matters. The principle of subsidiary reminds us that such tasks are only effectively accomplished if the essential smaller units, in these case families, are doing their tasks. The Catholic Vision of Love program is meant to cooperate with parents and not substitute for them. On the other hand, teaching is so critical in this area, it simply cannot be taken for granted that parents are capable of doing it on their own with no assistance from the Church.

5. The Catholic Vision of Love program is to be integrated with education in Catholic faith and life generally. Therefore it is designed to be integrated into the religion curriculum itself. Catholic Vision of Love is a total parish program, thus it will involve both Catholic school and parish programs of religious education.

6. Only those who can and do agree with Catholic teaching in these matters can be permitted to teach The Catholic Vision of Love. There is a need for adequate catechist formation and training prior to beginning the actual teaching of this material.

7. Education and materials need to be provided for parents and other adults. This includes education for clergy who will be instrumental in the implementation of the Catholic Vision of Love program.

   a. The media and contemporary pressures tend to press all people toward attitudes and practices which contradict Christian principles. The whole community needs to get a firmer grasp on basic Catholic moral principles if it is to communicate these principles effectively to its young members.

8. Education in the proper use of media is of primary importance.
OVERVIEW OF MATERIALS

1. PARENT HANDBOOK

♦ The parent handbook, "Talking to Youth About Sexuality: A Parents’ Guide" is a necessary and vital part of the CVOL program and should be included in the parents packet of information. A great majority of parents do not know what the Church teaches regarding sexuality and other moral issues. In order for parents to address this sensitive subject with their children they must first be made aware of what the Church teaches and why.

♦ The handbook is for parents only. It is not to be used in the CVOL program. Parents will decide if and when to use the information from the handbook with their child.

♦ Many of today’s parents have “bought into” and some are living out, what society and Hollywood tells us about sexuality, “safe sex” contraceptive use, co-habitation, same-sex marriage, etc. They basically feel that it’s not the Church’s business to tell them what they should and shouldn’t be doing regarding sexuality. Today’s society goes against Church teaching in many respects, but most certainly in matters of morality. Sadly, so many are living beneath the dignity that God intended for them.

♦ Parents want what is best for their children. The best way to teach a child anything is to live it yourself. All children learn from example --and parents are the best example. So, when it comes to matters of the faith, especially moral matters, parents must be the best example for their children. Sometimes that means taking a good look at themselves, their values, how they act and react to certain moral issues. And to remember that their children are constantly looking to them for love, direction and answers.

♦ Parents determine the right time for their child to learn about human sexuality. But they must also be aware of what the child is learning in his/her school regarding human sexuality—it is their right to know. In most public schools, sexuality education begins around 4th grade, is usually taught within the science or health curriculum, and contains anatomical and biological information. Sex education classes are not taught from a Christian perspective and children are certainly not getting anything from a moral perspective or a values clarification point of view. All the more reason why parents need to talk to their children.

♦ The messages our young people receive through their music, video games, movies, television, and internet sites are not positive messages! They sanction sex and promiscuity outside of marriage; violence—especially against women; pornography—degrading women; extremely foul language—acceptable by today's standards; immodest dress—now displayed in commercials during primetime television; and so on...
All of the above points hopefully will help parents to realize how crucial their role is! Education in human sexuality demands that our children know the “facts of life”—but even more importantly, it is vital that they are given a faith-filled and morally correct context out of which to make sense of all the issues connected with human sexuality. No one needs to live beneath their dignity.

The parent handbook, Talking to Youth About Sexuality will work with parents in giving their child this context, helping him or her to understand the spiritual and moral dimensions of human life; to respect the beauty and dignity of human sexuality; and to learn the way of self-discipline, purity, and chastity.

2. CURRICULUM OUTLINE

It is important to have the Catholic Vision of Love materials (binders of each grade level) on display at your parent meeting and to invite parents to review the lessons. Handouts for parents of the curriculum outline (grades 5 through 8) are included with these catechetical leader notes. (See Appendix D Curriculum Outline—Grades 5 through 8). Briefly walk parents through each grade level.

