

If you can?

If you can have faith in the darkest hour

On the darkest day,

If you can love when you are only given hate,

If you can get back up again

When you feel like you're being pushed down,

Then on the day you need the most help,

The world will be on your side

If you can think about tomorrow

Without losing today,

If you can move on from your

Past mistakes,

If you can dream without falling asleep,

Then you will rule the world

If you failed but tried to succeed,

If you give and not receive,

If you can change who you are

But not lose yourself

Then you will find the never ending path of righteousness, goodness and love.

By Kayla