3. SAFE ENVIRONMENT LESSONS – GRADES 5—8

In light of recent diocesan and national policies on child safety, the Catholic Vision of Love program received acknowledgment from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) as the program in place in the Diocese of Pittsburgh for the safety of children. A lesson has been added for each of the grades (5—8) and are included at the end of the grade level in each binder.
FOUNDATIONAL PRINCIPLES EXPLAINED
FOR PARENTS OF CHILDREN IN GRADES K – 4

Foundational Principles for a Catholic understanding of the human person, family, and love are emphasized in the curriculum for grades K through 4. The following overview of the content for those grades is integrated into the religious education curriculum for younger children. Through a recommendation from the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) Committee on Child Safety, specific lessons regarding child safety have been added to the CVOL program and will be taught in these respective grades.

1. Jesus and Our Homes
   Homes are places where people can be most happy. Homes are places where we learn to love. We can help our homes be happier places. Jesus lived in an ordinary home with his parents. He grew up with much love and guidance from his parents.
   Discuss: What makes a home a happy place? How do we make our home a happy place? How do we know Jesus’ home was happy? Why do we call Jesus’ family the “Holy Family?”

2. Prayer in Our Homes
   Prayer at home is very important. Morning, meal times, and night are times when it is good to pray. It is important to find a quiet place for prayer. Family prayer is a way to share love with family members and Jesus. There are some prayers that all family members should learn so they can pray together. The Sign of the Cross, Prayer to our Guardian Angel, Our Father, Hail Mary, and the Glory Be to the Father are a few prayers children in K through 4 should know. Spontaneous prayer is an opportunity to learn to pray for immediate needs and how to pray from one’s heart.
   (See attached prayers for use at home that we all should know)

3. Communication in Our Homes
   Children need to know they can trust their parents and share anything with them. Sometimes it isn’t easy to talk about things, but patience, love, and understanding help when tough issues need to be discussed. It is crucial that children learn they can turn to their parents first. Spending one-on-one time with each child is always beneficial for both child and parent. Providing time for family talk is also very important—sharing meals together is an excellent way to do this, even with busy family schedules. One evening a week, enjoy “family night” by turning off the television, computers, I-pods, etc. And always before a serious discussion—pray together.

4. Communication Outside Our Homes
   Friends are very important. Maturity in relationships includes learning to have friends outside the home. It also means that children need to trust their parents enough to tell them who their friends are and what it is they do together. It is important that time be given for talking about choosing good friends and having good friendships. Provide family time for discussing this as well as time to meet and get to know their friends.
5. Media Use
Parents always have the right to take control of situations that might be harmful to their child. This includes controlling/guiding what your child is watching on television, at the movies, on the computer and cell phones, the music they listen to, and the video games they play. It is necessary for parents to be well informed as to the content offered via the media their child is using. Much of today’s media content is inappropriate for children—parents should not allow society to dictate what children watch, play or listen to.

If parents use good judgment regarding media, their children will grow to make good, safe, choices in everything they do. Parents are always the role model. Sometimes the best advice for parents is “Just Say No!”

6. Proper Word Choice
Choosing our words wisely when we speak about others and to others shows the kind of person we are. Speaking kindly of someone and using words that do not hurt others shows that we care and like that person. Sometimes words we hear are naughty or bad, or are known as “dirty or nasty words.” These kinds of words are not respectful and show disrespect for others. There are words that show disrespect for our bodies instead of showing the goodness of our bodies—God’s gift to us, for we are made in His image and likeness.

Parents should always be aware of the words their children use and show that they care about how they are using these words. Remember, parents are the role models—we need to also watch the language we use in front of our children.

7. Modesty
Modesty is a way of behaving, speaking and dressing that is considered proper. Being modest means we respect ourselves and want others to respect us. Current fashions, magazines, television, internet and other media do not always represent the virtue of modesty. We have allowed society to dictate how our children should dress and behave in order to “fit in” or “be popular,” and this attitude has trickled down to the smallest and youngest. How important it is to form our very young children to know the meaning of being created in God’s image and likeness. Jesus teaches us humility and the dignity of being human. We are temples of God. Therefore, our faith demands that we choose wisely the things we wear, the things we say, and the things we do.

8. Knowing When to Say “No”
It is the parents’ responsibility to guide their child in matters regarding safe touching. They help their child understanding the difference between touches and hugs that are good and when they are not. Children need to learn about the kinds of touches that are uncomfortable or disturbing and what to do if someone touches them in this way. Parents regulate who children may visit, who they may talk with, who they associate with in order to teach how to be “smart” or “wise” when it comes to relationships.
The school your child attends has a program on safe touch for young children. It is important that you know what the program involves so you can be prepared to talk with your child when the time comes. Our diocesan program on safe touch for younger children is now part of the Catholic Vision of Love program. All materials are available through your parish. Please contact your pastor/catechetical administrator for copies of the materials.

9. Being Catholic is Special
When we are baptized in the Catholic Church we are born into a special family. This is our spiritual family, with Jesus as the head. There are many things we believe in this spiritual family that are the same beliefs of other Christian families. There are also things that Catholics believe that are different from other Christian beliefs. The degree in this difference is seen in how we act, pray, and live. It includes the way we talk, how we dress, and who we choose as our friends. We love and honor Jesus. We are responsible for becoming what it is that Jesus calls us to be. Our prayers bring us closer to Jesus and our spiritual family, the Church. We celebrate special sacraments and live according to the Ten Commandments and Gospel teachings and values.

Parent notes: sometimes we get the feeling that all faiths/religions are alike. But that is not the case. Our Catholic faith defines who we are—gives us our identity, and we should be proud to be Catholic. The Catholic Church stands for many things and is the one true faith that goes all the way back to Jesus Christ. We have never waivered—other Christian faiths have separated themselves from the Catholic Church because they did not agree with some of the teachings handed down by Jesus Christ.

The Catholic Church today is constantly and verbally “standing up” for human rights and the importance of following Gospel values and the teachings of Jesus Christ. Members of the Church are actively involved in all aspects of society especially where injustices occur. Being Catholic is not always popular, but one thing we know for sure is that our faith will never let us down. Our baptism into the Catholic Church entitles us to learn and know the truths of the faith in their entirety. We never stop learning. Teach your children as much as you can about being Catholic. Give them a solid Catholic identity. Model for them what a good Catholic is and does. There are many Catholic websites and other materials to help you. The United States Catholic Catechism for Adults is an excellent resource and can be obtained through your pastor or catechetical administrator.

10. Changing and Growing
As they grow older, children learn that their bodies slowly change and develop, their minds become better and sharper, and as persons they begin to mature. In this physical growing process there is another dimension of growing—a spiritual growth—as we become the persons God plans for us to become. It is very important that parents support their child through all of these changes, helping them to understand why and how they are changing and what to look for.

The Catholic Vision of Love .................................................................. SECTION FIVE • Parent Meeting
This may or may not have been done in your growing years. You may have grown up in a different way—in a different society than your child. You might not have experienced the negative aspects of life, love, and sexuality your child is facing today. Knowledge is important—your child must know about sexuality and must hear it from you in order to grow and understand what it is all about. You want what is good for your child. You love your child unconditionally—no one but God will love your child more than you do. Be open to listening and talking with him/her.

Develop an attitude of trust so your child can come to you about anything. Just as children learn they need to talk to their parents, parents must learn to communicate openly with their children without embarrassment. You are your child’s mentor—teach them honestly!

Parent note: The parent handbook: Talking to Youth About Sexuality: A Parents’ Guide is available through the Catholic Vision of Love program. This booklet is for parent use only and explains in detail what the Catholic Church teaches about sexuality and why. The information can be shared with your child at your discretion when you feel the time is right. Check with your pastor or catechetical administrator for more information regarding this handbook.
PARENT’S ROLE – WHAT CAN PARENTS DO?

There are many things that you as parents can do to help your child understand the Catholic vision of human sexuality:

- Discuss sexuality at home when you know/sense they are ready.
- Does your child know:
  - That sexuality is a gift from God?
  - What sex is for in the divine plan of human life? (total/complete everlasting commitment & love and out of that love we become co-creators of human life with God)
  - That sexual love is both very good and wonderful but comes with great responsibility, and self-possession and self-discipline?
  - That they can control their emotions and any situation, though society tells them differently? WHY would you tell them anything other than that? DO you give them ways in which they can?

- Monitor the media they use (TV, movies, magazines, music, video games, the internet, texting, cell phone use).
  - Discuss your values and why it’s important that they follow your rules—you love and protect and care for them.
  - Tell them when you disapprove of what they are listening to, watching etc. That might not stop them, but they’ll hear your voice every time they listen to that song etc. That’s good parenting!
  - Remember, they are learning and being formed by the media in ways that are quite contrary to the teachings of Christ and the values that lead to a happy and satisfied life.
  - Remind them constantly, how important they are to you.

- Help your child to experience the goodness of modesty in dress, in speech, in attitude and action, in respecting their own bodies and in respecting themselves and others.
  - If they respect themselves, others will respect them.
  - Respecting ourselves and how we act and how we present ourselves to others demands respect from them! It works every time!

- Grow in your understanding of what the faith teaches and put into practice those convictions in your own lives.
  - The CVOL booklet for parents, “Talking to Youth About Sexuality: A Parents’ Guide,” will help. Use the booklet to learn what the Church teaches about sexuality and why. Then when you know your child is ready, teach them.
  - Children need to see that good people think and feel in ways that the faith teaches.
  - Your example is critical in helping your child know not only WHAT the Church teaches, but WHY it is taught.
Help your child realize the foolishness and dangers of casual sex and trivializing the importance of sexuality.

→ Expose the dangers and lack in realism in what society tells us is “safe sex.”
→ Explain that this casual attitude to sex can only lead to problems and carries with it many dangers.
→ You can help your child realize and believe that chastity and abstinence make sense, and that it is possible for them to live the way Christ wants us to live.

Pray with your child at home, attend Mass together as a family, and encourage regular reception of the Sacraments of Penance and Eucharist. If young people are to find insight and the courage to care about what Christ and His Church teaches concerning sexuality, they must witness it and be convinced that you believe.

REMEMBER!

⇒ Faith must be lived in your home.
⇒ Take seriously, your role in handing on to your child, what our faith teaches especially about human sexuality.
⇒ It is vital that your child is given a faith-filled and morally correct context out of which to make sense of all the issues connected with human sexuality.
⇒ No one needs to live beneath their dignity.
⇒ Don’t send your child out in the world accepting the casual attitude society allows.
⇒ Arm your child with the necessary moral values he/she will need to stand up to what we know is morally, emotionally, and physically harmful for them.

Working together, we can make great progress educating your child in the essential values of human life. In so doing, we are EMPOWERING him/her to make the right moral decisions and to embrace positive moral living.
PARENT RESOURCES

- RECOMMENDED INTERNET SITES

Web Sites

Internet Safety
- www.cybertipline.com
- http://www.staysafeonline.org/content/in-the-classroom
- http://www.nmmlp.org/
- www.isafe.org (for teens & parents)
- www.idtheftcenter.org/teen/teen.html (for teens)
- www.wiredteens.org (for teens)

Chastity Related Sites
- http://www.tobinstitute.org/
- www.omsoul.com
- www.reallove.net (for teens)
- http://www.johnpaulii.edu/
- http://www.familyhonor.org/index.html
- www.pureloveclub.com, (for teens)

Media Awareness
- www.mediaandthefamily.org
- www.media-awareness.ca
Catholic Parenting
→ http://www.catholicmom.com (Catholic Parenting)
→ http://www.crs.org (Catholic Relief Services)

Catholic Family Focus
→ http://www.catholic.org/hf/
→ http://www.familylifecenter.net/article.asp?artId=201
→ http://www.communicagite.co.uk/ne/catholichome

Catholic Adult Education
→ http://www.amm.org/chss.htm (Free home study courses)

Faith and Spirituality
→ http://www.homefaith.com/ParentingIdeas.frame.html

For Fun
→ http://www.gigglepotz.com/saints.htm (saints website)

Mass and the Liturgical Year
→ http://www.cyberfaith.com

News and Discussion Starters for Families
Resources for Learning

- http://www.americancatholic.org/Newsletters/CU.asp (Catholic Update)
- http://www.basiccatholic.com/index.html (Basic Catholic.com)
- http://www.catholic.com/ (Catholic Answers)
- http://www.catholicculture.org/ (Catholic Culture)
- http://www.catholic-pages.com (Catholic-Pages.com)
- http://www.catholicity.com/links/ (CatholiCity)

Miscellaneous

- http://www.air1.com (Online Christian radio station)
- http://www.silk.net/RelEd/architect.htm (Information, virtual tours and sites on Christianity’s important architectural structures such as basilicas, cathedrals, churches etc. Also a virtual tour of the Vatican)
- http://www.poettree.com/ (300 verbatim scripture songs – learn scripture through music)

• RECOMMENDED PRINT MATERIAL

Books

- The Incredible Gift! The Truth About Love and Sex by Keith & Tami Kiser
- Theology of Her Body Discovering the Beauty and Mystery of Femininity by Jason Evert
- Theology of His Body Discovering the Strength and Mission of Masculinity by Jason Evert
- Theology of the Body Explained: A Commentary on John Paul II’s “Gospel of the Body” – by Christopher West
- Theology of the Body for Beginners: A Basic Introduction to John Paul II’s
- Sexual Revolution – by Christopher West

The Catholic Vision of Love .................................................................. SECTION FIVE • Parent Meeting
→ Love and Responsibility – by Karol Wojtyla (Pope John Paul II)

→ Real Love: Answers to Your Questions on Dating, Marriage and the Real Meaning of Sex – by Mary Beth Bonacci

→ What the Church Teaches About Sex—God’s Plan for Human Happiness by Robert Fastiggi

→ Raising Courageous Kids Eight Steps to Practical Heroism by Charles A. Smith

→ Common Sense Parenting by Ray Burke, Ph.D. & Ron Herron

→ Raising Kids Who Care About Themselves, About Their World, About Each Other by Kathleen Chesto

→ Sharing the Faith With Your Child From Age Seven to Fourteen by Mary Jo Pedersen & Joan Burney

→ Weaving Faith and Family When You’re Hanging on by a Thread! by Eileen Marx (Ave Maria Press, Inc.)

→ Raising Kids Who Will Make a Difference by Susan V. Vogt

→ Helping Your Family Live With Integrity, Value Simplicity, and Care for Others by Loyola Press

→ Building Catholic Family Traditions by Paul and Leisa Thigpen (Our Sunday Visitor)

→ The Book of Catholic Customs and Traditions Enhancing Holidays, Special Occasions, and Family Celebrations by Ronda DeSola Chervin and Carla Conley (Charis Books)

→ Building a Family A Handbook for Parenting with God by Marilyn Spaw Krock (Paulist Press)

→ Raising Faith-Filled Kids Ordinary Opportunities to Nurture Spirituality at Home by Tom McGrath (Loyola Press)

→ A Parent’s Guide to Prayer by Kathy Hendricks (Twenty-third Publications)

→ The Religious Potential of the Child Six to Twelve Years Old by Sofia Cavalletti (Liturgy Training Publications)
→ Common Sense Parenting  A Proven Step-by-Step Guide for Raising Responsible Kids and Creating Happy Families by Raymond V. Burke, et al

→ Common Sense Parenting of Toddlers and Preschoolers by Ann Russell, M.D.

---

Monthly Publications

→ “Take Out” Family Faith on the Go, - Our Sunday Visitor Publishing Company

→ “At Home with Our Faith,” - The Claretians

---

RECOMMENDED VIDEOS

(Available from Diocesan Learning Media Center (412)456-3120)

♦ God Blessed Me
(VHS video cassette, Intermediate, 47 Min.- Segmented)
The goals of this video are: to help children encounter God’s intimate love for them; to increase students’ knowledge of the changes going on in their bodies and emotions; to give students an understanding of pregnancy and childbirth, in the context of the family; to help children develop techniques for holding their own convictions in the face of peer pressure; to help children look at God’s call for their lives.

♦ Concordia Sex Education Series: How You God To Be You
(VHS video cassette, Intermediate, 14 Min.)
This video explains the growth of the fetus, the birth process, nursing, twins and premature babies. Each frame speaks on a 10-year-old’s level, as a friendly conversation, with many illustrations. Best suited for the parent whose child is starting to ask questions about sexuality.
The Catholic Vision of Love .................................................................. SECTION FIVE • Parent Meeting

♦ Learning About Sex: How You Are Changing
(VHS video cassette, Intermediate, 14 Min.)
This video answers questions about sex which typical mid-elementary children raise and does so in a Christian context, developing a sense of reverence and thanks for God’s gift of our sexuality and for the miracle of reproduction. The video encourages viewers to talk with parents about the coming changes of adolescence and to trust in Jesus.

♦ Learning About Sex: Sex and the New You
(VHS video cassette, Ages 11-14 and parents, 15 Min.)
This video frankly and reverently explains the role of sex organs in human reproduction. It encourages young people to seek support from parents and other sympathetic adults, and from God who in Christ is enabling them to become the “new you.”

♦ In God’s Image – Teens, Babies and Marriage
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High and parents, 18 Min.)
We are all in the process of maturation. It is necessary that young people understand the importance of knowing themselves well before they are able to form a lasting, meaningful relationship with anyone else.

♦ In God’s Image – We’re Not Sex Objects
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High and parents, 18 Min.)
Our children today are bombarded with sexual stimulation. Television, movies, newspapers, magazines, music and music videos, internet, and advertising often encourage sexual activity. If we want our children to believe that sexuality is good, sacred, and special, we must give them an example to follow. We need to help them understand and appreciate the virtue of chastity.

♦ In God’s Image – Guy Talk/Girl Talk
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High and parents, 16 Min.)
Communication seems to be the all important word today in dealing with relationships of every kind. If we do not know how to communicate our feelings and thoughts or if we refuse to discuss them, then we leave the door open for all sorts of misinterpretations and assumptions, or we close the door to any meaningful relationship that might follow.

♦ In God’s Image – It’s OK To Say No
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High and parents, 15 Min.)
As children approach their teen years, they will be constantly confronted with situations in which they must make a choice; often this involves a moral choice. Children must be aware that they are responsible for making choices between right and wrong.
Teens and Sex: Deciding For Your Life
(VHS video cassette, Teens, 30 Min.)
Ms. George and several typical teens explain that chastity is not an outdated norm in our society and not everybody is “doing it.” This video will show teens that they can choose a morality that respects their personhood and allows them to experience and enjoy life to its fullest.

The Miracle of Life
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High – Adult, 60b Min.)
A dramatic breakthrough in science and cinematography, The Miracle of Life takes you on an incredible voyage through the human body as a new life begins. World-renowned Swedish photographer Lennart Nilsson presents a spectacular look at a microscopic world of beautiful colors and forms deep inside ourselves. With magnification of up to half a million times the actual size, you can see exactly what happens at the moment of conception. This program appeared on PBS’ NOVA series.

Ultrasound – A Window To The Womb
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High – Adult, 55 Min.)
Through ultrasonography, observe the unborn in their natural prenatal environment as they are “formed in their mothers’ womb.” Watch and listen to the earliest heartbeat at just four weeks following conception.

In God’s Image – Consequences
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High and parents, 22 Min.)
One of the most important lessons we can give our children is to teach them that for each action they take there is a consequence. One of the difficulties adolescents face is that they think only of today and, in line with that mentality, think they are indestructible.

Safe Sex? Don’t Buy the Lie!
(VHS video cassette, Jr. High – High School ( 39 Min.)
In a world filled with double talk and hidden messages, Buster Soaries communicates. Youth and their parents find his style compelling – his content life-challenging. “I believe today’s kids are victims in a society they did not create. How can we blame the children for unwanted pregnancies when we have told them they can do whatever they want? I believe today’s kids are intelligent enough to make wise decisions about their own futures. But, before they decide, they must have all the options, and this includes God’s plan for sex.” In Safe Sex? Don’t Buy the Lie! the world’s idea of “safe sex” is leading our kids to a poor self-image, and many unwanted pregnancies. If we don’t help these kids make wise decisions, we can count ourselves responsible for the actions of the generation we brought up.”

The Catholic Vision of Love .........................SECTION FIVE  •  Parent Meeting
RESOURCES ON CHILD ABUSE

Print Materials

→ I Can’t Talk About It – A Child’s Story About Sexual Abuse
  by Doris Sanford (www.amazon.com) or the like

  This book is about sexual abuse, healing and learning to trust again. Annie is vacationing at her Grandmother’s beach house when she befriends a white dove. Crying, she tells the dove whom she calls “Love” about what her father does to her. She is ashamed and frightened. Told by a young child to speak to the hearts of other young children

→ Preventing Child Sexual Abuse – Making Safe Choices
  by Mary Lentz (www.peterli.com)

  This book helps parents instruct their children on the skills they need to be safe in a world where the potential for sexual abuse is a reality. Topics are: how abusers choose their victims, identifying signs of sexual abuse and practical ideas for safety of the child.

→ Promise to Protect – Pledge to Heal
  USCCB (United States Conference of Catholic Bishops)
  This document is the charter developed by the Ad Hoc Committee on Sexual Abuse of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) in 2002.

→ I Can’t Talk About It – A Child’s Story About Sexual Abuse
  11 minutes, VHS video, Franciscan Communications, 1990

  This is a story about sexual abuse and healing and learning to trust again. Annie is vacationing at her Grandmother’s beach house when she befriends a white dove. Crying, she tells the dove whom she calls “Love” about what her father does to her. She is ashamed and frightened. Taken from the book by the same name, the story by Doris Sanford with pictures by Graci Evans is told by a young child to speak to the hearts of other young children.

→ Stranger Danger: Playing It Safe
  18 minutes, VHS video, The Media Guild, 1994

  This video shows children exactly what to do when approached by a stranger. Officer Dan takes children from the playground to the mall and even the home to enact potentially dangerous scenarios. Officer Dan clearly explains the safest response in each situation in an informative, non-threatening manner.
Your Family and Cyberspace
(Taken from United States Conference of Catholic Bishops)

Ultimately, the best protection against internet misuse is the presence in your home of an atmosphere of prayer and the sharing of Christian values, in which concerns can be openly discussed by all family members. In this atmosphere, your continued interest and involvement in your children’s internet use will come naturally—even if you are not particularly computer savvy.

The starting point of safe internet use is to recognize that the rules you live by in the real world apply in Cyberspace, too. If you tell your children not to talk to strangers, the same applies on the Internet. Just as you ordinarily expect your children to tell you where they’re going, ask them with whom they log on when they “go out” on the Internet. You listen to your children when they talk about their friends, so listen to them when they talk about what they’re finding on the Internet.

The prospect of wrestling with a computer to make the Internet safe in the home is daunting for many parents. Here are four helpful hints:

- If possible, obtain your internet access through an ISP that excludes at least some of the inappropriate material from one of their “servers” (the computers that provide internet access). Check your yellow pages, and call to see if this service is available in your area.

- Choose an ISP that offers parental control features, and activate them. These can be used to restrict access to chat rooms, newsgroups (a small number of which account for much of the worst material), and some websites.

- Some ISPs offer the possibility of keeping a record of sites visited. If yours has this feature, keep it active. You can use it to double-check sites visited by your children when there is reason for concern.

- Be sure to install filtering software. Popular titles include CyberPatrol, CyberSitter, Net Nanny, Surfwatch, X-Stop, or Rated-PG. Remember that the methods—such as keyword screening or individual assessments—and criteria used by these software packages differ.

None of these steps guarantee that your child won’t be exposed to objectionable internet content, but they are a good start. Even in an imperfect world, they are important because they communicate your values to your children. If parents don’t care about internet use, children will presume that they need not care, either. While protection is essential, it is important to note that filtering software will also restrict the ability to carry out research on the Internet and can inadvertently prevent visits to some beneficial sites.

When it comes to computers, don’t feel self-conscious if your children are leading and you are following—enjoy their knowledge as you would their achievements in sports, music, or any other field. Actually, it might even be enriching and fun—there is a wealth of tremendous information on the Internet about faith, religion, and many other matters. Pursuing it together beats being a couch potato in front of prime-time TV!